U.S. HIGH COURT UPHOLDS CURBS ON CHAIN RADIO

Decision Sustains Power of FCC.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—In a decision governing the radio broadcasting industry, the Supreme court today, in a 5 to 2 opinion, upheld the constitutionality of regulations issued by the federal communications commission to relax the ironclad contracts between the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system and their station affiliates.

The Mutual Broadcasting system had joined with the FCC in attacking the NBC and CBS contracts as contrary to public interest because they bound the stations to carry chain broadcasts and denied them the privilege of carrying other desirable programs.

In the majority opinion, the court cited instances in which Mutual Broadcasting system programs, such as the 1939 world series games, and the American Forum of the Air, have been denied stations wishing to carry them thru the restrictions of network arrangements with NBC or CBS.

[Reaction of leaders of the broadcasting chains to the decision is on page 6.]

Chains Question Authority.

In the case before the court, NBC and CBS contended that the commission lacked authority under the federal communications act of 1934 to promulgate the regulations which provide in general that no licenses shall be granted to stations or applicants having specified relationships with networks.

In appealing from the decision of federal District court for the southern district of New York, upholding the regulations, NBC and CBS also declared that the regulation abridged their right of free speech in violation of the first amendment.

The regulations were issued May 2, 1941, but enforcement has been stayed since the present suits were filed on Oct. 30, 1941.

Dissent Questions Jurisdiction.

The majority opinion of the court was delivered by Justice Felix Frankfurter on behalf of himself and Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, and Justices Stanley F. Reed, William O. Douglas, and Robert H. Jackson.

A dissenting opinion was filed by Justice Frank Murphy, with Justice Owen J. Roberts joining. The minority contended that the FCC exceeded the powers which congress intended it to exercise, and, granting that the network affiliation agreements may be monopolistic or otherwise undesirable, declared that it is for congress to correct the situation by legislation rather than by edict of the commission.

Opinion by Frankfurter.

In the court's opinion, Frankfurter declared:

"The avowed aim of the communications act of 1934 was to secure the maximum benefits of radio to all the people of the United States. To that end congress endowed the communications commission with comprehensive powers to promote and realize the vast potentialities of radio. The act gave the commission not niggardly but expansive powers. We conclude that the communications act of 1934 authorized the commission to promulgate regulations designed to correct the abuses disclosed by its investigation of chain broadcasting.

"Our duty is at an end when we find that the action of the commission was based upon findings supported by evidence, and was made pursuant to authority granted by congress. It is not for us to say that the "public interest" will be furthered or retarded by the chain broadcasting regulations. The responsibility belongs to the congress for the grant of valid legislative authority, and to the commission for its exercise."

Answers Speech Freedom Issue.

As the contention of NBC and CBS that freedom of speech was being abridged, Frankfurter said:

"Freedom of utterance is abridged to many who wish to use the limited facilities of radio. Unlike other modes of expression, radio inherently is not available to all. That is its unique characteristic, and that is why, unlike other modes of expression, it is subject to governmental regulation."

In the dissenting opinion, Murphy declared that the commission was invading the field of the justice department and the courts in attacking what might be considered monopolistic conditions and warned that this was an extension of power by the FCC in regulating business practices of the major networks and brings within the range of its regulatory power the chain broadcasting industry as a whole. Murphy said he was convinced congress did not grant the FCC authority to issue the regulations in question, and declared:

"The conditions disclosed by the commission's investigation, if they require correction, should be met, not by the invention of authority where none is available or by diverting existing powers out of their true channels and using them for purposes to which they were not addressed, but by invoking the aid of the congress or the service of agencies that have been entrusted with the enforcement of the anti-trust laws."

Justices Hugo Black and Wiley B. Rutledge did not participate in the case or decision.

BARRACKS HIT AT SAN DIEGO MARINE BASE

Craft Plows Thru Mess Halls.

San Diego, Cal., May 10 (AP).—Four persons were killed and 63 injured today when an army experimental plane crashed and burst into flames in the recruit hut area of the United States marine corps base.

Witnesses at Lindbergh field said the plane was unable to get into the air after a run and smashed thru the marine base into a group of temporary buildings and burst into flames.

Assistant Fire Chief George Courser said that the plane cut a swath of about 800 feet thru an area of mess halls and small barracks—each of the latter containing 8 to 12 men.

Most of Victims Marines.

"The place looked as tho a cyclone struck it," Courser said.

Three of the dead and 57 of the injured were marines. The fourth fatality was R. A. McMakin, Hinsdale, Ill., high school graduate, pilot of the plane for Vultee Aircraft corporation. Six other crewmen, two of them Chicagoans, completed the toll of injured. The two former Chicagoans, employed by Vultee, are James Woodall of 5915 South Winchester avenue, a graduate of Lindblom High school, and William F. Chana of 1507 South Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, a graduate of Morton Township High school.

Formerly with United Airlines, McMakin, who was piloting the ship, had extensive ocean flying experience. He recently returned from a tour of the South Pacific on which he piloted two army officers.

Wooden Plane Falls Apart.

Louisville, Ky., May 10 (AP).—An experimental troop and cargo plane built mainly of wood at the Curtiss-Wright corporation factory here carried three civilian crewmen to death late today when it crashed 10 miles from here. Lt. Col. J. S. Dexter, director of production for the army at the plant, said the plane "apparently fell to pieces in the air."

Balloon Burns; 3 Die.

Haddonfield, N. J., May 10 (AP).—Three navy officers were burned to death today when a free balloon, inflated with hydrogen, burst into flames and exploded as it was landing in a field northeast of here. Their names were withheld by the navy pending notification of next of kin.

5 Killed in Bomber Crash.

Portland, Ore., May 10 (AP).—The crew of five was killed today in the crash of an army medium bomber on a routine flight near Sprague, Wash., the Portland air base said tonight. The plane crashed shortly after taking off from Geiger field, Spokane, to return to Portland. Witnesses said the plane exploded as it hit the ground.

Peoria Flyer Killed.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 10 (AP).—A marine aviator and two naval crewmen were killed when their plane crashed on a routine training flight yesterday, officials of the Jacksonville naval air station announced today. They included 2d Lt. Donald Henry Cler, 21 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cler, of Peoria, Ill.; and Harvey Earl Fargo, aviation radioman 3d class, son of Mrs. E. B. Fargo, Manitowoc, Wis.

Bomber Crashes in Missouri.

Shreveport, La., May 10 (AP).—The five man crew of a medium bomber from Barksdale field took to parachutes shortly before the plane crashed early tonight 10 miles east of West Plains, Mo., the Barksdale public relations office said. Three flyers landed safely, a fourth suffered minor injuries, and the fifth is missing. Those who landed unhurt were: 2d Lt. B. W. Allgood, pilot; Staff Sergt. J. W. Arnold, gunner, and Sergt. W. W. Krause, radio-gunner. The twin engine plane burned after it fell.

Four Parachute to Safety.

Pocatello, Idaho, May 10 (AP).—Four army airmen, including Sergt. George J. Donna, 23 years old, of Joliet, Ill., who parachuted from their plane Saturday night before it crashed 80 miles south of Burley, Idaho, were found by searchers today. None was in serious condition.

Spring Makes Joke Book of the Almanac!

BY BEN MARKLAND.

A great many farmers are going to throw their almanacs into kitchen stoves this spring.

The almanacs advise the farmers to plant corn when the oak leaves are the size of a mouse's ear and the Osage hedge leaves are as large as a squirrel's ear. The same kitchen booklets advise the planting of potatoes on Good Friday and tell fishermen to go north for white bass when the plum trees are in bloom.

Tardy Spring Upsets Plans.

But this year the tardiness of spring has made the almanacs into joke books. Corn planting time is here and the oak buds have just started to enlarge; most farmers planted their potatoes about two weeks after Good Friday; and it has been so cold and wet that hundreds of Chicagoland farmers are just completing the job of planting oats when in most years they have all their oats seeded by mid-April.

However, gardeners have one consolation. The weather man expects the rain to end this forenoon.

There are many proofs of the lateness of spring this year. Roy Nordine, plant propagator of the Morton Arboretum, Lisle, Ill., looked into the institution's diary yesterday and discovered that wild crab trees were in full bloom last year on April 30, whereas they now are still in the bud stage.

Redbud Trees Far Behind.

The redbud trees on the arboretum grounds were at their height last year on April 27, but this year they are not yet in full bloom. Last spring the common French lilacs were open on May 4, but even with warm weather for the next week they will not open this season until May 15 to 17.

Other records in the arboretum diary show that the flowering dogwood lived up to its name last year on May 5. Spring frosts this season have damaged these flowers, which are now opening on a 50 per cent schedule. The two outer petals of the dogwood flowers have been killed, but two remaining petals will open this week if the weatherman relents.

The common hawthorn flowers were in full dress on April 30 last year; this year they're still in bud stage. The white birch and wild plum records are similar to those of the haws.

August Koch, retired chief horticulturist of the Chicago park district, another tree flower record keeper, said yesterday that this year's cherry blossoming date, May 6, was the latest he has recorded in 30 years. Apple and pear trees, which usually come into flower from a week to two weeks after the cherry trees, have caught up with their white flowered neighbors this season.

And, Koch warns, gardeners should watch tomorrow, Thursday and Friday for very cool weather and possibly frost. Market gardeners refer to those dates—May 12, 13, and 14—as "The Three Icemen" because of the frequency with which frosts occur thereon, and usually wait until after May 15 to plant snap beans, which are susceptible to cool weather and frosts.

THERE'S NO SUCH WEATHER, BUT IN ALASKA THERE IS

AT AN ADVANCED ALEUTIAN BASE, April 30 [Delayed]—(AP).—"The boys who lace together the weather text books never got a taste of the Aleutians," said Bombardier Deon W. Hendricks, 29, Riverside, Cal., pushing back his tin plate and pulling on his pipe for comfort while a 30 mile wind rattled the snow against the tin roof.

"Remember our physics books saying you can't have fog in a seven knot wind?" observed Lt. Comm. Jack Dorsey, 36, Jacksonville, Fla. "I've steamed thru an Aleutian fog in a 30 knot wind."

"Here's another for the weather professors," said 1st Lt. James A. Ryan, 29, of Batavia, Ill. "In the Bering sea waves pile up 80 feet high. They say in text books that's impossible."

Guinea Yanks Put 66 Pct. of Pay in Bonds

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, May 9 [Delayed].—We were passing a tent when a voice from the gloom said, "Hey!" So we halted and peered within.

The voice proved to be that of Sergt. Ernest Traylor of Wedowee, Ala., and he said: "Could you put a little piece in the paper about our war bond sales?"

"Sure," we said, so here it is.

Bond sales among the enlisted men of the bombing unit to which Traylor is attached last month totaled more than $12,000—approximately 66 per cent of the enlisted men's pay roll for the entire month. The March total was within $8.75 of $12,000, or approximately 64 per cent of the enlisted men's pay roll for the entire month.

Dice Buy $1,000 Bond.

This does not include bonds that were also bought under the allotment plan. Thirty-two per cent of the enlisted men in this unit have an arrangement whereby a certain sum each month goes into bonds.

The high man last month was Corp. Otto Perry of Navarro county, Texas. He bought a $1,000 bond, which, Traylor said, was paid for partly with money Perry won playing poker. Perry denied this somewhat indignantly and said:

"No, I had them little dice talkin' that night."

Several men own more than $4,000 worth.

Officers Not Included.

The amazing record of this unit—which is only one of many units making similar purchases here—does not include purchases made by officers.

Traylor said he thought one of the reasons these men are buying so many bonds is their desire to have more equipment flow to the South Pacific.

Britons Offer Even Money Nazis Will Lose War in '44

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—The allied victory in Tunisia caused a spurt today in wagering on the end of the war. Some brokers offered even money that Italy would be knocked out of the conflict by the end of the year and Germany would be defeated by November, 1944. Numerous bets were reported in "the city"—London's financial district—where the certainty of victory caused a rally in bonds of occupied countries.

Tells How Six Generals Gave Up to Yankees

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES AT PORTO-FARINA, Tunisia, May 10.—German and Italian soldiers were still streaming out of the hills today to surrender to the Americans around this little coastal fishing village east of Bizerte.

All day and tonight the roads were jammed with trucks, donkey drawn carts and horses carrying prisoners back to the enclosures. It was estimated that at least 25,000 Germans and 2,000 Italians were taken captive yesterday and today in the American 2d corps area which was north of the Medjerda river.

This was the greatest number of enemy personnel ever captured by any American army corps. Huge quantities of booty and guns of all sizes were also taken.

One of Proudest Regiments.

The bag of prisoners included six Nazi generals and other high officers. Among them was Gen. Von Vaerst, commander of the 5th panzer [armored] army and chief of all the axis forces around Bizerte.

Others were Maj. Gen. Willibald Borowiecz, who had commanded the 15th panzer division, one of the crack German units; Maj. Gen. Fritz Krause, commander of artillery in the Bizerte area; Maj. Gen. Kurt Baumsenge, commander of an anti-aircraft division; Lt. Gen. Bulowicz, commander of the Mannteuffel infantry division, and Maj. Hans Baier, the commander of the Barenthin regiment.

The Barenthin was one of the proudest regiments in the German army, its nucleus being the paratroopers who were veterans of the Holland and Crete campaigns.

Some Prisoners Arrogant.

Some of the prisoners today were still arrogant, but the great majority were jovial and glad to be out of the war. They surrendered voluntarily and our military police said there had been no attempts at escape.

Prisoners taken by the Americans include elements of the 10th, 15th, and 21st German armored divisions, the crack Barenthin regiment, and reconnaissance elements of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering's division.

On a windswept hill two miles southeast of Ferryville in the Bizerte sector an historical scene was enacted yesterday.

First German Appears.

Just before noon a touring car with a Red Cross emblem taped on the front climbed the slope from the road girdling Lake Bizerte. A short, tired looking man stepped out. He wore the gray green field dress of the German army, an Iron Cross hung about his neck, and "Afrika Korps" was sewn on his right sleeve. His epaulets and gold braid were those of a major general in Adolf Hitler's forces.

He walked rapidly for 50 yards thru a wheat field toward a tent outside of which stood another major general, this one wearing the two silver stars of the American army. The latter was in a helmet, field jacket, and field trousers and

OPA RESCINDS PLEA TO CONVERT FROM OIL TO COAL HEAT

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown announced today that home owners will not be asked to convert oil burners to coal or wood next winter. This constituted a major reversal of last winter's oil policy in the 30 states where oil was rationed.

Brown said "while the fuel oil shortage remains serious—even critical in places—the supply of coal and wood that can be made available in certain areas has been reduced to the point where it is now inadvisable to force further conversion of certain types of burners to these fuels."

He said other reasons for the change of policy was the lack of local coal delivery facilities, the shortage of materials for conversion, and the man power shortage making it difficult to get conversion equipment installed.

YANKS FINISH OPERATIONS IN NORTH TUNISIA

British Press Foe on Peninsula.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, May 10. — Deserted by the German air force, tightly blockaded by sea, under 24 hour aerial assault, and their northern armies captured or annihilated by the Americans, the German forces south of Tunis today were fighting a fierce rear guard action toward their last stand on the Cape Bon peninsula.

Even in this sector an estimated 80,000 troops stood in danger of being cut to pieces by the British and French as their comrades were by the Yanks in the north. More than 50,000 troops have been captured by the allies since Friday.

Congratulations to Bradley.

Maj. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the American 2d army corps, said American operations in Tunisia are finished. Only small hill pockets of resistance are left along his corps front and they have been ordered by their captured generals to surrender.

Bradley today received congratulatory messages from Gen. Eisenhower, allied commander in chief; Gen. Harold Alexander, commander of allied ground forces, and Lt. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson, commander of the British 1st army.

Alexander, in command of ground forces, said: "Well done, indeed. I and all the 18th army group [all allied forces] are delighted at your wonderful success in the north, culminating in the capture of Bizerte. Your corps played the major part in this great victory and I want to express to every single officer and man in your command my gratitude and thanks."

British Armor Closes In.

When asked whether the great quantity of prisoners was not a nuisance, Bradley smiled and replied:

"Yes. But lots less nuisance than when they were in the hills."

British armor is still hitting south trying to cross the 25 mile peninsula neck and thus envelop the axis divisions between the Tunis and Enfidaville line.

South of Tunis one British armored force still was engaged in fierce fighting along the high ground south of Hammam Lif and the edge of the peninsula's neck. Another British armored force, which had taken Creteville, was pushing southward and its patrols have advanced 12 miles south of that town.

French Find Resistance.

On the southwestern edge of the pocket, Gen. Marie Louis Koeltz's French troops were finding the enemy artillery still powerful, but were making progress east from Zaghouan, altho the enemy was holding in some strength a hill seven miles northwest of Zaghouan. South of the town, too, there was heavy fighting.

Along the 8th army's front patrolling continued, altho Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's men made a small local advance seven miles north of Enfidaville and captured some German prisoners.

[The allied controled Algiers radio in a broadcast reported by the British Reuters news agency said that "in the southern sector enemy resistance ceased soon after (Monday) midday." There was no immediate clarification of the report and no exact information on what was meant by "the southern sector." The Algiers radio said also that axis prisoners were coming in at the rate of 1,000 an hour, presumably in the American sector.]

On Cape Bon peninsula the position of the enemy is precarious in the extreme. Hundreds of enemy troops have tried putting to sea in small boats or motor barges only to have their craft sunk by aerial assault or the guns of naval forces.

As with the forces which surrendered to the Yanks, the enemy on the peninsula may have the same orders, "Hold out as long as your ammunition lasts."

And it is a question of how many supplies and how much food and ammunition these troops have been able to store among the peninsula's hills. It is known that for the last month they have been driving herds of cattle and sheep into the hills and stacking up grain. The navy is determined to prevent any ships reaching them.

Doubt a "Dunkirk" Attempt.

Attempts by the beleaguered troops to escape by sea are not taken here as any evidence that the Nazis will try a Dunkirk. Ships are not available and discipline still is holding the bulk of the force together, altho there is growing evidence from their activities on the beaches that our aerial attacks are beginning to disorganize some of the troops.

Without opposition except from anti-aircraft fire allied fighters and bombers roamed at will up and down the 45 mile long peninsula. Their bullets and bombs destroyed the few remaining aircraft found on the abandoned air fields.

On the east side of the peninsula one small warship torpedoed an enemy ship in the Hamida anchorage and watched it blow up. Early yesterday another navy boat sank a barge full of troops, oil, and ammunition 30 miles northeast of Cape Bon.

Tell of Palermo Damage.

Repeating their big raid of Sunday on Mussolini's fortified island of Pantelleria, the desert air force sent another 100 bombers over to blast that target. Not one plane came up to meet them, but from the burning hangars and planes smoke rose 4,000 feet in the air.

Assessment of the damage done by the heaviest bomber raid of the campaign, yesterday's 400 plane attack on Palermo, Sicily, showed:

One oil storage tank afire, two dock fires, a ship exploded in the harbor, a gasoline storage tank explosion, an explosion at an army headquarters building, and craters over railroad yards and industrial targets.

Lt. Col. J. K. Brown of Midland, Tex., a bombing expert sent from Washington, D. C., to study precision bombing here, who went along on the raid, said:

"The whole mission was carried out precisely. I was impressed at the speed of the ships and didn't think they could get so many over the target and still maintain control. All bombs from our flight hit right in the target area which was roughly 98 city blocks."

Two Flying Forts Collide.

Only one mishap marred the raid. During the bombing run, while the sky was jammed with planes, two Flying Fortresses slid too close to each other. The nose of one was clipped and the other lost part of its tail, but returned home safely.

One noted Fortress known as "Holy Joe," piloted by Lt. George L. Peabody of Helena, Mont., which was making its 50th mission crash landed on its return. It was the second crash landing for Holy Joe and each time the crew was saved.

A communique of the 9th United States air force issued at Cairo said American Liberator bombers attacked the Sicilian harbor of Messina in daylight on Sunday, hitting the ferry slip, a locomotive roundhouse and other targets. All American planes returned safely.

TELL OF SURRENDER.

The German and Italian high commands told of the surrender of the German and Italian troops pocketed south of Bizerte, but said they fought until their ammunition was spent in a vain battle against fresh and highly superior tank formations which operated with strong air support.

The Berlin radio last night said that resistance of German and Italian troops who have "withdrawn into the mountains southeast of Tunis and to the peninsula of Cape Bon is yet unbroken," and that counter-attacks had ironed out dents made in the new axis lines on Sunday by British tanks.

German heavy bombers were reported to have fired warehouses and ships in a raid on the allied Algerian port of Bone. Twenty allied planes were reported shot down over Sicily.

The Italian communique said "very heavy damage" was caused by allied raids on Palermo and Pantelleria.

AXIS AFRICAN LOSSES SET AT 750,000 TROOPS

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—The axis has lost more than 750,000 troops in the retreat from Africa which began with the reconquest of Ethiopia. The figure is based on official announcements and authoritative estimates of killed, wounded, and prisoners.

In East Africa the axis lost 280,000 troops, including 200,000 Negroes. Casualties in North Africa were estimated at 426,000, not including the announcement that 50,000 had been captured around Bizerte and Tunis. The casualties roughly are in the proportion of three Italians to one German.

Losses in axis material since the beginning of the Mediterranean campaign total more than 2,000 tanks, 5,000 aircraft shot down in combat and additional thousands destroyed on the ground, and close to 1,500 guns, according to authoritative figures.

Chicago Marine Captain in Solomons Commended

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Marine corps headquarters announced yesterday that a Chicagoan serving with a marine aircraft group has been commended for meritorious conduct and "skillful and effective performance of duty" in the Solomon Islands area last December. He is Capt. David B. Decker, whose wife, Kathryn G. Decker, lives at 2637 Estes avenue, Chicago.

GERMAN TROOPS SUFFER ON ALL FRONTS—HITLER

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Adolf Hitler reported Nazi soldiers to be experiencing "superhuman sufferings" at the various fronts in an appeal to the German people yesterday for German Red Cross war relief funds.

He made the appeal in a statement datelined "the fuehrer's headquarters." The appeal was broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

"Demands made on the German people at home are also very heavy as regards work and sacrifice," Hitler said.

"All sacrifices, however, are nothing as compared with the privations and sufferings which our soldiers in the east [the Russian front] now have had to undergo for a second time."

Hitler said the allied air offensive had been carried to German cities and villages.

"All their sacrifices, however, cannot be compared with the superhuman sufferings under which our soldiers at the various fronts, particularly in the east, have to fight," he said.

DUTCH QUEEN SEEKS ALLIED RELIEF FOR CONQUERED EUROPE

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—Creation soon of a "complete, adequate united nations organization" to bring relief to the Nazi occupied nations of Europe was urged today by Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.

In an address marking the third anniversary of the invasion of the Low Countries, which now are under added tension as the result of German decreed martial law, the queen said the appointment of Herbert H. Lehman as United States director of foreign relief and rehabilitation "has brought the first ray of hope to the hearts of those who are so cruelly oppressed."

"I hope it may soon be followed by the establishment of a complete, adequate united nations organization, and above all by action," said the queen.

TRIBUNE WRITER TELLS STORY OF NAZI SURRENDER

Accept Terms of Yank Armored Force Chief.

dead weary after spending all the night in the hills with his men.

The German halted, clicked his heels, and gave the American salute. The American commander returned that salute. The German, thru an interpreter, announced that he had come to surrender.

The American, also thru an interpreter, asked: "Do you understand that surrender must be unconditional?"

The German nodded confirmation.

"That's all," said the American.

Thus did the major general commanding the American 1st armored division accept the surrender of Maj. Gen. Borowiecz.

[Borowiecz yesterday had been erroneously reported to have surrendered to the British 7th armored division.]

Artillery Chief Yields.

A moment later Col. Martin Eder, who had come with Borowiecz, gave up in a similar manner the 755th grenadier regiment.

And in a little while Maj. Gen. Krause arrived to yield his force, while Col. Joseph Irkens did the same for the 8th tank regiment.

The American general waved them all away from his tent. The Germans sat in their cars, nervously smoking cigarets, and later were transferred to the officer prisoners enclosure.

The order to cease fire on the armored division's front came at 11:40 a. m. Here are the dramatic circumstances leading up to it: At 9:50 a. m. three of Krause's staff officers came thru the American lines in a car carrying a white flag of truce. They asked the general what the terms of surrender were.

"Unconditional surrender," he said. "No sabotage of equipment by the Germans. No attempt to evacuate troops by sea. We will kill any trying to get out. We will not take them prisoners."

The American general sent his chief of staff with the emissaries. Among those riding in the jeeps with him and the Germans was 1st Lt. Albert Klein, 917 Ridgeland avenue, Waukegan, Ill., of the army signal corps. There was also a radio transmission car.

To Nazi Command Post.

The party drove 25 miles to Krause's command post near Djebel El Fraouar in the neck of land east of Bizerte where American armored forces had split the German forces during the night. Krause commanded the south in that area and Borowiecz the north.

"Guns were booming all about us," the Yank chief of staff related later. "Shells were landing near the German command post. We drove into the forest and there under a tree were Krause and his staff lined up stiffly.

Krause saluted. I returned his salute. He extended his hand. I was so surprised I shook hands. I communicated the terms for surrender. Thru the interpreter he agreed. I told him he had 20 minutes to get his staff together and pick up headquarters. Then I talked with the [American] general by radio."

Story of American General.

The [American] general now takes up the narrative.

"When I got this message, I said: 'What about that man in the north? Is he ready to surrender?' [This was a reference to Borowiecz who already was on his way to give up.]

"I then talked with Maj. Gen. Bradley, whom I had previously informed of Krause's offer. I said: 'I can knock hell out of them by dark.' Bradley okayed the surrender. I told my chief of staff, okay. It was 11:40 a. m."

Now the [American] chief of staff speaks again:

"On the way back with Krause and his staff I saw the Germans burning some of their equipment. I told Krause to order them to stop or we would open fire.

"He called the field officers over and transmitted my order. One officer protested: 'Why should we give up all this equipment to the damned Americans?' But he carried out Krause's order. When we arrived at our command post and after the Germans had officially surrendered, we fed them steak, potatoes, spinach, and coffee. They were as amazed at such treatment as they had been on their ride at viewing all of our equipment."

Some Disobey: Shelled.

The American general said that one contingent of Germans were disobeying the surrender terms and attempting to embark at Porto-Farina. Our artillery opened fire and destroyed them. The general sent out Maj. Clifford Curtis of Auburndale, Mass., with a German officer to notify all enemy units of the cessation of hostilities.

It was a hectic morning for the [armored force] general but his reward was soon to come. Gen. Bradley drove up in a jeep and said:

"Congratulations, old boy. A magnificent job."

Bradley added with a grin, "Are you the guy who impeded my progress here with all those German prisoners on the road?"

Then Bradley and the general walked together down the hill—a hill without a name, but destined forever to be a peak in American military annals.

Liberated Yankee Soldiers Are Happiest Men in Tunis

TUNIS, Tunisia, May 9 [Delayed] (AP).—Liberated Tunis is a hysterically happy city today and none here are happier than American soldiers who, as prisoners of war, were ready to be transported to Italy when British armored forces burst into the capital and axis troops fled.

Hundreds of United States troops were in prison camps near the outskirts of Tunis when British tanks drove into sight. Their German and Italian guards threw down their guns and announced calmly:

"We are your prisoners now."

Scores of others were on at least two ships in the Tunis harbor, ready for shipment to Italy. The ships never sailed because American bombers were raining almost certain destruction on vessels attempting to venture across the Sicilian straits. The bombers had destroyed escorting warships and compelled the two prison ships to turn back.

Tells of Prison Experience.

Typical of the stories told was that of Corp. Peter Brescia of Brooklyn:

"We were taken when the Germans attacked our hill near Mateur. We were brought to a prison camp near Tunis and spent two days with nothing to eat except peas and, believe me, there were plenty of rocks in the peas. The Red Cross finally brought us some macaroni.

"One night a bunch of us Americans and British were marched to a boat and told we were being taken to Italy. We spent the night aboard but nothing happened. I speak Italian, so I asked the Italian captain when we were going to sail. He said we were awaiting escort ships.

"Then our bombers came over and really made things hot. The captain moved the ship three times. Later the escort ships arrived but our bombers came over again and sank nearly every one of them.

"After that, the American bombers came over most of the time and bombed the ships for three days. One bomb knocked out our ship's guns and the Italian captain gave up then and ran the ship aground off La Goulette. He removed the crew, leaving only one Italian soldier to guard us—550 men.

"This soldier quickly handed over his gun to us and said: 'Now I am your prisoner.' But that didn't make things easier for us.

"The bombs killed some of our men and once, when a tugboat approached, our bombers appeared and sank it.

"The Germans and Italians on the whole, treated us all right, even if the grub was lousy. They finally brought out a boat and took off all the wounded and at last, another boat showed up and took off the others.

"About then the British got into town and we were turned loose."

Others Outside Tunis.

After being freed Brescia and a companion, Pvt. Joseph Lasek of Cohoes, N. Y., picked up two discarded German rifles and charged more than 100 Germans, but all of them were ready to surrender.

The majority of the other American captives remained in a prison camp just outside Tunis and heard the gunfire as the British drew near.

Sergt. Stanley Jaskield of Newcastle, Pa., said that when it became apparent the British really were driving in "our German guards threw their rifles on the ground, apparently very disgusted, and told us they were willing that we should change over and they would be our prisoners."

$50,000 VERDICT FOR WRITER SET ASIDE BY COURT

Libel Award by Jury Is Nullified.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10 [Special]. — The $50,000 libel verdict which John O'Donnell of the New York Daily News won against the Philadelphia Record on Jan. 29, despite a New Deal smear campaign against him and White House support of his opponent, was set aside today by the Court of Common Pleas.

In Washington, D. C., the newspaper man's counsel, Louis G. Caldwell, said that he and Mr. O'Donnell "are agreed that an appeal to the Supreme court of Pennsylvania should and will be taken in an effort to have the verdict upheld."

O'Donnell long has been a target of New Deal maligners because, as head of the Washington bureau of the New York News, he opposed this country's participation in the European war before Pearl Harbor. The publisher of the Philadelphia Record, J. David Stern, is a friend of President Roosevelt and was a visitor at the White House while the case was pending.

Places Error on Judge.

In setting aside the verdict and granting the Record a new trial, President Judge L. Stauffer of Common Pleas court No. 7 ruled that the trial judge, Joseph Sloane, erred in admitting certain points of testimony and in instructions to the jury concerning damages.

Attorneys for the Record had moved for a new trial immediately after the verdict was returned last January by a jury of eight men and four women who heard nine days of testimony that filled a 1,400 page record.

Counsel for the Record declared there had been a "palpable miscarriage of justice," because, he said, the jury gave insufficient consideration to the evidence. To a statement of O'Donnell's counsel that "the honor of the jury has been impeached," Judge Sloan replied: "There is no question of the integrity of the jury."

Suit Based on Editorial.

O'Donnell brought suit against the Record on the basis of an editorial published April 28, 1941, in that newspaper. The editorial was based on a news story O'Donnell wrote in which he asserted that charges would be made in the senate that American warships were convoying lend-lease materials to England.

The next day Stephen Early, White House press secretary, branded the story "a deliberate lie" and declared he spoke for the President. On the following day the charges of the warship convoy were made in the senate by Sen. Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.].

The Philadelphia Record used Early's words as the title of a front page editorial, which J. David Stern, publisher of the paper, admitted he wrote himself. The editorial referred to O'Donnell as a "Naziphile" and charged that he favored "destruction of the British empire." It also accused him of anti-Semitism and of being an opponent of labor.

Mistrial Is Granted.

O'Donnell's suit was brought to trial last November, but on the second day of the trial an article in the Record, stating the amount sought in the suit, was construed to be prejudicial to O'Donnell's case. Altho O'Donnell's attorneys did not take advantage of this technicality, attorneys for the Record used it to petition for a mistrial, despite the fact the offense had been the newspaper's. The mistrial was granted.

In the days preceding the second trial, the White House assisted in gathering witnesses against O'Donnell, who, previous to this matter, had incurred White House displeasure for his noninterventionist views.

Secretary Early, who already had given a deposition in the case, was sent to Philadelphia to testify. Ulric Bell, head of the Los Angeles, Cal., office of the office of war information, was sent across the country to aid Stern. Gardner Jackson, employé of the department of agriculture, who has received prominence for his radical views, also was sent to Philadelphia. The day the verdict was returned in O'Donnell's favor, Jackson was out of federal employment.

Charge White House Pressure.

The administration also canvassed friends and acquaintances of O'Donnell as possible witnesses. In efforts to obtain such witnesses it was said that the company in which they would find themselves would be good, because it would be headed by Early.

O'Donnell reported that one of his witnesses regretfully informed him the White House had "put the heat" on his employer, with the result it was "suggested" he stay away from Philadelphia.

On virtually the eve of the trial, President Roosevelt astounded the Washington press corps by presenting a Nazi iron cross to O'Donnell thru a radio commentator. The award was made, the President said, because of an item O'Donnell had published about George Durno, a former White House correspondent, and White House favorite who now is a captain in the army air forces.

Correspondents Incensed.

The item consisted of a letter written to O'Donnell by Durno and Jack Turcott, a New York Daily News war correspondent in Australia. In the letter Turcott jokingly accused Durno of drinking all the correspondent's scotch and, Durno countered that Turcott was irked because his gentleman's gentleman had failed to draw a morning bath of proper temperature.

Washington correspondents were quick to recognize that the mention of Durno served to cloak Presidential branding of O'Donnell as a Nazi just before his trial was to begin. They were incensed by the President's action and regarded it as a new low in his campaign of vilification of correspondents who have incurred his displeasure.

It was remarked that Stern was a visitor at the White House a day or two before the iron cross episode. During the ensuing trial counsel for the paper sought to persuade the jury that the President was personally interested in the outcome of the case in behalf of his friend.

Attempts to Settle Suit.

Judge Joseph Sloane, a Democrat supported by Stern, presided at the trial. During the proceedings he called counsel for the plaintiff and the defense into chambers and attempted to persuade them to reach a settlement, based on a mild retraction unsatisfactory to O'Donnell.

The judge ruled out the charges of pro-Nazi, anti-Semitic, and anti-labor as having been made in good faith by the newspaper. He gave the paper much leeway in using hearsay conversations to try to prove its case and his rulings made it most difficult for O'Donnell's lawyers to disprove and explain the hearsay conversations.

In instructions to the jury, the judge ruled out nearly every suggestion offered by O'Donnell's attorneys and adopted practically every one offered by counsel for the record.

Another Mistrial Effort.

Before the verdict was read the newspaper's attorneys asked for the declaration of another mistrial because a court attaché informed the judge he had learned the jurors had reached a verdict within a few minutes after they started deliberations.

Attorneys for O'Donnell countered by stating that if a court attaché had heard any jury deliberation he had done so in violation of his oath and should be subjected to prosecution. After the verdict was read the jurors revealed that the report was untrue, asserting they had pondered both the verdict and the amount of damages.

LET'S SWAP ROLE OF BOSS, GIRAUD TELLS DE GAULLE

ALGIERS, Algeria, May 10 (AP).—Gen. Henri Giraud has offered Gen. Charles De Gaulle a "swap arrangement" under which the two leaders would alternate as boss of the French forces fighting with the allies, it was disclosed tonight.

Giraud has insisted, however, that this should be a temporary setup with all concerned ready to turn over their power to a provisional government to be chosen by the French people as soon as France is liberated. The offer was embodied in an appendix to Giraud's reply to De Gaulle's proposals made available to the Associated Press.

Under the scheme, two big jobs were suggested for the temporary setup—president of a French council and president of a committee charged with executing the council's orders. Giraud suggested that De Gaulle and himself take turns at both jobs, switching from time to time. In the main memorandum, Giraud rejected De Gaulle's proposal for establishment of a provisional government at once.

30 MILLION PAID PRINT SHOPS BY U.S. SINCE 1940

Commercial printers have aided greatly in preparing government printed materials for use in the war, A. E. Giegengack, public printer of the United States, said yesterday in an address at the opening session of the 38th annual meeting of the Lithographers National association in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

"Since October, 1940, the amount paid to commercial printers and lithographers thru the government printing office has reached the staggering figure of $30,213,044," he said. "This went to 1,054 contractors in 253 cities, and represents 11,523 separate orders, but does not include the cost of paper and plates."

Giegengack predicted that by the end of 1943 the government office, with its 8,000 employés, will have handled $25,000,000 in printing while an additional $35,00,000 will be given out in contracts.

Mr., Them's Fightin' Birds, So Put Up Your Guns

Wymore, Neb., May 10 (AP).—Pigeons being trained by the Blue Valley Racing club for war use with the United States Signal corps are seeing some real action. Of 43 birds entered in the last homing pigeon race, one returned several days late with a bullet in its body and six others returned wounded. Altogether 35 choice birds are missing. The club has appealed to hunters to shoot at something else so the pigeons will have a chance at the axis.

HALIFAX SAYS NAZI COAST LINE CAN BE PIERCED

Defenses Must Crumble, Envoy Asserts.

Hitler's coastline defenses in the "fortress of Europe" will be no more invincible than was the Maginot line, British Ambassador Halifax predicted yesterday at a luncheon sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and Chicago council on foreign relations in the Hotel Sherman.

Halifax pointed out that when axis propagandists talk of the fortress of Europe and the difficulties of invasion it is useful to recall one fact.

"There once was a Maginot line" he said. "It had been heavily fortified, far more heavily than it is possible to fortify the coast of Europe. Its garrison, at any point, was much larger than Hitler can spare at any point for the defense of his 'fortress.' Its length was as nothing in comparison with the length of that coastline. Many people thought it was invincible. And they were wrong."

Recalls Turning Point.

The allied triumphs at Bizerte and Tunis, which the British ambassador termed the "turning point in the war," were traced back to a decision of Winston Churchill in the dark days after Dunkirk—a decision," Halifax said, "that will go down among the great events of history"—when it was decided to send Britain's only armored division to the middle east.

"To many it seemed almost an insane act of optimism," Halifax asserted. "It proved to be the highest wisdom. For the men and equipment so sent enabled us to beat off Mussolini's attack, and to begin that long series of operations which finally has brought our armies into Tunis and Bizerte.

The British ambassador said that restoration of Poland is a duty to the cause of peace as well as an act of justice to the Poles. He said that, whereas 150,000 Poles fell in actual fighting, nearly 400,000 Poles and 1,500,000 Polish Jews have died since by execution or of their maltreatment.

Tells Plight of Poles.

Halifax estimated that 2 million Poles have been sent to do forced labor in Germany, 3 million more have been driven from their homes, and 1 million are in concentration camps or prison, so that, of a peace time population of 35 million, more than 8 million have suffered barbarous punishment or death. The rift between Poland and Russia he blamed on Nazi propaganda.

Reviewing the start of lend-lease, when Britain no longer had money to pay cash for war supplies purchased in this country, Halifax said this had developed into a plan whereby "all resources now are pooled and go where they are most needed. Lend-lease has become the equivalent, in the materials field, to the combined strategy planning of our forces."

NO LETUP IN AIR WARFARE, SAYS LT. GEN. DEVERS

LONDON, May 10 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, taking over command of the United States army in Europe, said tonight that "I have only one purpose—to go out and to win the war in the shortest possible time." He left Washington Saturday and reached London tonight.

Gen. Devers, an expert on armored warfare, pledged himself to carry on the policy of his predecessor, the air minded Lt. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, killed a week ago in an air crash in Iceland.

Commenting on the fact that he, an officer strong in the armored tradition, was taking over from an air man, Gen. Devers said that "there's going to be no letup in the air," and he added that "we hope it can be intensified."

Gen. Devers brought with him Col. Tristram Tupper of Los Angeles, who will be the new public relations officer replacing Col. Morrow Krum of Lake Forest, Ill., one of those killed in the Iceland crash; Col. E. L. Hogmel, Knoxville, Tenn., his flying officer, and Maj. E. E. Shumaker, Mercantville, N. J.

DEFEAT IN AFRICA STUNS GERMANY, WRITER ASSERTS

U. S. Fighting Ability Surprises Nazis.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 10 (AP).—The majority of the Germans at home are "walking around as tho hit on the head" at news of the allied victory in North Africa, a Berlin dispatch said tonight. Neutral writers commented that even German generals were surprised by the high fighting ability of the Americans.

At the same time, it was disclosed that the allied successes were a signal for increased resistance in France against the occupation troops.

Blame Nazi Propaganda.

A Berlin dispatch to the Tribune de Geneve said the stunning effect of the axis' loss of Tunis and Bizerte was due largely to the persistence of the Nazi press and propaganda machine in keeping up German hope until the last minute.

The correspondent wrote that the impact of the defeat therefore was far greater than that of Stalingrad, which was long expected and awaited and built up by Nazi propaganda to proportions relative to victory.

In Berlin today, the correspondent said, many were asking: "How could it have happened—what will be the fate of the Afrika corps?"

Europe's neutral press praised the allied leadership and men in Tunisia. The Berne der Bund said that the American fighting ability, which "had not been held highly by Berlin," came as a shock to all axis military leaders.

Incidents in France.

The Gazette de Lausanne said Gen. Eisenhower had fully accomplished his purpose to drive the axis from Africa and reopen the Mediterranean and prepare a springboard for the eventual attack on the European continent.

Dispatches to neutral newspapers told of a series of incidents touched off in France by the allied success.

A frontier dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said that two Italian officers were wounded at Nice in retaliation for establishment of a curfew under which 2,000 persons in the city had been fined $120,000.

At Lyons, a German soldier was killed and several others were wounded. A curfew there closed all theaters and public meeting places. At Clermont-Ferrand, a German major was found dead during the early morning, a bullet in his head, some reports said.

FRANCO MAKES PLEA FOR PEACE; DECLARES NO ONE CAN WIN NOW

Generalissimo Franco.

MADRID, Spain, May 10 (AP).—In an appeal for world peace, Generalissimo Franco said at Almeria last night that the present world-wide conflict has reached a "dead point" and that neither side now has the power to destroy the other.

"Therefore," he said, "it is senseless to delay the peace.

"Abroad, Spain demands a post which corresponds to her history in service, humanity, and worth.

"It is the serene policy which we have followed since the first day of our movement, without abandoning our sovereignty nor our prestige, and which, in these times when the world is a sea of blood and hate, raises its voice, united with that of the holy pontiff, to appeal to the conscience of peoples.

"The world has now undergone three years of war and when this time is passed it is fitting to think of peace, of ending hates and of bringing peoples together."

GOERING TO TAKE ON DEFENSE OF ITALY, SAY REDS

LONDON, May 11 [Tuesday]—(AP). — A Moscow broadcast recorded here today by the soviet monitor said Field Marshal Hermann Goering and Heinrich Himmler, head of the Nazi secret police, are going to Rome to take over the defense of Italy. The broadcast credited a Russian news agency dispatch from Berne, Switzerland.

The dispatch said reorganization of the Italian army, inspection of the air force, airdromes, and naval bases, and fortifications have been entrusted to Goering, while Himmler will try to bring about "stabilization of the internal front" thru a drastic purge of the armed forces, state institutions, corporations, and the Fascist party.

The Russian news agency said the two Nazis would leave shortly to confer with Mussolini and would remain for a long time to direct "emergency measures." An earlier Moscow broadcast last night said Goering already was in Rome.

READS OF STILL WATERS AS SHIP FIGHTS JAP SUB

Chaplain Goes On with Sunday Service.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD A COMBAT TRANSPORT IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC [by airmail]. — The inky blackness fades slowly from the tropical sky, and gradually the grim outline of the transport takes being. A thousand yards off our beams the escorting destroyers emerge from the night, knifing their way thru the seas on a prowl for Jap submarines. It is dawn on a Sunday morning in the combat zone.

As the sun lifts from the sea, the soldiers we carry straggle up the iron ladders to the boat deck. They are young, and hard, and lonely. Each wears a faded life jacket and carries a steel helmet. On the belt of each man is a long, sharp hunting knife for slashing life raft ropes and for dealing with sharks if necessary.

The army chaplain climbs to the small platform aft of the stack. He looks too young to be wearing the double bars of a captain, but his face is sure and steady. He used to have a church in a small village in Indiana. Now he is with his men, bound for an island battlefront.

Soldiers Sing Hymns.

Led by the young chaplain, the soldiers sing several hymns, their voices lifting above the whine of the blowers and the rush of sound which comes up the engine room hatches. Then they sprawl back on the deck and listen quietly as the chaplain opens his pocket Bible and begins the 23d Psalm.

The deadly "daw-daw-daw-daw" of the general alarm breaks the intoning voice. Over the amplifying system comes the cry of the talker on the bridge: "Submarine sound contact, bearing 70 degrees."

Decks resound with the rush of gun crews racing to their battle stations. Off the beams the destroyers hurl a 15 foot wall of foam from their screws as they slash between us and the contact. Then, calmly, comes the chaplain's words again:

". . . He leadeth me beside the still waters."

Punctuating the Psalm comes the metallic clank of projectiles slammed into three inch guns, the ominous snick of breach mechanisms closing for action. The speaker blasts again: "Condition of readiness set thruout the ship . . . all watertight doors and hatches locked closed . . . depth charge stations manned and ready . . ."

". . . Yea, tho I walk thru the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil . . ."

Astern of the racing destroyers great mounds of water boil from the sea, and the dull wumph-wumph of exploding depth charges fills the air.

". . . Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me . . ."

In echelon formation now, the destroyers lay their depth charge pattern, mathematically computed with the contact point as the center. The gun crews watch them hopefully, waiting for the bubbles which may mean a broken submarine trying to surface.

"As You Were."

"Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over . . ."

In response to signals blinked by one of the destroyers, the talker on the bridge disgustedly speaks again over the amplifying system: "Contact lost or damaged . . . Secure from general quarters . . . Set condition two thruout the ship . . . Gun crews stand easy at your guns."

Disappointedly, the men of the gun crews shrug their shoulders, light cigarets, then slouch against the splinter shields as they listen to the last words of the young chaplain:

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

BRITISH FALLING BACK IN BURMA TO INDIA BORDER

NEW DELHI, India, May 10 (AP).—Japanese soldiers have demonstrated once again that they are masters of jungle warfare by compelling British and Indian troops to evacuate Buthedaung, leaving the entire east side of the Mayu peninsula on the Bay of Bengal in enemy hands.

The British troops were falling back steadily toward the Indian frontier, as reports indicated the Japenese had filtered thru a strongly held defense line across the base of the peninsula.

A British communique today said there was no contact with the enemy in the sector east of Mayu ridge yesterday, adding that operations in the coastal area south of Maungdaw had been confined to patrol activity by both sides.

With the Japanese holding the Buthedaung end of the defense line, the other end of the line, at Maungdaw, on the Bay of Bengal, is left in a precarious position. The situation held prospects that British positions may ultimately be established on the India side of the Burmese frontier.

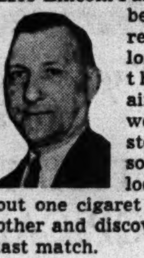
THE QUESTION.

On what occasion would you have given the most for a single match?

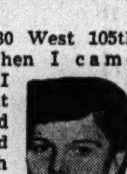
WHERE ASKED.

Palmolive building, 919 North Michigan avenue.

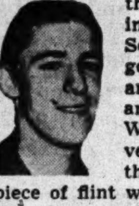
THE ANSWERS.



William M. Medbery, salesman, 2166 Lincoln Park West—It suddenly became dark before I realized that I was lost on a pony trail in the Cascade mountains. I thought it would be wisest to stop and build a fire so my friends could locate me. I snuffed out one cigaret just before I lit another and discovered I had used my last match.



Dorothy Kohnen, 30 West 105th street—One night when I came home extra late I found the hall light had burned out. I had several keys and didn't know which was the right one. I had to go down a flight of stairs to pick out the key and then locate the key hole in the dark.



William E. Berglind, mail order clerk, 2058 West 71st street—All of the boys on the camping trip were Boy Scouts. We had forgotten our matches and all of the twigs and leaves were damp. We wanted to cook a vegetable stew and by the time we found a piece of flint we had eaten most of it as it was.

Florence Simon, typist, 5330 Hyde Park boulevard—We were having dinner when the fuse blew out. It was dark and we couldn't find the flashlight so we could find candles. We had guests, too, and not one of them had a match. It was quite a clumsy effort to catch a light from the stove pilot.

Paul G. Egan, student, 8129 South Ada street—Two of the pegs in our cribbage game were missing. A match, cut in two, would work perfectly, but no matches were to be had. The only available lumber was an inconspicuous piece of the furniture. We spent so much time whittling it to fit, there wasn't much time left to play.

Geraldine Giugliano, clerk, 911 South Loomis street—Many people were wanting matches on the same night that I wanted one. Most of the people had them, but I couldn't find any one who had an extra one. It was at the match lighting service at Soldiers' field, and I thought it would be fun to burn a match with everybody else.

RUSSIANS SHOOT DOWN 43 OUT OF 200 NAZI PLANES

Bomb 11 Rail Centers Behind Foe's Line.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, May 11 [Tuesday]—(AP).—The German-controled Paris radio reported today that sea-borne Russian troops had made large scale landings in the Novorossisk area in the western Caucasus.

LONDON, May 11 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Russian planes carried their biggest offensive of the war into the second day yesterday by blasting 11 more key rail centers behind the Nazi lines. Moscow announced that anti-aircraft defenses shot down 43 of 200 German planes which attempted an assault on the Rostov-Bataisk gateway to the Caucasus. Seven Russian planes were lost in the battle.

Some Planes Break Thru.

Amplifying the midnight communique, which announced strong aerial blows against enemy concentrations and fortifications, the Moscow radio broadcast the details of aerial assaults which wrecked railway stations, troop trains, and trucks behind virtually the entire German front.

The broadcast, recorded by the soviet monitor, said the German air raids were largely dispersed short of their Rostov-Bataisk targets, but that some isolated craft broke thru and caused some damage.

Artillery Pounds Nazis.

The new Russian air attacks followed the same destructive pattern of the previous day's raids on more than 19 rail junctions when railway buildings were shattered and ammunition dumps were destroyed. Troop and supply trains were bombed in other rail junction attacks.

Russian artillery kept up the heavy pounding of German troops in the Kuban area northeast of Novorossisk after soviet forces had broken thru the outer defenses of that vital Black sea port.

YANKS DESTROY 16 JAP PLANES IN RAID ON CANTON

Hangars and Factories at Air Base Hit.

CHUNGKING, China. May 10 (AP).—American airmen destroyed at least 16 Japanese planes in a 15 minute running battle during the United States raid on Canton Saturday, a communique from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters said today.

The communique said five other enemy planes probably were destroyed and two were damaged. One United States medium bomber, with its crew, was reported lost in the action.

The Tokio radio said seven United States bombers, with an escort of Warhawk fighters, had attacked the area but had failed to hit any military objectives. The broadcast said two of the raiders were shot down.

The American communique said the 14th air force attacked the Tien Ho and White Cloud air bases at Canton, important assembly training and staging installations for Japanese air force activities in China, Indo-China, Burma, and the Southwest Pacific.

Drop 40 Tons of Bombs.

"Striking their objectives in waves, heavy and medium bombers dropped over 40 tons of bombs with complete accuracy," the communique said. "Hits were scored on dispersal areas, hangars, fuel storage dumps, repair shops, factories and runways, causing heavy damage."

It said that about six enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground, and that many fires were started, sending up smoke visible more than 100 miles away.

American fighters shot down 13 enemy planes, and gunners riding Liberator bombers confirmed the destruction of three more.

Fresh Japanese attempts to gain a foothold on the south shore of Lake Tungting, possibly to make a fourth attempt to capture Changsha, failed, the Chinese high command said today. The lake is in North Hunan province, of which Changsha is the capital.

UNITED STATES AIR BASE IN SOUTHERN CHINA, May 10.—The United States 14th air force, which raided Canton Saturday, has started a long range program of "sticking some thorns in the backs of the Japs," to use a phrase of its commanding officer, Col. Eugene Beebe of Moscow, Ida.

The bomber groups based here have new Liberator B-24s which have a longer range and a deadlier fire power than the machines formerly in use here.

After training last autumn and winter in Utah and Colorado, the force acquired its planes in January at Salina, Kas., and started overseas on Feb. 15 with destination unknown. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the United States army air forces, met the group in Puerto Rico and assigned them to this theater.

The combat crews flew all of their planes to India safely, altho they lost one in the dangerous hop over the Himalayas to China. The ground crews came overseas by steamer.

ILLINOIS OFFICER CITED FOR WORK WITH ARTILLERY

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—First Lt. John I. Hall, 24, of Hindsboro, Ill., has been cited for outstanding work under fire as a forward artillery observer in the Solomons, Marine corps headquarters announced today.

The letter of commendation, signed by Adm. W. F. Halsey, commander of the South Pacific area, follows:

"For bravery and devotion to duty under adverse conditions during the engagement with the Japanese in the Solomon Islands on Oct. 24 and 25, 1942. Under cover of the rainy jungle night the enemy attacked with a force of superior numbers. Without regard for his own safety and exposed to severe hostile fire. Lt. Hall performed his duties as forward artillery observer with high efficiency and courage."

NATION SPENDS 18½ BILLIONS IN WAR BOND DRIVE

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—The treasury today announced a grand total of $18,533,000,000 in securities were sold in the second war loan drive, $5,533,000,000 more than originally sought.

As a result of the campaign's success, Undersecretary Daniel Bell said plans for another drive in August have been postponed until September.

Of the total $12,550,000,000 was obtained from nonbanking sources, $5,048,000,000 from banks and $935,000,000 from other sources.

AMERICANS HURL THUNDERBOLT AT NAZIS IN EUROPE

New Fighter Plane Wins Praise of Flyers.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

LONDON, May 10.— The American P-47 Thunderbolt fighter plane is in operation against the enemy in this theater of war, it was disclosed today by Brig. Gen. Frank O'D. Hunter, commander of the 8th air force fighter command.

The new weapon is a powerful machine. It travels more than 400 miles an hour. It spits as much lead in a second from its eight 50 caliber machine guns as twenty 30 caliber machine guns. It is said the eight guns throw 6,400 rounds a minute.

Plane Heavily Armored.

The Thunderbolt, which had its baptism of fire in this theater of war in the May 4 raid on Antwerp, is a heavily armored low wing monoplane. It weighs 13,500 pounds and is highly maneuverable. The plane does its best fighting at 35,000 feet. Specifications indicate the craft is capable of operating in excess of 40,000 feet.

The Thunderbolt, which has a 2,000 horse power Pratt and Whitney air cooled engine and a four blade propeller, has ferrying range of 1,000 miles. With this range the plane can escort bombers farther along the route to the enemy target. The craft is expected to escort Flying Fortresses and Liberator bombers in future raids.

Lt. Col. Hubert Zemke, 29 years old, of Missoula, Mont., a group commander and a veteran airman of many fronts, had his first taste of combat recently as a Thunderbolt pilot.

Easy Ship to Handle.

"The Thunderbolt is an easy ship to handle," he said, "and I think it will do things no other fighter will do. The Thunderbolt also may be used as a fighter bomber."

Second Lt. Richard L. Altschuler, 23 years old, 551 W. Oakdale avenue, Chicago, who graduated from Northwestern university in 1941, is also enthusiastic about the P-47.

"I have never flown a Spitfire," he said, "but it is hard to imagine any fighter better than a Thunderbolt."

Other midwestern pilots in this group are Capt. Merle Eby, 23, 240 Williams street, Aurora, Ill.; 1st Lt. Robert Stultz, 23, Wapakoneta, O.; 1st Lt. Don Goodfleisch, of Cleveland, O.; and 2d Lt. Wayne Peterson, 24, of Haslett, Mich.

BUSINESS MEN HAVE ANSWER FOR MRS. F. D. R.

The National Small Business Men's association yesterday declared that if youth is taught American traditions it will not want to support radical European philosophies. The association issued a statement, thru its president, De Witt Emery, as a result of the suggestion Saturday of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt that young people not be hesitant about joining radical organizations if they believe in what the organizations stand for.

"Our leaders have set a poor example, and it has become fashionable to dismiss as childish a belief in the factors which have contributed to the growth, unity, and strength of this country," the association said. "In some groups it has become almost radical to believe in American free enterprise, the Bill of Rights, the Constitution, and the established processes whereby our founders guaranteed sovereign powers of the people."

Emery suggested wider study of the American way of life to make youth capable of coping with world problems after the war.

DESTROY 2 JAP PLANES IN NEW AUSTRALIA RAID

Allies Lose One Spitfire in Air Battle.

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, May 11 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Two Japanese Zeros have been destroyed and one Spitfire lost in an aerial battle following a new Jap raid on Millimgimbi, near Darwin, the allied high command said today.

Millimgimbi was attacked by nine enemy fighters which strafed the outpost settlement, causing slight damage.

"Our intercepting fighters shot three enemy planes out of action and damaged two others, with the loss in the air of one of our own," the communique said.

Strafe Jap Shipping.

"Later, three enemy fighters ineffectively attacked an allied convoy off the coast and were driven away by the ships' anti-aircraft fire, one enemy plane being damaged."

The first attack of the war against Millimgimbi was made Sunday by seven Japanese medium bombers. Damage then, too, was slight and casualties few.

Medium bombers carried out a successful night raid on the airdrome at Babo, Dutch New Guinea.

Destroy Three Planes.

"Three enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground by bombing," the communique said. "The dispersal bays, which were filled with enemy planes, were heavily strafed and at least 20 separate fires, believed to be burning planes, indicated widespread destruction and damage.

"Hits were scored in an oil tank area and along the waterfront starting fires which were visible 80 miles away. On the return flight, Dobo and a coastal vessel off Kaimana were strafed."

Later reports estimated that the Catalinas destroyed or damaged more than 23 grounded Japanese planes at Babo. The force of the explosions on the ground boosted the "Cats" up several thousand feet, where they were subjected to heavy anti-aircraft fire.

FINE COWS! FINE FARMS!
JUST WHAT OUR DOCTOR ORDERED . . .
YOURS SINCERELY,

BACK IN 1874 there weren't an awful lot of fine, clean, well-kept cows and farms . . . at least not enough to supply Bowman Milk. So, Dr. Peck who helped found Bowman got busy right away. He visited far and wide explaining to farmers the importance of cleanliness and sanitation. In fact, he insisted on it . . . so Bowman Milk would be pure and clean.

AS BOWMAN GREW—and bought milk from more and more farmers—qualified experts took over the inspection of the cows and farms every 15 or 20 days. And even today lots of the owners can recall Dr. Peck's visits as boys. 'Cause their farms have been supplying us milk for generations.

WHAT DO OUR EXPERTS DO? Well, they check the condition of the cows, of course. And the barns, the water supply, the sweetness and balance of the cow's feed. And being experts, they give friendly advice on other farm problems, too. They're mighty welcome people, you can bet!

THERE'S COUNTRY FRESHNESS—pure, and sweet—in every drop of Bowman Milk. Now you know why. And there are plenty of other reasons—plenty . . . 10 scientific ones, for instance. For Bowman Milk is 10 times tested . . . and to pass these exacting tests it must be purer, fresher, better-tasting than the official standard for fine milk.

HITLER RULED AMERICAN BUND, WITNESS SAYS

Open Move to Cancel Citizenship of Nine.

BY EUGENE GRIFFIN.

Adolf Hitler worked the controls and took the profits of the German-American bund. This is the gist of testimony given by Peter Gissibl, former Chicago bund unit leader, who testified all yesterday in Judge William J. Campbell's federal District court in the denaturalization trial of nine bundists.

The government is contending that membership in the bund is sufficient cause to cancel naturalization citizenship, and the test case that was started yesterday may be followed by hundreds more in the country if it is successful.

Gissibl, who lives at 113 Sherman avenue, Waukegan, is a former German language newspaper publisher. His brother, Fritz, who has been in Germany since 1938, was an organizer of one of the bund predecessor groups in Chicago.

Leaders' Iron Rule.

Organization of the bund groups, Gissibl said under direct examination by J. Albert Woll, United States district attorney, was on the "leadership principle" of the Nazi party itself. Orders were received from national headquarters in New York in the form of printed "bund commands," and Gissibl could recall only one Chicago member who failed to obey an order.

He answered questions in a steady, German accented voice, and unflinchingly met the stares and sneers of the nine defendants. They are Dr. Otto Willumeit, former Chicago bund leader; Mrs. Irene Matz, Willumeit's ex-secretary; Hugo Johannes Luethje, Ernest Henry Scharf, Frank Alphons Schoennagel, Frederick Ohrt, Karl Hermann Sautter, Carl Ernest Vogl, and Friedrich Kiefer.

When shown pictures by Woll of groups of bundists in uniforms, Gissibl not only identified the uniforms as regulation, but voluntarily named Luethje, Vogl, and Kiefer in one photograph, and Luethje and Kiefer in another. Gissibl himself was in one of the pictures.

Learned Bund Secrets.

Thru his brother, Fritz, Peter Gissibl became intimately acquainted with the inner sanctum secrets of the German societies which grew up to be the German-American bund, all nourished on the same vine from Berlin. First, he said, there was the Free Society of Teutonia, in 1924, which, he said, had the future objective of helping Hitler. Anybody of German blood was eligible to join, he said.

In December, 1932, the Teutonia society became the Friends of New Germany—"but it was the same organization"—and this name was changed in March, 1936, to the German-American bund. During this period, however, the members were known at times as the Friends of Hitler, and as the German bund. Gissibl became leader of a Chicago bund unit in May, 1937.

"All bund meetings," said Gissibl, "would start with a German national song, like the 'Horst Wessel.' Then there would be marching, followed by a Sig Heil for our movement, for the Fuehrer, and for the United States of America."

Eliminate "Heil Hitler."

The members had used the "Heil Hitler" greeting in the early years, but in 1933 or 1934, he said, a bund command was received to eliminate Hitler's name. Swastika flags were displayed at meetings with the American flag.

Elimination of the Heil Hitler salute was only one instance of the bund's sensitiveness to American public opinion. In December, 1935, Peter said orders came from Germany that German nationals must drop their memberships in the German-American bund.

"Why?" asked Woll.

"Because, Fritz told me, it was embarrassing the German government to have its subjects too active in this country," said Gissibl.

"Did the nationals resign?"

Nationals Stay in Bund.

"No," said Gissibl.

Fritz Kuhn, who had been elected leader of the German-American bund in 1936, told a gathering of bund members in Chicago, Gissibl said, that German subjects could retain membership, but cautioned them not to arouse public indignation by too great activity.

Bund leaders even went so far as to copy the American Legion's gray uniform with overseas cap in the spring of 1937, Gissibl said, because they thought the old costumes of black breeches, white shirts, Sam Browne belts, and black caps "were too outspoken."

Close control over the functions of the bund and its antecedents was kept by Berlin, Gissibl said. He said both he and Fritz visited Germany several times and received instructions, and he met such Nazi leaders as Rudolph Hess and Julius Streicher.

References from Germany were required of new members. Dues of $6 a year went to Nazi headquarters in Germany and at Hitler's birthday parties the members contributed funds, some giving a week's pay.

COAL MINE PAY HELD BASED ON AGREED METHOD

Cite UMW Attorney's Letter in 1940.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Southern coal operators contended at a war labor board panel hearing today that a recent Federal Circuit court decision supporting the demand of iron ore miners for portal to portal pay "has no direct bearing" on the soft coal wage dispute.

The Fifth Circuit court at New Orleans ruled two months ago in a wage and hours case that the underground travel time of iron ore workers must be counted as working time, thus placing the ore miners' work day on a portal to portal basis.

Former Senator Edward R. Burke, speaking for the southern operators, said "the bituminous industry is altogether different. Travel time enters the whole picture of the wage structure and is reflected in the rates that are paid."

Cites 1940 Letter.

Burke also said the soft coal case differs in that the industry had a ruling by the wage and hour administrator in 1940 accepting the existing method of computing the working day. He cited a letter written to the wage-hour administration in July, 1940, by Earl E. Houck, director of the United Mine Workers legal department, since repudiated by John L. Lewis, in which Houck discussed the method of measuring working time on actual productive time at the face of the coal.

Mining was on a normal basis in the coal fields today, a survey indicated, but a union official said all miners in Ohio and the West Virginia panhandle would stay off coal properties May 19 unless a new contract is negotiated by that time.

PMWA Conference Today.

Springfield, Ill., May 10 (AP).—Officials of the Progressive Mine Workers of America and the Illinois Coal Producers association left today for Washington for a second conference with government officials in an effort to agree upon a 1943-'45 wage scale contract.

Lloyd A. Thrush, president of the PMWA, said miners' delegates would confer tomorrow with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and later with Harold L. Ickes, fuels administrator.

Thrush said the Progressives, now under a 30 day temporary agreement extending until May 30, expect to continue work until that date regardless of what happens at the conclusion May 18 of the 15 day truce under which members of the United Mine Workers of America are working.

Finnish Trade Unions Ask Peace 'When Possible'

New York, May 10 (AP).—Stockholm and London broadcasts tonight said the central organization of Finland's trade unions has asked the Finnish government to remove Finland from the war "whenever possible." The unions also said a diplomatic break with the United States would be "disastrous," the broadcasts added.

BRITISH SEE NEW PROSPERITY ERA IN USE OF COAL

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—An era of prosperity from the more scientific exploitation of Britain's coal industry and the use of coal was foreshadowed in a scheme drawn up by the parliamentary and scientific committee which has been submitted to John Anderson, lord president of the council. Both Anderson and Minister of Fuel Gwilym Lloyd George have been asked to receive a deputation to discuss the details as soon as possible.

Part of the plan advocates that several thousand qualified research workers be employed to explore all possibilities for the better use of coal. From this plan, it is reported, should flow an ultimate addition to the national income of $800,000,000 a year or a return of 50 times the amount the committee proposes to spend on research.

Transport Under Inquiry.

The plan emphasizes that if the falling productivity of the mines is to be offset, new industries created and new life given to the export trade in coal, research must be undertaken on a scale never before contemplated in any country.

Investigation in problems of transport by road, rail, and air is advocated, as well as that experiments be undertaken with locomotives fired with pulverized coal, with steam wagons, producers of gas, trucks, and coal gas and methane cars.

Create New Products.

The cost of the research plan is estimated at $5,000 a year for each research worker employed. The total annual expenditure would run into several millions, but that, it is pointed out, should be considered as reasonable compared with the total national expenditure of three billion dollars a year on coal properties and processing.

Here are some of the practical things more scientific use of coal is believed capable of achieving: [1] the creation of new products and industries to secure Britons against unemployment after the war; [2] the giving of fresh life to Britain's export trade; [3] banishing domestic drudgery; [4] the insurance of the future of Britain's road, rail, and air transportation.

Shaver announced he would appeal from the order declaring him of undesirable character for citizenship. Outside of court, Shaver said that Stewart held personal dislike for him.

FLYERS POUNCE ON U-BOAT AND BLAST IT APART

2 of Nazi Crew Caught Basking on Deck.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Destruction of a German submarine by a navy flying boat which found the U-boat on the surface in West Indian waters was reported today by the navy.

The plane strafed the submarine with machine gun bullets before dropping four depth charges which blasted the U-boat apart. A heavy explosion followed, the navy said, cascading débris, smoke, and water 40 feet into the air.

The attack was made in March from a Catalina plane piloted by Lt. [j. g.] John Edwin Dryden Jr. of Kansas City, Mo., who sighted the submarine while eight miles away.

Two Basking on U-Boat Deck.

"So completely was the enemy surprised that two crew members were caught basking on deck," the navy said. "After a 100 round machine gun burst from 300 yards, one German never arose. The other, heading for the sub's gun, threw up his hands and pitched forward on the deck."

Four depth charges dropped from an altitude of less than 100 feet by Lt. [j. g.] Stetson C. Beal of Lisbon Falls, Me., the co-pilot, cracked the U-boat into sections. The center section went under first, then the bow and the stern rose into the air and sank.

The navy said a large oil slick spread over the water and "emerging from the wreckage of the submarine were 11 members of the submarine crew, who swam or clung to débris floating about the huge oil slick."

Attackers Drop Rafts.

"Cruising low over the struggling men," the navy continued, "crew members of the Catalina dropped life rafts and emergency rations tied to life jackets. Six of the 11 Germans were seen to lose their grip on fragments of wreckage and to slip beneath the water. Five were seen perched on a raft. They waved frantically for the plane to alight, but rough seas prevented a rescue effort."

The navy said the plane cruised over the area for an hour and 39 minutes before dwindling gasoline forced it to return to its base.

"No survivors have been announced as rescued to date," the navy said.

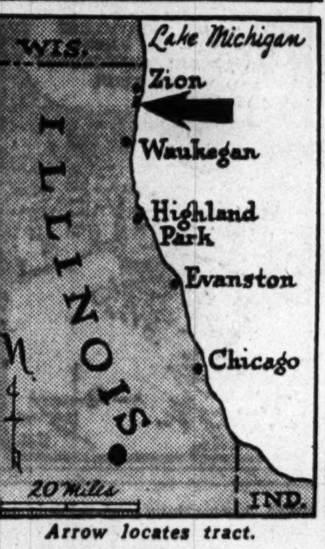
State Buys Park



Arrow locates tract.

Purchase by the state of 450 acres of Lake Michigan frontage between Waukegan and Zion to be used as a soldiers' training camp now and a public park later was announced yesterday by Gov. Dwight H. Green. The tract was acquired from the North Waukegan Harbor and Dock association for $90,000. It will be improved by the federal government, which plans immediate construction of a training camp. Public use of the park will come later.

The land adjoins the south boundary of Zion and extends a mile and a half south along the shoreline with an average width of half a mile.

This is the first step in the development of a park intended to extend eventually from Waukegan to the Wisconsin line, said Walter A. Rosenfield, state director of public works and buildings. The state park system is now estimated in excess of 20,000 acres.

NEIGHBORS FETE SEN. MAROVITZ AS ARMY CALLS

Sergt. Barney Ross of the marines joined 700 neighbors of State Sen. A. L. Marovitz last night in a farewell party for Marovitz at the Judea Temple, 1227 South Independence boulevard. Marovitz is to be inducted into the army May 15. The party was sponsored by the Lawndale lodge of B'nai B'rith.

Sergt. Ross, a charter member of the Lawndale lodge and a friend and neighbor of Marovitz before he joined the marines, and Marovitz were presented with distinguished service awards, Ross for "distinguished service to his country" on Guadalcanal and Marovitz for waiving exemption as a member of the legislature.

Marovitz said he will ask for assignment to the marine corps when he is inducted. A. O. Tapper, president of the lodge, expressed hope that no election would be called to fill Marovitz's place as senator from the 19th district. "The vacant office will be his neighbors' tribute to Sen. Marovitz for his sacrifice and devotion to his state and country," Tapper declared.

CONFIRM JUDGE CHARGED WITH A $3,000 PAYOFF

Senate Democrats Back Stephen S. Chandler.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The Democratic majority of the senate today confirmed the nomination of Stephen S. Chandler, Oklahoma City attorney, as Federal District judge for the western district of Oklahoma, despite charges made on the floor that Chandler has been accused of attacking a young stenographer in his law office some years ago and settling the case outside of court.

Confirmation of the appointment, latest of the President's nominations under fire, was virtually along party lines, with 36 Democrats and only 1 Republican, Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, supporting the nomination, and 25 Republicans, 1 Progressive, and 2 Democrats, Senators W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas and John H. Overton of Louisiana, opposing it.

Langer Opposes Confirmation.

The charges against Chandler were made by Sen. William Langer [R., N. D.], who filed a minority report against favorable action on the appointment by the senate judiciary committee, which approved it, 9 to 5, also along party lines.

Langer declared that altho Chandler had the indorsement of prominent Oklahomans for the appointment many of them were not acquainted with the reasons for opposition.

Langer's report said evidence appeared before the judiciary committee of "certain charges made by a young stenographer that she was assaulted by Mr. Chandler in his law office in the late hours of the evening approximately eight years ago. The uncontradicted evidence before the committee proved that the complainant is a girl of excellent character and that she bears a splendid reputation. Mr. Chandler, appearing before this committee, admitted that such a charge had been made and that he saw fit to settle the claim made against him by reason thereof thru the payment of $3,000."

Action Held Disqualification.

"For reasons of his own he saw fit to compromise his claim rather than to resist it in court," Langer said. While this action on his part may be considered not to create a blemish against his character, in my opinion it does disqualify him for favorable consideration for confirmation as United States District court judge. If the charge was unjust, he compromised the same and in my opinion that constituted a demonstration of weakness of his character disqualifying Mr. Chandler for this appointment."

RADIO LEADERS DISAGREE ON FCC RULING'S EFFECT

Mutual Hails Decision as Progress.

New York, May 10 (AP).—The Supreme court's validation of far-reaching regulations of the FCC over the contractual relations between radio networks and local stations was received as a heavy blow today by NBC and CBS, both of which spoke of the possible desirability of changes in fundamental radio law, but welcomed by a third organization, Mutual Broadcasting system.

It was perhaps the most important legal development in the history of modern chain broadcasting.

Since October of 1941 NBC and CBS had been fighting the commission's proposed rules—rules now confirmed by the court in a 5 to 2 decision—while Mutual had intervened against its competitors, claiming unfair competitive conditions under the old setup.

Exclusive Options Big Issue.

Of the six commission regulations the one most strongly attacked by NBC and CBS in a long and thus far losing fight was that restricting the system by which the radio chains obtained exclusive options from hundreds of American stations to clear their big national programs on arranged schedules.

This regulation known in the trade as "3.104" and embodying under that bare and prosaic title a controversy of mighty proportions, declares that option arrangements "may not prevent or hinder the station from optioning or selling any or all of the time covered by the option, or other time, to other network organizations."

NBC argued—and its contentions were typical of that side of the arguments—that the effect of this would be to destroy nationwide network broadcasting as it is now known, compelling the chain to try to sell time to national advertisers on an "if, as and when" basis in which the network might never be sure of just what it could deliver and when.

Feared Confusion as Result.

Contracts with the advertisers, it was contended, normally were on a one year basis and if the old system of optional time were knocked out NBC, which now has a sort of blanket option arrangement with 140 stations, would have to negotiate separately with scores of stations, obtaining the "unanimous consent" of all the executives involved.

Worst of all—so ran the NBC argument—a few key stations here and there, in the big cities, could hold back or make themselves difficult of access in such a way as to deliver wounds to a national program far more serious than their mere numbers might indicate.

Niles Trammell of NBC declared in a statement that unless "wisdom" was exercised by the FCC in administering its newly affirmed regulations he believed "the people of the United States will insist upon a revision of the fundamental laws governing broadcasting so that the American system of broadcasting as we have known it will not be impaired."

Calls for Redefinition.

William S. Paley of CBS, in a message sent to all CBS affiliated stations, said also that almost all would depend upon administration, but added:

"In view of the fact that the Supreme court disclaimed any responsibility in the good or bad effect of the commission's regulations we are more than ever convinced that the commission's areas of authority and the broadcasters' area of freedom should be redefined by the congress in a new radio act."

But Miller McClintock of Mutual thus expressed his views:

"Finally, the radio industry is to have a practical application of the broadcasting rules promulgated by the federal communications commission and confirmed by the Supreme court. We welcome their application without apprehension.

"The application of the rules will have no revolutionary effect upon advertising practices, upon the operations of Mutual nor in our opinion upon the operation of the other networks."

Two Digressing Opinions.

Thru the attack by NBC and CBS has run a thread of complaint that FCC entrance into the business affairs of the networks was going beyond its sound regulatory powers and would make it almost impossible to prepare and put over national programs on a regular basis.

Mutual's contention has been that regulation "3.104," contrary to the other side's claim that it would disorganize the programs heard coast to coast, would give NBC and Columbia option time of "entirely sufficient clearance" for three hours per "segment," the radio day being divided into four such segments.

Mutual argued, too, that it had been effectively barred from numerous cities and had been put under unjust handicap by the exclusive option time arrangement.

There was substantially no agreement here, in the heart of the American radio industry, as to what the effects, if any, would be upon the radio listener.

Drops Her Demands

MRS. ROSE TOMASEK.

Mrs. Rose Tomasek yesterday agreed to drop her demands for temporary alimony in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's Circuit court when it was learned that her husband, John, had been inducted into the air force, and that he had agreed to the adoption of their 3 month old daughter by his wife's parents.

Mrs. Tomasek's attorney, Sol R. Freidman, told the court that Tomasek had failed to support his wife, altho he had been earning a good salary. They were married on June 1, 1940, and separated last March 28. Mrs. Tomasek asked for a divorce on charges of cruelty.

Joseph H. and Norman Becker, representing Tomasek, told the court that if any alimony were granted, it should be to Tomasek. His wife, they said, was in possession of $3,400 in cash and war bonds that he had earned. After the hearing, Tomasek signed consent papers permitting his parents-in-law, Stephen and Magdeline Vanerka, 5300 West 23d street, Cicero, with whom his wife lives, to adopt the child, Carol Jean.

WEST COAST JAP BAN ARGUED IN SUPREME COURT

Curfew Unconstitutional, Attorneys Assert.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Constitutionality of military regulations imposing a west coast curfew on all persons of Japanese ancestry and excluding them from designated areas was challenged today in arguments before the Supreme court on the ground that they constituted "racial discrimination" against persons born in the United States.

This assertion was made by Frank L. Walters of Seattle and Harold Evans of Philadelphia, counsel for Gordon Kiyoshi Hirabayashi of Seattle, who was convicted of violating the curfew regulation and of failing to report to an evacuation center. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

Another Case Up Today.

The attorneys contended that their client was born in this country and hence was an American citizen against whom the restrictive regulations could not constitutionally be applied.

Counsel for another American citizen of Japanese ancestry—Minoru Yasui of Portland, Ore., sentenced to one year's imprisonment and fined $5,000 for violating the curfew regulation—will argue tomorrow. They will be followed by Solicitor General Charles Fahy for the government.

Walters asserted that "the entire Japanese population of the west coast, more than 110,000 men, women and children, 70,000 of whom were citizens, were torn from their homes, occupations and schools and forced to remain in camps surrounded by barbed wire and guarded by soldiers."

Statute Called Vague.

Evans contended that the regulations imposed by Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt, in charge of the western defense command, were not validly authorized by congress.

"The statute under which Hirabayashi was convicted" he asserted "is void because it is too vague and because, if constructed to authorize the military orders, it unlawfully delegates legislative power to the military and improperly authorizes control over civilians by military authority."

AURAND SPURS DRIVE TO GET WAAC RECRUITS

Sharp decline in recruiting of women for the WAAC, which dropped from 40 a day in March to 24 a day in April, was deplored yesterday by Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commandant of the 6th service command, at his monthly staff meeting. He asked each staff member present to bring in one recruit by June 30 and to launch a drive to enlist more women in the corps.

YOUTH PRAISED AS GREAT LAKES GRADUATES 644

Sailor and marine graduates of the Great Lakes Naval Training station service school were addressed yesterday by Mark A. Brown, executive vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, who praised the record made by American youth against axis sea and land forces.

Brown cited production figures of American industry engaged in the manufacture of war materials. "Hitler underestimated both our production potential and our fighting ability, and this error will cost him the war," the speaker said.

Yesterday's class comprised 596 sailors and 48 marines. They completed 16 week courses in the navy trades of machinists mates and shipfitters. The graduates will be sent either to sea or to more advanced schools, navy officers explained. The graduation exercises were under the supervision of Capt. H. R. Harris, and were attended by more than 100 relatives and friends of the graduates.

ORDER CABBAGE, ONION, POULTRY PRICE REDUCTION

Markups of Retailers to Be Shaved.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Price reductions on cabbages, onions, and quick frozen poultry sold at retail were ordered today by the office of price administration.

The new prices, which are effective Thursday, will be lowered thru a reduction in the percentage markups which retailers are permitted to add to costs of these products in determining ceiling prices.

The reduction on quick frozen poultry will amount to approximately 4 per cent in retail stores. On cabbage the reduction will be 15 per cent in independent stores with annual sales of less than $250,000 and 6 per cent in larger independents and all chain stores. Onion price ceilings will be reduced 6 per cent in small independent stores and will remain unchanged in other stores.

Price Figuring Revised.

At the same time the OPA announced that effective May 17 ceiling prices for a large group of foods must be figured on the basis of fixed markups over cost by both wholesalers and retailers.

Foods covered by the order include baby foods, breakfast cereals, canned or quick frozen fruits, berries and fruits, fruit juices, jams, jellies and preserves, pickles and relishes, rice, sugar, and canned or quick frozen vegetables and vegetable juices.

In setting retail markups, stores are divided into four classes: I. Independents with annual sales of less than $50,000; II. Independents with sales between $50,000 and $250,000; III. Chain stores with sales of less than $250,000, and IV. all stores with sales of more than $250,000.

Changed Markups Listed.

The revised markups which each class of retailer may multiply by his cost in figuring ceilings under the revisions are:

Food product—	Class 1.	Class 2.	Class 3.	Class 4.
Baby foods	1.25	1.23	1.21	1.19
Cereals, breakfast	1.22	1.20	1.13	1.11
Fruits, berries, and fruit juices [canned or quick frozen]	1.26	1.26	1.24	1.22
Jams, jellies, and preserves	1.32	1.32	1.31	1.31
Pickles and relishes	1.31	1.30	1.29	1.25
Rice	1.20	1.20	1.18	1.15
Sugar	1.17	1.12	1.07	1.06
Vegetables and vegetables juices [canned or quick frozen]	1.31	1.31	1.26	1.23
Dry onions	1.40	1.40	1.40	1.35
Poultry sold as purchased	1.21	1.21	1.20	1.20
Poultry bought live and sold dressed weight basis	1.38	1.38	1.36	1.36

For fresh vegetables, including cabbage, carrots, lettuce, peas, snap beans, spinach, and tomatoes, the revised markup is 1.40 in all class of stores.

Wholesale Markups Specified.

The order also specifies permitted markups for the foods listed above for three classes of wholesalers—retailer owned coöperatives, cash and carry merchants, and service wholesalers.

Retailers and wholesalers previously were permitted to figure their ceilings either by using markups or their March, 1942, prices as a base for breakfast cereals, rice, sugar, and canned vegetables.

Ceilings on other foods covered by the order previously were scattered thru various other regulations.

KNOX DEMANDS GREATEST NAVY AFTER THE WAR

Besides continuing our alliances, this nation should maintain the world's largest navy after the war, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said yesterday before 800 members and guests of the Union League club.

"We're in this war for one fundamental reason: the preservation of our country," Knox said. "We're not fighting for Russia or China, altho we love them. Self-preservation is the cohesive force that makes the alliance possible.

"For the same reason—national preservation—we must find a way to make this alliance a great world force that will help keep away repetitions of this war. Don't let us kid ourselves that our plans are based on high falutin' ideas; we must find a way to make aggressive war much less likely.

"The first requirement is that we help maintain peace. I guess we learned that good wishes and promises on paper won't work without sheer brute force.

"We're building this navy not just for this war. We should not shirk from fulfilling our responsibility when the time comes."

Knox asserted that the size of the fleet had been increased 25 per cent "numerically" during the first three months of this year, and that it would be doubled "numerically" by the end of 1943. He did not explain his basis of comparison.

"This is the first world-wide naval war," Knox said. "The outcome of the war will be determined by the naval war and the aerial war over the high seas."

SENATE PASSES BILL TO GUARD CIVIL SUPPLIES

Acts to Shift Power from WPB.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—By a vote of 44 to 29, the senate today approved the Maloney bill to create a civilian supply administration to look after civilian requirements during the war. The measure now goes to the house.

This agency would replace the current office of civilian requirement which is part of the war production board and recently succeeded the old WPB division of civilian supply which was criticized for failing to protect civilian interests. Arthur Whiteside now heads the civilian requirements agency.

Opposed by Nelson.

Senators Francis Maloney [D., Conn.] and Robert A. Taft [R., O.], co-authors of the bill, urged its passage to fill a gap in the existing war program, claiming that the war production board is not the proper supervisory agency on civilian matters.

WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson bitterly opposed the legislation as taking authority outside of his domain, and Republicans on the floor, including Minority Leader Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.] and Sen. Harlan J. Bushfield [R., S. D.] protested that it would create another governmental agency when the trend should be toward eliminating some of the bureaus.

Taft and Maloney contended, however, that this bill would create by congressional mandate an agency with specified powers to replace a bureau now in existence which was established, as most have been, by Presidential order. Of the war agencies, Taft said that the OPA has been about the only other one in which congress had a hand.

Poor Results Admitted.

He declared that Nelson admitted his civilian supply agency "hasn't done a good job." Taft said the great confusion existing today stems from the indiscriminate establishment of bureaus with conflicting authority by Presidential order.

The Maloney bill would establish a civilian supply administration, headed by an administrator at $12,000 a year, responsible to the director of economic stabilization. The agency would be directed to protect the supplies of food, clothing, shelter, fuel, medical care, and other items and services necessary for the civilian population.

On the vote, 33 Democrats, 10 Republicans, and 1 Progressive supported the bill, while 21 Republicans and 8 Democrats opposed it. The Illinois senators split, with Sen. Wayland Brooks, Republican, opposing the measure and Sen. Scott W. Lucas, Democrat, voting for it.

RIVER CROSSING PROBLEM FACES MANEUVER UNITS

Force Will Attempt to Span Cumberland.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Field Headquarters 2d Army, Lebanon, Tenn., May 10.—Central Tennessee's third "war" in as many weeks burst at 6 a. m. today as numerically superior Blues took the offensive against the Reds, the attackers bent on forcing a crossing of the swollen Cumberland river. The new problem is easily the toughest since the current 2d army maneuvers began on April 26.

Within a few hours after hurdling the starting lines, which run, roughly, east and west thru Lebanon and Murfreesboro, 26 miles apart, motorized reconnaisance units met in the vicinity of Vine, about halfway between. Then the Reds fell back gradually as patrols clashed along the jagged battle line, to gain precious time to complete defense installations of anti-aircraft weapons, artillery, and tank destroyer elements.

Reds reached the river first, mining all important bridges, and it appeared certain that the Blues will have to throw pontoon lines across the stream to get their hordes of mobile guns and light and medium tanks over. This formidable engineering task must be done chiefly at night, under absolute blackout.

Only Two Highway Bridges.

The only two highway bridges along the tortuous river course available in this problem are at Hartsville and Hunter's Point, but these are ready for "destruction" by the Reds as soon as they have withdrawn their heavy equipment northward from the forward defense area.

That would leave only a few ferries [also manned by Red demolition squads] and fording points the Blues could hope to use. Potential pontoon sites are limited by the high, steep banks of the Cumberland in this area.

How hazardous is the undertaking of moving 32 ton vehicles over a pontoon installation is suggested from the fact that in last year's maneuvers two medium tanks toppled off in midstream with the loss of six lives.

River Is 100 Feet Deep.

The river has a minimum width of 500 feet here and ranges up to 100 feet in depth. The banks at the possible crossing points are soft, thus adding difficulty to the attack.

The command car in which this observer visited these approaches, was nearly mired several times and slithered crazily as it crawled up the sharply sloping banks. What will happen when the lumbering tanks get there affords interesting speculation.

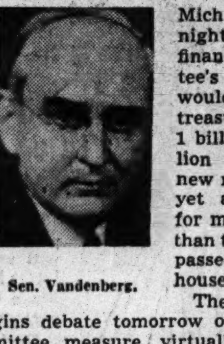
SENATE BEGINS DEBATE TODAY ON TAX MEASURE

Vandenberg Hails Bill as Revenue Raiser.

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] said tonight the senate finance committee's tax bill would give the treasury at least 1 billion 800 million dollars in new revenue and yet abate taxes for more citizens than the measure passed by the house.



Sen. Vandenberg.

The senate begins debate tomorrow on the committee measure, virtually a duplicate of the Ruml-Carlson bill rejected last week by the house.

Vandenberg, a member of the senate coalition group which gave 13-8 committee approval to the measure, told reporters he was informed by the congressional tax staff that treasury receipts would be increased 1 billion 800 millions over the level of the present law by "windfall" provisions inserted in the bill.

Bill Termed Satisfactory.

He said this would be in addition to an increase which would be brought about by collecting 1943 taxes this year instead of lower 1942 taxes.

"The senate bill abates taxes on more citizens than the house bill, makes nearly all the citizens current in their payments, and puts more money into the treasury than it would get under the present law," he declared. "All things considered, it seems to me a very satisfactory bill."

Vandenberg said that while treasury experts had declined to estimate the amount, they said there was no doubt the senate bill provided more additional revenue than the house measure.

97 Per Cent on Pay-Go Base.

His expressed satisfaction with the senate version was typical of the majority opinion on the measure, which would put an estimated 97 per cent of the nation's taxpayers on a pay as you go basis by canceling the lower of either their 1942 or 1943 taxes and collecting the remainder currently, part or all of it thru a 20 per cent withholding levy on salaries and wages.

The possibility remained of strong opposition to the measure on the floor. Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], who voted against it in the committee, said he might offer a substitute proposing the abatement of 75 per cent of one year's tax for everybody. This would involve paying the remaining 25 per cent in two years while current taxes also were being met.

The house bill would excuse the 6 per cent normal and 13 per cent first bracket surtax on 1942 incomes for all persons, with the remaining liability for higher bracket taxpayers being carried over.

Windfall Provisions Altered.

In final action on the senate bill today, the committee altered provisions designed to prevent excessive abatement to persons with "windfall" or abnormal war time incomes. It provided for comparison of such a person's abated year's tax with the tax he would pay on a "normal" year's income—1938, 1939, or 1940—plus an additional $10,000 in income.

This mythical tax would be deducted from the amount abated and he would owe the remainder. He could pay it in four yearly instalments.

In a concession to members of the fighting forces, the committee amended the bill to provide that when such a person's 1942 income was larger than his 1943 income and his 1943 tax thus was abated, he could subtract from his 1942 liability an earned income credit up to $14,000 before he computed the "windfall" or recapture tax.

NAVAL AIR BASE GETS 354 ACRES IN KANE COUNTY

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday granted immediate use on behalf of the navy department of 354.25 acres of land in Kane county to be used by the Glenview naval air base as a landing field. A series of such temporary fields is being established for training aviation cadets, according to Assistant District Atty. Clarence W. Beatty Jr., who obtained the order from Judge Igoe for use of the tract until June 30, 1944. Owners of the land involved were listed as the American Mutual Life Insurance company of Des Moines, Ia., and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miller and Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly of Kane county.

A jury of 10 women and two men was sworn in yesterday in the trial of Eugene A. Schmittling, 24 years old, indicated a week ago as the hammer and knife attacker of 10 girls and women. Taking of evidence will start today before Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro in Criminal court. The specific charge on which he is being tried is assault to kill Dorothy Fendrick, 14, of 1114 North Francisco avenue, who said he threw a knife at her when she resisted him after he had gained entrance to her home.

EVANSTON PILOT LOST IN PACIFIC, PARENTS LEARN

Lt. John D. Conway, 26 years old, an army flyer, has been missing in action in the Pacific area since Jan. 6, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Conway, 710 Forest avenue, Evanston, were notified by the war department.

Lt. Conway was inducted in March, 1941, and later was commissioned in the army air corps. He left for duty in the South Pacific last September. He was graduated from Northwestern university in 1939, and was married in July, 1942, to Margaret Atkinson of Irvine, Ky.

Prior to entering the army Lt. Conway was employed in Chicago by the Du Pont company. His father is general traffic manager for the Chicago area of the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

URGE WPB CURB WASTE OF PAPER BY U. S. AGENCIES

Committee Would Make Industry Essential.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The house interstate and foreign commerce committee adopted a report today urging the war production board to eliminate "substantial waste and nonessential uses" of paper by "various governmental agencies."

The committee also recommended to the war man power commission and other agencies concerned that the manufacture of wood pulp and paper be classified as an essential industry. The purpose is to aid this industry with its labor problems. There was testimony that a shortage of labor in the woods was the main factor necessitating the current curtailment of paper consumption by newspapers, magazine, and book publishers.

WPB Division Backs Proposals.

Top men from the printing and paper division of WPB joined with the congressmen in urging this committee action. All were until recently executives in this industry and, unlike some witnesses from the executive branch of the government, did not try to shield the bureaus from charges of extravagance.

The witnesses were: Donald J. Sterling, former editor of the Portland [Ore.] Journal, now consultant to WPB chairman on newspaper and publication business; W. G. Chandler, former business manager for Scripps-Howard, now head of WPB printing and publishing division; Arthur G. Wakeman, former general manager of Fox River Paper corporation, now head of WPB pulp and paper division; and Harry M. Bitner, former Hearst general manager, now Mr. Chandler's deputy.

Sterling opened the inquiry by reading a statement from Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, quoting paper requirement and supply statistics, describing newspapers as an institutional essential in a democratic community, and calling for a coöperative curtailment of newsprint consumption so there will be more paper available to meet army packaging requirements.

Calls Statistics Doubtful.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown [R., O.] scoffed at the appeal after developing evidence that the military does not use newsprint but uses other types of paper from a different source. Brown also said that Nelson's statement of governmental paper requirements did not include requirements of the office of war information or the office of price administration.

"I, too, have no great confidence in these statistics," Sterling admitted, "but they are the best we have been able to get. We have not met resistance but we've encountered calloused indifference in trying to survey the government's use of paper."

"Mr. Nelson's professed regard for a supply of paper for publishers, for freedom of expression, seems to apply mainly to the supply for bureau propagandists," said Rep. Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.].

No Further Cuts Soon.

"His recognuition of the essentiality of the press in war time doesn't mean much unless it is extended to the manufacturers of paper," said Rep. Charles A. Halleck [R., Ind.], author of the resolution which gave birth to the inquiry. "And the government itself must eliminate unnecessary uses of paper while asking for curtailment of essential civilian uses."

"You're talking right down our alley," Sterling responded, and others in the WPB group echoed this sentiment.

The committee went into an executive session with the WPB group and came out with the resolution calling for bureau curtailments in paper use and the designation of paper manufacturing as an essential industry. It was announced that there is no further curtailment in newsprint consumption—other than the 10 per cent cut now in force—in sight before Oct. 1 and that that is as far in the future as any one can foresee.

We, the Rheem men and women behind the machines and behind the desks, are justly proud of a new banner, the ARMY-NAVY E FOR EXCELLENCE,* which flies over our Chicago No. 1 plant.

★ This recognition follows earlier awards for excellence—the Army-Navy E, awarded to our plants in Newark, N. J., Richmond, Calif., and Sparrows Point, Md. The Newark and Richmond flags bear "renewal" stars.

For Today . . .

For our armed services Rheem is manufacturing depth bombs, "blitz cans," ammunition boxes, drums and other containers; practice bombs, propeller shafts for warships, shells and shell casings, and airplane subassemblies. Part of Rheem's former production of storage tanks and water heaters is still maintained for war housing.

For a New Tomorrow . . .

Emerging from the crucible of war are new, better and entirely different products for a better living America. Under the singleness of purpose imposed by war, these must continue to be closely guarded secrets of the laboratory and of the production line.

But, in the hoped-for tomorrow, these new benefits to home and industry will emerge—designed and built with Rheem experience and equipment.

"Hey! With Fats Rationed How Am I Going to Save Them for Gunpowder?"

A VERY SENSIBLE QUESTION, and one your government wants answered right now. Of course, you should not only save your cooking fats, you should use them—as long as you can get any good out of them. But when that is done—then every spoonful, every single drop is desperately wanted.

AND MAYBE YOU THINK that what you have left over isn't worth turning in. But just one single tablespoon of fat—waste fat, the kind you used to pour down the drain—will make five machine gun bullets for some American boy fighting the Japs. And it doesn't matter whether it's pan drippings, old shortening, skimmings from a soup or any other kind of used fat. It's loaded with dynamite to help America.

AND DON'T WORRY about what kind of can you use. Any kind will do—even a tomato can. Save a few when you've emptied them, and keep them on hand. They'll go to tin salvage anyway, when you take them to your butcher full of fat. And no matter how little you save each day, or how long it takes to fill your tin, rush it to your meat dealer when it's full. It won't make any bullets on the back of your stove.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

G.O.P. TO DECIDE ITS LEGISLATIVE PLAN THIS WEEK

May Aid Minority as Peace Move.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 10. — The legislature this week probably will set the keynote for the rest of the session, leaders here said today. The decision will be made whether Democratic proposals will receive a peaceful majority coöperation in an attempt by the administration to smooth the way for the governor's program, or whether the administration will call on its majority to pass its own bills, shunting aside the demands of the minority—a plan which would call for legislative warfare.

Legislative spokesmen for the administration said today that Republican action on peg levy bills has not been determined. The first of the pegs, calling for a permanent levy to produce $6,400,000 for the Chicago sanitary district, is up for committee hearing this week. The attitude of the Republicans toward the proposal is expected to be shown at that time.

May Settle U. S. I. Issue.

Reports here tonight were that the week would also see the end of one of the most controversial issues in the legislature—the question of a university for southern Illinois.

One of the sponsors of the bill, who declined use of his name, said tonight that Sen. R. G. Crisenberry [R., Murphysboro], principal proponent of a southern Illinois university, had agreed to withdraw the series of bills creating the U. S. I. and substitutes another bill which would extend "one or two courses" at the teachers college at Carbondale. Crisenberry could not be reached tonight for comment.

Fiscal Policies Drawn.

The administration is prepared to bring in the rest of its fiscal program in the next few days. Conferences among elected state officials have settled a policy for their appropriations under which they will use the old form of appropriation bills, while the code departments and commissions under the governor will receive their money under the new short form of appropriation. Five such bills are already in the legislature.

It was learned today that a plan for staggered pay roll periods is being considered as a result of the new appropriation bill forms.

The strip mining act, a bill prepared after a study made by a special commission created by the last general assembly, will have an open hearing in the senate tomorrow.

GREEN TERMS PEACE PLANNING AS VITAL AS WAR

Must Insure Transition Period, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—Gov. Dwight H. Green, dismissing summarily those who would plan an international peace before the war is won, tonight placed postwar planning at home on a plane of equal standing with winning the war.

"Let us plan our peace now, and plan it right here in America under the terms which will bring more domestic happiness, greater internal prosperity, and firmer national security than any people have ever known," the governor said in an address at the annual banquet of the Illinois Daily Newspaper Markets, a national advertising promotional organization.

Victory Comes First.

Achievement of victory, the governor said, is the paramount purpose of the American people today, but he warned:

"What avail will it be to win if we are not sufficiently wise and farseeing to insure first for America the outpouring of all the domestic and internal benefits and safeguards of peace at the immediate moment the white flag is raised by the vanquished enemy?"

Turning to post-war peace planners, the governor dismissed those who would "predetermine the settlement in the terrific game of war even before all the stakes are on the table."

Hits Raids on Surplus.

"The end has not come yet," he said. "Nor can we predict the date on which our enemies will lay down their arms. Neither can we forecast the social, economic, and political conditions of our fellow nations when victory at last is ours.

"The very fact that we have placed our own house in order first so that we can absorb the shocks of reconversion from war to peace, and can take our problems in so smooth a stride that economically we shall be a stronger, not a weaker nation, will give us an imperative voice in the conference which could bless the world with security for many years to come."

The governor issued a back handed blow at those who in the current session of the legislature seek to use up the record breaking surplus the Green administration has amassed during its first two years, by tampering with the state revenue structure.

"Illinois has already begun this post-war planning, and some actual steps have been taken," he said. "By economies and the streamlining and concentration of administrative functions, the first large cash reserve in the history of the state has been built up, with the avowed purpose of keeping it intact to meet the unpredictable necessities of peace."

Mrs. B. M. writes: "Some time ago I received official notice that my son, serving with the army overseas, had been taken prisoner by the Germans. In a recent letter he asked me to send him a sweater, a pipe and tobacco, and a sewing kit. Can you tell me if such articles may be sent and what other items are permissible? I understand that packages may not be mailed more often than every two months, so I would like to include as much as possible when I send him a box. Could I send a few of his favorite books?"

ANSWER: The items your son requested may be included in your package, but the sewing kit must not include scissors. Since written or printed matter of any kind is forbidden, books are not acceptable, but playing cards, chess, or cribbage sets are. I am forwarding a bulletin which outlines the postal regulations governing packages to prisoners of war. It contains a complete list of items which may be mailed, plus information as to size and weight restrictions. Any reader may have this bulletin by sending in a stamped, addressed envelope.

Mrs. S. T. writes: "Our son, who is stationed with the army in New Zealand, has just written me that he has become engaged to a girl who is a citizen of that country. Can you tell me if it will be necessary for him to obtain permission to marry her, and if so, why? If she becomes his wife, will the army provide transportation for her to return to the United States with him when the war is over? He is a private."

ANSWER: Men who are stationed overseas must have permission from their commanding officers in order to marry. I understand that such permission is not usually granted for at least two months, in an effort to help soldiers avoid impulsive and sometimes unsuitable marriages. To the best of my knowledge, there is at the present time no provision under which the army will assume responsibility for the transportation for wives of soldiers returning to the United States.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or of the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.—First Amendment to the Constitution.

SWORN OPPONENTS OF A SUPER-STATE.

Attention has been called in these columns to the certainty that a world government, a super-government, a Union Now or any other such device for subordinating the United States to a higher authority would destroy the Constitution of the United States. The enumerated powers of the federal government would have to be transferred to the new government. The change could not be made by a few amendments of the Constitution and certainly not by a treaty. The whole document, with all that it guarantees of liberty and progress, would have to be junked.

Congress could no longer have the power to make war, raise an army, regulate commerce, legislate concerning patents, bankruptcy, the currency, and so on. All these spheres of authority and all the administrative responsibilities in connection with them that the President bears would be taken away from our federal government and transferred to the higher one. The Constitution would no longer be the supreme law of the land and that would work a revolution in the judicial branch of government.

It is wishful thinking to pretend that effective world government could leave our Constitution as a living force.

Every public official in the United States from the highest to the lowest is sworn to defend the Constitution. Every one of them is therefore sworn to oppose the schemes of the internationalists. The President, upon entering office, takes his solemn oath "to preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States." That is the very essence of his pledge to the people. If he strives for super-government he violates his oath.

These are not idle words. How much they meant to Lincoln is revealed in his first inaugural address when, speaking to those who were threatening armed rebellion, he said:

"You have no oath registered in heaven to destroy the government while I shall have the most solemn one to 'preserve, protect, and defend it.'"

Every congressman takes an oath which is no less specific. He solemnly swears to "support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic" and to "bear true faith and allegiance to the same." He "takes this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion," and he calls on God to witness his promise.

The same oath is taken by every other official of the government, by every officer of the army and navy, and by every naturalized immigrant. The young men who have entered the army at West Point or the navy at Annapolis swear, in addition, to "bear true allegiance to the national government" and "to maintain and defend the sovereignty of the United States paramount to any and all allegiance, sovereignty or fealty I may owe to any state, county or country whatsoever." The naturalized immigrant swears, in addition, to "renounce and abjure all allegiance to any foreign state or sovereignty."

Every civil and military official, every legislator, every judge, is sworn to defend the Constitution of the United States. Every one of these men and women is therefore sworn to oppose the imposition of a super-government on the people of the United States.

MR. MONROE OF R STREET.

Nothing revealed in the congressional inquiry clears up the interesting murkiness of 2101 R street, Washington, D. C. Some Washington streets are well named for mystery. "R street" seems to hide something as if it didn't want to disclose all it knew and never would. It has the air of secret rendezvous, for no reason you could make much of, yet suggesting coaches, link lights and cloaks drawn up to the eyes, of petticoats raised to avoid puddles and little scurries from curb to the door, of Basil Zaharoff, Mme. Flahaut, the Abbé Périgord, Mr. Philip Musica, Gouverneur Morris, Mr. Ivor Kreuger, Mme. Caillaux, Dr. Watson, and Sherlock Holmes.

The host at 2101 R street, whose guests were so numerous and of such high place, was at first vaguely identified. Later his figure became better outlined and he was "described as John Monroe." A lady, who at first refused to answer any questions, became known as Mrs. Eula Smith. There was also a Mrs. Monroe. Further, it was recalled that Mr. Monroe had formerly been Mr. Kaplan and that he had had a West Point association. Among his guests were Secretary of the Navy Knox and Maj. Gen. L. H. Campbell Jr., army chief of ordnance, and Sen. Austin. Chairman Nelson of the WPB and Rubber Director Jeffers issued statements asserting that they never had been at the house.

Mr. Monroe said that he enjoyed good conversation and liked to have men and women of wit and understanding assemble at his house—a revival of the old salon idea without, apparently, Mme. de Stael, Mme. Roland, Mme. Récamier, and distinctly, as Mr. Monroe declared, without the lady of the camellias. Gen. Campbell said that at his first dinner party he chatted with Otto Hapsburg and his brother Felix. Apparently they can be delivered in Washington by anybody who wishes to give a dynastic sparkle to an entertainment. Gen. Campbell also recalled that the fried chicken was delicious and that there was plenty of it. There also were cocktails and good wine.

The phenomenon, as it dimly shapes up, is that of a gentleman with two ladies appearing out of nowhere, renting a large house, and issuing invitations to the high place men of the national capital, to whom he is entirely unknown. His purposes are unknown, his means of subsistence are unknown, but he starts a flow of automobiles up to his door. His soirées are immediately great social successes and, presumably, the conversation is everything he desires it to be. What other than victuals and wit were offered, the congressional inquiries have been unable to discover.

The only explanation for all this which comes to the surface is that official Washington will go any place where a free meal is offered. This was a characteristic of our official society, even before anybody had to tote ration books to the grocer and meat market. The Washington eye would glitter with anticipation as soon as an opportunity was offered to put the legs under a dining table.

Any one who wanted to make a career out of nothing called in the vendors and the vintners and issued his invitations. A social and official success could be measured by the size of his grocery bill and the quality of his wine cellar. Mr. McNutt made his bid for the Presidency by appealing to Washington's inner man. Hard Times Harry Hopkins made himself more famous by feeding the well-to-do than he did by feeding the indigent. He has lived up to the portents of his early career as a social worker.

All Mr. Knox needed to know was that there was something to eat. He has no recollection of anything else. The delicious fried chicken was doubtless only one of the numerous items offered to tempt officialdom into what is otherwise a mystery. Out of the murkiness of 2101 R street we get clearly only a picture of distinguished gentlemen sniffing the air and asking, "What's cooking?"

VOTES FOR FREEDOM.

The British parliament is now sitting in its 8th year. It was elected in October, 1935, and has the power to extend its term of office as long as it sees fit. Even its composition as between parties is frozen, insofar as the party organizations have been able to do it, by an agreement that in by-elections to fill vacancies no organized opposition will be offered to the candidate of the party that formerly held the seat. Voters have shown their resentment at this practice by electing several Independents.

Not only has parliament frozen its members in office but it has frozen a large sector of British electors away from the polls, by failing to revise the registration lists. No one under 26 years old can vote in England today because of this, and many hundreds of thousands of voters who have moved to other parts of the country to work in war factories are also effectively disfranchised in their new homes.

Much of this we have escaped in the United States, since our written Constitution provides fixed terms of office and the registration and qualification of voters are in the hands of the states, subject to the 15th and 19th amendments. We have, however, other problems. Secretary Stimson by his unconstitutional order forbidding officers in the army to be candidates for civil office is attempting to supplant a republican form of government by military decrees. Still more serious than this has been his and Secretary Knox's sabotage of the federal and state statutes designed to permit men in service to cast their ballots.

Adequate arrangements for soldier and sailor voting were made before the last congressional election, but the two secretaries defeated them by refusing until too late to transport ballots to troops overseas on the contention that shipping space was not available. About the same time, however, they found space in ships going to our overseas forces for the OWI magazine, Victory, with its load of fourth term propaganda.

By next fall, we are told, we shall have from 10 to 13 million men in uniform, about one man in six in our adult male population. If the two New Deal secretaries have their way as they had it last fall and if the war lasts for a number of years, many of our young men will, like the young men of Great Britain, approach middle age without having exercised their franchise or been trained in the practices of self-government.

We are told we are fighting this war for freedom, or for the four freedoms. Mr. Knox and Mr. Stimson are apparently of the conviction that we are not fighting it for the freedom of the ballot. Congress has ample time in which to prevent these senile incompetents from destroying the rights of American citizens and must not neglect its duty in the matter.

BRIBERY.

Sen. Bankhead has introduced his bill to provide 25 million to 30 million dollars to be expended by the government in advertising, with the condition that at least half the sum be given to country newspapers. This is a movement to corrupt and discredit the press. Responsible newspapers have already made it clear that they want no part of these federal subsidies.

These federal appropriations are not and cannot under any circumstances be considered legitimate advertising. Every decent newspaper considers that an advertiser buys space in its columns solely because he anticipates a profit from the use of that space.

The federal government has nothing to advertise to which the newspapers are not already, as a patriotic duty, giving the fullest publicity in their news columns. This is an advantage which no private advertiser can have and no sensible advertiser expects.

The government, in short, would be paying a subsidy. The money would be distributed among the newspapers that give editorial backing to the New Deal and the fourth term. The proposal is one for outright bribery and congress will insult every decent newspaper in the country if the plan is adopted.

THEY FORGOT ABOUT HIM.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Seven years ago a 14 year old boy lay on the bank of a St. Louis county creek resting after picking wild flowers with a 5 year old companion. In a sudden fit of rage, over a real or fancied grievance, he stabbed his playmate and threw him into the creek.

The sovereign state of Missouri sent the 14 year old to an institution for the feeble minded. Then it forgot him.

After three months, his parents brought him home "for a vacation." They didn't take him back, and no one asked why.

The juvenile court judge who sent him to the institution had forgotten about the matter.

The probation officer had forgotten about it.

The superintendent of the school for the feeble minded soon forgot about it.

Nobody did anything about it.

Two days ago the feeble minded 14 year old, now a man, after a fashion, brutally assaulted and stabbed to death a neighbor's 3 year old daughter.

Once more this feeble minded degenerate is a problem for the sovereign state of Missouri. Let us hope that is where the parallel ends.

FUR-BEARING "FLAT TOPS."

As a freshwater "flat top" fancier, this column lifts an eyebrow over the name that has been chosen for the Wolverine's sister ship, Sable. In our books, the sable is a Siberian animal. It has close relations in this country, but they are named martens.

* * *

The wolverine is a totem for the state of Michigan, and the aircraft training ship bearing that name is in the Great Lakes tradition. The Sable, however, suggests the fur coat trade, in which the pelt of the marten may occasionally be sold under the aristocratic name of sable.

* * *

Of course you will find Sable scattered up and down the Great Lakes coasts in place-names, but when so used it is the French word for "sand."

* * *

As fur-bearing animals the sable and the wolverine present a striking contrast. The former reaches a top note in luxury; the latter lurks among the miscellaneous stuff at the bottom of the market. Small rugs and foot sacks cover the range of the wolverine's usefulness.

* * *

Perhaps the crew of the Sable and "flat top" admirers in general would like to know something about the marten. It is generally brown of color, shading from tawny to blackish; it lurks in trees, and is more bloodthirsty than any animal except the weasel. Length of head and body, 16 to 18 inches; tail, 9 to 12 inches. One American variety, called the pekan, Pennant's marten, or fisher marten, is the biggest of the breed; length of head and body, 24 to 30 inches; tail, 14 to 18 inches.

TO A LINOTYPE MACHINE.

Amazing mechanism, pulsing hot
With molten lead propelled into your veins,
A hungry belly (termed a metal pot),
A lengthy arm and hand, revealing brains.
A stodgy mortal tends your gassy fire
While you devour the news hot off the wire.

You cast up columns with avidity,
Impartially recording fact or fiction.
You line up heroism and stupidity,
Reports of duty done or dereliction.
In times of crises you're in finest fettle;
The more they crowd, the more you show your metal.

And when you've finished with the passing show,
And everything has duly gone to press,
You rest from labor with retarded glow
And probably with feelings of success.
Next day, for action you are blazing hot,
And what you cast today returns to pot.

Is he aware, the man that pounds your keys,
How much your work resembles Destiny's?

O, for the Life of an Earthworm.

"Do you know that an earthworm lives to be 10 years old?"

"Well, what d'ye know! Say, that's a long time for such a little animal to live. How do you account for it?"

"Well, as I figure it out, he doesn't have much to worry about. No ration books, points, income tax, etc. For instance, what does he care about coupon 17?"

"I think you've got something there. He comes nearer having the four freedoms than anybody, doesn't he?"

"Sure he does. Take freedom from want. When he's hungry the whole earth is his oyster. As for worship, he just doesn't bother his head about it. And who ever heard of an earthworm making a speech?"

"But what about fear? I was thinking of those Victory garden spaders."

"Yes, but even if they cut him in two with the spade, he simply grows another tail and wiggles right on."

"That's so. But what about fishermen?"

"Well, I'll admit it must be monotonous dangling on a fishhook for hours at a time waiting for something to happen."

"And another thing. He can't stick his head out at night but what some kid flashes a light in his eyes. That's not very nice."

"Well, I guess even an earthworm can't expect everything."

TO CHICAGO SPRING.

Blessed spring in old Chicago,
How you get into our blood!
You consist of a farrago
Largely made of rain and mud.

You suggest, Spring of Chicago,
A great springtime heaven sent To dear, balmy Santiago
(Since you are so differ-ent).

And as in the mire we bog, C,
Blessed spring, we long for you.
Yes, we'd miss spring in Chicago
(And we nearly always do).

The Mystery of "Doughboy."

After polishing off "boots" [May 4], Contributor Guy W. Wells asked about the origin of the term "doughboy" as applied to the American soldier. There is proof that "doughboy" was applied to American infantrymen as long ago as 1867. H. L. Mencken [1923] attempted to link the term to the practice of whitening uniforms by applying pipe-clay, which became soggy and doughlike when saturated with rain.

A more general belief is that the term was derived from a fancied resemblance between the large brass buttons formerly used on soldiers' uniforms and dumplings, which were once called "doughboys."

COMPLICATIONS OF SCARLET FEVER.

AMONG childhood diseases, scarlet fever continues to present many complications. Regardless of how moderate the attack we must look upon the malady with suspicion. The cause is a variety of the streptococcus germ. In the lightest sort of infection, with the youngster difficult to control because he feels so well, trouble may blaze forth suddenly with involvement of the kidneys or the middle ear spaces.

The disease is spread by contact whenever susceptible persons mingle with those who harbor the "bugs" within their throats. This does not mean that the sufferer need be confronted face to face. Coughing or sneezing can fill the air with microbes. As a rule, the organisms enter thru the air passages—the nose or the mouth. An open wound also provides a suitable gateway. After exposure, the first symptoms make their appearance within two to seven days.

Three signs are important—sore throat, headache, and vomiting. The temperature rises sharply, the face becomes flushed, and the patient is restless. These manifestations may persist for two or three days with enlargement of the glands about the neck and so much congestion within the throat that swallowing may become difficult. During this interval, the victim may be extremely ill.

Then comes the typical breaking out, which looks as tho the skin had been painted with red ink. Occasionally, a goose pimplelike rash will be seen, but it may be so even and smooth that it will resemble a coat of calcimine. Various parts of the body react differently. The lower abdomen and the inner surface of the thighs may first exhibit the lesions. About the nose and mouth there is a characteristic whitish ring. The tongue is heavily coated and deposits may be observed on the gums.

Sometimes the ailment is not recognized until peeling begins and this usually starts before the eruption has disappeared wholly. About the third or fourth day, powdery scales may be noted upon the face. Other regions may follow in order—the neck, the trunk, and the extremities. About the last to be affected are the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet. These may scale as late as the fourth or fifth week.

Naturally, the patient must be completely isolated. Everything used in the invalid's room must be disinfected before it is carried thru the house. The period of quarantine is from three to four weeks, depending upon the rapidity of convalescence.

During the third week we must watch the kidneys carefully. The youngster may be feeling tip top, when, without warning, the face and other parts will appear puffy and swollen with the urine scanty and dark. In such a situation, the physician must be notified at once.

Fortunately, we have a protective vaccine. Its employment should be considered with those who are known to be susceptible following the Dick test. The family doctor is armed with numerous aids—scarlet fever antitoxin, convalescent serum, and the sufonamides. We must not forget that we are dealing with a sly disease, which seems to regard treachery as a virtue.

DISTORTED BONES.

R. P. writes: Is chicken-breast detrimental to the health of a male?

REPLY.

No. A delectable morsel when well cooked. You may refer to childhood rickets which causes a disorder known as "pigeon-breast." Here the sternum [breastbone] is unduly prominent. As a rule, vitality is not impaired.

VESSELS TO HEART.

F. E. R. writes: What is cardiovascular disease?

REPLY.

Trouble with the heart and blood vessels, usually associated with arteriosclerosis. High blood pressure may be a symptom.

GUARANTEE PRICES FOR CATTLE.

Chicago, May 4.—I read with very much interest your article on the beef situation appearing in this morning's Tribune.

In my official capacity a great portion of my time is devoted to loaning money on live stock in the territory west of the Mississippi, both to feeders and to the rangemen. Previously I was associated with many country banks in the state of Iowa and I also operated one of the governmental loaning agencies set up during the last depression—the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation at Omaha, Neb.—where I was manager and where at one time our peak loans on live stock were close to 40 million dollars. This included both feed lot loans and range type loans on cattle and sheep.

To begin with, please bear in mind I am thoroly opposed, in general, to subsidy of the farmers and especially at this time when the average grain farmer is making good money. However, there is a positive shortage of finished beef and, unless something is done, it will continue to get worse instead of better.

Therefore, I proposed that the feeder be allowed a guaranteed price spread, if it became necessary, of 2½ cents or preferably 3 cents a pound, depending on the stability of grain prices and proteins that make up these feed mixtures.

Taking your own article as an example, the feeder would go out and buy a 650 pound steer and, at present day markets, he would probably have to pay 15 cents a pound, at least, for this steer. I would say that the government should guarantee him at least 17½ or 18 cents for his steer when it is finished out with the definite agreement that he would have to put on at least 60 per cent more weight on that steer before he could qualify for the guaranteed price. He would also have to be an experienced feeder, having had at least three years' experience in feeding cattle and would have to have the equipment and the feed.

This would do several things. In the first place it would encourage many feeders, who cannot afford to take the chance of a loss in feeding, to put cattle in their lots. Second, the feeder who always feeds would increase his feeding operations to the full capacity of his equipment. Third, it would eliminate slaughtering of grass cattle by the packers and take them out of competition with the feeders in the market. Fourth, it would make a safe loan for any bank to handle, almost regardless of the financial standing of the feeder, and fifth, it would insure the feeder a profit. Last and far from least, it would double the production of beef.

There seems to be, in my own opinion at least, just one "fly in the ointment." These feeders might go out and pay any price for the stocker cattle. However, a ceiling on live stock on the hoof, as far as beef is concerned, would eliminate that danger, but you will find the growers in the range territory opposed to this kind of a ceiling. However, I say to you, with my experience, even at this stage of the game, the growers are making money on this beef at much lower prices than they are now obtaining for their cattle. Of course, setting a ceiling on the live animal would automatically set a proper ceiling all the way down the line.

RATIONS FOR TWO.

Chicago, May 2.—We are a family of two, husband and wife. We enjoy the privilege of belonging to what is known as the middle class people. We live comfortably, pay cash for everything, pay a high income tax and buy war bonds; but since rationing we are faced with a peculiar situation. Because of our small family we are unable to buy the better quality meats because we lack members in our family to give us red points. After we purchase a half pound each of lard, butter, cheese, and bacon, we of the two-in-a-family class have 17 red stamps remaining to supply meat for an entire week, while the family with five or six children has stamps to burn.

We are cautioned against the black market as a deadly enemy. Will some one please tell me how the family of two can ever hope to see a roast or steak, as long as the values of points are as they are for the little family, unless they visit the black market?

MAUREEN DALY.

Albany, N. Y., April 21.—You may be interested to know that the articles written by Miss Maureen Daly which appear in your paper afford great pleasure to any number of high school students here in the east. Students have been able to keep in touch with the writings of a young author who serves as an inspiration for them, one who makes a tremendous appeal to them by reason of the perfect understanding of their problems and ambitions evidenced in her writings. There are so very few present day authors who reflect in their works the deep, keen sounding of the hearts of the youth of our day! In making it possible for the youth of our country to enjoy an author who writes so well both of and for them you are performing a commendable service.

THE BOMBPROOFERS.

Rantoul, Ill., May 5.—I am a veteran of World War I., saw overseas service in the Rainbow division, was a little too old to be drafted and was turned down trying to enlist in this war. There seems to be a controversy in regard to the size of the army and shortage of men for the services. Here is my suggestion. Comb all army camps in the United States, check the permanent personnel, put all those into active service who have been in one place six months or longer, regardless of the size of the army and you will even surprise the axis.

It will perhaps come as a surprise to some—it is not well known—the number of men in uniform who expect to fight this war in this country.

CONCENTRATE THE BOMBS.

Hammond, Ind., April 26—Our present bombing strategy results in the German war machine being a "wonderful one horse shay" in that we are trying to stop it by distributing our supply of bombs over all vital parts, which results in no part being made so useless that the rest cannot function.

It would seem that our bomb supply would have an effect far out of proportion if it were concentrated, as much as practicable, on a single vital item, such as railroads and manufacturing establishments associated with railroad production. One bomb dropped on a railroad under this procedure might be worth as many as 500 dropped as at present.

Altho the enemy would have left more gun, tank, ship, plane, and sub producing facilities he would not have enough transportation for them to function and his war machine would fall due to lack of replacements.

Bill Lawson.

NICE, IF YOU CAN GET IT.

Chicago, May 4.—I beg to disagree with John Franklin, who says that the renters in the Lathrop project have their annual incomes checked regularly. I formerly lived there and I knew a family who occupied a $22.25 a month "bungalow" who had three members employed, their total monthly income amounting to $380.00. This continued for two and a half years. They have since purchased a home of their own in Elmhurst. If every hard working man could be helped by the government in this manner I am sure we could all be home owners. Do the taxpayers know that the $22.25 rent included gas, electricity, refrigeration, necessary repairs and decorating, and free use of washing machines in the main building?

SUBSTITUTE FOR WILL.

Chicago, May 8—[Legal Friend of the People].—Is it possible to deed my property to two of my heirs, having them hold the deed unrecorded until after my death? Would such a course be advisable?

M. W.

The use of an unrecorded deed as a substitute for a will invites litigation on the question whether the deed was validly delivered during the grantor's life time. Such an attempted arrangement was defeated in the recent case of Stanford vs. Stanford, 371 Ill. 211. While a lawyer might safely arrange for a delivery "in escrow," we strongly advise against lay experimentation.

ARMY OFFICIALS JOIN IN QUIZ AT AIR CORPS BASE

War Department Sends Investigators.

BY HARRY McCLAIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 10.—Investigation of reported irregularities at Selfridge field, the huge army air base 25 miles from Detroit, which was ordered by the house military affairs committee last week after a Negro private was shot by the post commander, moved ahead rapidly today with these developments:

1. Master Sergt. Myron Collins, considered a key witness in reported placement of many of the Selfridge field personnel in bomb proof jobs near their home city of Detroit, was placed under military arrest.

Other Investigators Arrive.

2. Col. Franklin Babock of the inspector general's office in Washington arrived at Selfridge field with several assistants to participate in the inquiry.

3. Robert W. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, dispatched Julius Amberg, his legal advisor, from Washington to stay here until the Selfridge affair is cleaned up.

4. John C. Lehr, United States attorney, said he would seek immediate indictment of any civilians who are involved in arrangements to insure soft Selfridge field berths for their relatives or friends.

Sergeant Found in Hotel.

When Rep. Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.], who was sent here by the house military affairs committee to investigate Selfridge field, made a surprise visit to the field Sunday, Collins could not be located, altho he had been flown here from Tampa, Fla., where he was transferred last March, for interrogation. Lt. Col. Charles G. White, executive officer of the field, finally admitted that he had given Collins an unlimited pass. Collins later was found in a Detroit hotel.

Col. William B. Wright, who was placed in command of Selfridge field last week after Col. William T. Colman shot Pvt. William McRae, negro, did not know Collins had been returned from Florida for the inquiry. Col. Wright, who arrived at Selfridge field virtually unaware of the McRae shooting, has pledged his aid to Rep. Shafer in the investigation. Col. Colman is under confinement in a hospital at Battle Creek. McRae is recovering in the post hospital.

Shafer Tells of Charges.

Rep. Shafer said his committee had been hearing for months that soft jobs were being arranged for monetary and other considerations, that discipline was so lax that commissioned officers accompanied enlisted men to parties with girls, and that certain persons had profited handsomely last year when the government added 2,700 acres to the 690 which made up the original air base.

Charles Burman and Hubert K. Marks, Macomb county constables who are accused of having taken a bribe of $200 to fix jobs at Selfridge field, are the immediate targets of Lehr's investigation, but Lehr has said at least 50 persons are involved.

William M. Hasse, the victim of a second Selfridge field shooting last week, still is in a serious condition. Hasse, a color expert, 54 years old, who resigned his job with a Detroit printing firm only a few weeks ago, was shot by a guard when he attempted to enter Selfridge field.

STORE WORKERS DONATE MOBILE BLOOD BANK UNIT

Employés of Goldblatt Brothers stores yesterday presented a mobile blood bank unit to the Red Cross in ceremonies in front of the store at 333 South State street. Before a throng of shoppers and employés, Mayor Kelly commended the donation and said it represented the kind of united effort and helpfulness at home that gave the finest support to men at the front.

Joseph H. King, chairman of the Red Cross blood donor center at 5 North Wabash avenue and vice chairman of the Chicago Red Cross chapter, said the unit had a service history already. Since it was put into use last month, it has been used to carry 23,750 pints of blood and more than 3 million surgical dressings.

Harry Lichten, president of the Goldblatt Employé Clubs, made the presentation saying that the unit represented a search for something especially needed beyond buying war bonds and stamps, and coöperating in other war activities.

'Part Time Husband'

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Suzanne D. Kettering.

Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday granted a divorce in Superior court to Mrs. Suzanne D. Kettering, 32 years old, 1055 Granville avenue, from Frank D. Kettering, 32, radio entertainer.

"He was only a part time husband," said Mrs. Kettering, who charged cruelty. "He spent most of his time with an assortment of musical instruments." These, she said, were a bass fiddle, flute, piano, piccolo, guitar, and banjo.

She was awarded an $8,000 cash settlement, household furnishings, an automobile, $45,000 in insurance which her husband must keep up, and $85 a week support for herself and two daughters, Carol, 8, and Barbara, 3, whose custody she was granted.

The couple was married Feb. 21, 1929, and separated April 7, 1943.

ADVISES CLERKS' UNION TO SOLVE TROUBLES IN AFL

Master Asserts Court Lacks Jurisdiction.

Louis J. Behan, master in chancery in Superior court, yesterday recommended the dismissal of an injunction suit sought by the Retail Clerks' International Protective association against two of its former officials who bolted the union and began organizing its members under the banner of another AFL international.

Behan held that the matter is one for settlement by the AFL itself and said he found that the "litigation involves only the internal affairs of unincorporated organizations and that the court has no jurisdiction to interfere."

Dates to Caldwell Raid.

The complaint of the graft-ridden retail clerks' union stems from the reign of Max Caldwell, the czar of local 1248 of the retail clerks' international who ruled all union clerks in Chicago for five years and looted their treasury of $910,000 to assume a life of riches and ease in Miami Beach, Fla.

Caldwell, who took all records of local 1248 with him, is under sentence of two years in federal prison for harboring Michael Savachka, the draft-dodging stooge who acted as secretary treasurer of his local. Savachka is now in the army.

After Caldwell, who was international representative of the union, left and his graft was exposed, reorganization took place and one of the new locals which grew up here was local 1530, which sought the injunction.

Defendants in the action were Samuel Krause, former secretary, and Louis Rubenstein, former president of local 1530, who were represented by Atty. David A. Riskind.

Krause and Rubenstein contended that the international officers of their union refused to prosecute Caldwell and refused to press for an accounting of the missing $910,000 contributed in dues by the members.

Accept Protection Offer.

William L. McFetridge, president of the International Building Service Employés' union, another AFL group, was persuaded to organize a local 156 of the store employés' union, to take in the dissatisfied clerks. Krause and Rubenstein bolted the protective association and joined up with McFetridge's group.

They said that the building service union offered the members protection that was refused them by the clerks' international and began soliciting members from the clerks' protective association.

The retail clerks' protective association sought the injunction to restrain Krause and Rubenstein from alienating its members to the building service employés' local, and accused them of taking the books and records of their local 1530 when they bolted.

Behan found that this allegation lacked sufficient proof.

WOMAN SWALLOWS POISON.

Mrs. Edna Nelson, 32 years old, was taken to County hospital yesterday after she had swallowed poison in her apartment at 1012 Monroe street.

TODAY...
The men and women of Chicago's Studebaker Aviation Division receive the ARMY-NAVY "E" AWARD for excellence in producing Wright Cyclone Engines for the Boeing Flying Fortress

WE CHICAGOANS know that our city is one of the key war production centers of the nation.

Yet relatively few of us realize that many of our friends and neighbors are helping to build large quantities of the Wright Cyclone engines that power the mighty Boeing Flying Fortress—most famous airplane of this war.

Today, those friends and neighbors—the men and women of Chicago's Studebaker Aviation Division—receive official recognition of the part they are playing in America's march to victory. They receive the coveted Army-Navy "E" Award for excellence in the production of the Wright Cyclone engines used in the Flying Fortress.

These Chicago Studebaker Aviation Division employees accept this distinction with full awareness that it is a challenge as well as an honor—a challenge to reach new peaks of accomplishment in the work they have thus far so satisfactorily done.

Ever since the founding of the Studebaker business more than 91 years ago, the precept "give more than you promise" has been the watchword of one generation of Studebaker craftsmen after another.

Those simple words now take on new and greater significance, as the men and women of Chicago's Studebaker Aviation Division receive the "E" Award and pledge themselves anew—"to give more than we promise"—to prove worthy of their wartime slogan "Work will win."

A RICH UNION JOB IS OPEN; POLICE EYE APPLICANTS

Suspect Gang May Pick Donovan Successor.

The state's attorney's office is anxious to know who will step into the lucrative and powerful union job vacated by the death Sunday of William J. [Bill] Donovan. It has asked Lt. George Barnes of the police labor detail to make inquiries.

Whether some one tapped by the gangsters' syndicate—as Donovan was five years ago—will elbow in from the outside and seize the power and the purse strings of the International Laundry Workers' union is the question Assistant State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley wants answered.

Funeral Services Today.

Donovan, 52 years old, will be buried today after services at 10 a. m. in St. Patrick's church. He lived at 222 East Chestnut street, drawing from $200 to $300 a week as secretary treasurer of local 46 of the union, which has 20,000 members paying 40 cents a week dues, and another $100 a week as president of the international union, which has headquarters at 7 North Meridian street, Indianapolis, and 45,000 dues paying members.

Back in 1936 Donovan was an "honest gambler" with a background as a saloon keeper and salesman.

The old Capone gang, which lost its prohibition liquor revenues, was stepping into the union labor picture. It decided to organize the laundry workers, who had a mere shell of a union. Donovan was given the job.

A Powerful Unit.

He brought local 46 from virtually nothing to a powerful unit holding closed shop and checkoff contracts with employers of 18,000 $18 a week laundry workers here.

In 1939, thru a coup organized by such gangland barons as George Scalise and Max Caldwell, Donovan was given his reward—the presidency of the laundry workers' international. The union's constitution had to be changed so that Donovan, whose only connection with laundry work was thru his clean shirts, could hold office. But the gangsters took care of that.

Lt. Barnes has been unable to find out what the treasury of the local or the international holds. The state's attorney is interested in the international organization because nearly half of the international's membership are dues paying Chicago workers.

Donovan's local 46 is staffed by Sam Deahl, president; Charles Lindgren, vice president, and Helen Joss, recording secretary. The secretary treasurer of the international is William J. Byers.

None of these could be reached last night, but Lt. Barnes has promised to continue his investigation until the state's attorney's office is satisfied.

SEVEN HIT-RUN JOYRIDERS HELD AFTER ACCIDENT

Six boys and girls were being held at the juvenile home last night in connection with the theft of a truck in which they struck and seriously injured a man while joyriding early yesterday. Elizabeth Davis, 17 years old, 5202 Winthrop avenue, named some of her companions when they fled from the scene of the accident, leaving her behind.

She named Martin Gavin, 15, of 5630 Ridge avenue, as the driver, and George Homrig, 16, of 4864 Magnolia avenue, as a passenger. Police seized them in their homes and subsequently arrested others named in the prisoners' confessions. They are: Felix Chrzanowski, 16, of 4929 Kenmore avenue Gus Demos, 16, of 1000 Argyle avenue, and Donald and Paul Rider, brothers, 14 and 15, of 5333 Winthrop avenue.

The truck, stolen from a parking lot, was being driven north at 5085 Broadway when it struck Harry Cheerept, 51, of 5224 Magnolia avenue, as he was alighting from a street car. He was taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital suffering a possible leg fracture.

BLOOD OF CURED PATIENT SOUGHT TO SAVE CHILD

Blood from a person who has recovered from a viridans streptococcus infection of the heart is required to save the life of Thomas Robert James, 2 years old, at the Children's Memorial hospital, 707 Fullerton avenue, the father, Thomas V. James, 4170 Barry avenue, said last night.

James said he is attempting to locate a gypsy girl, Annie Stanley, about 22 years old now, who recovered from the disease three years ago at the Illinois Research hospital. He has heard that this young woman went to California 18 months ago and yesterday he sent a telegram to the sheriff of Sacramento county to attempt to find her and ask her to send a pint of blood by air express to Chicago.

OBITUARIES

Josephine Butler.

VALIDITY OF CITY COURT DIVORCES UPHELD BY JUDGE

Validity of divorces granted by city courts to persons residing outside the court's nominal jurisdiction was upheld yesterday by Judge Thomas J. Lynch in Circuit court.

Judge Lynch's affirmation of city courts' power to grant divorce decrees was contained in his dismissal of a suit for annulment brought by John F. Cullen, 23 years old, 10365 Avenue G, against his wife, Mrs. Helen Stevens Cullen, 19, of 8118 Indiana avenue.

Cullen had contended that his wife's divorce from her first husband last August, two weeks before Cullen's marriage to her, was invalid. Mrs. Cullen's divorce had been granted in the city court of Calumet City.

Judge Lynch's action was made on a motion by Atty. Sol R. Friedman, divorce expert and appearing in the case as a friend of the court, that Mrs. Cullen's divorce was legal. Friedman cited an amendment to the state constitution adopted in 1939 which granted city courts the right to award divorces to nonresidents of the city when defendants in the actions submitted themselves to the court's jurisdiction.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg, speaker of the state house of representatives, who instituted the annulment suit, said he would appeal to the state Supreme court.

CALUMET MAYOR HORNED BY TWO BOND DILEMMAS

Mayor John J. Jaranowski and the city council of Calumet City found themselves yesterday between two legal fires with the granting by Judge Joseph H. Graber in Superior court of an injunction restraining them from issuing or selling $425,000 in bonds to pay off special assessments.

If they abide by Judge Graber's injunction the mayor and city council will violate a mandate by Circuit Judge John Prystalski ordering them to issue and sell the bonds.

Judge Graber's injunction was granted in behalf of a tax payers' suit brought by the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad.

Judge Prystalski recently found the mayor and council in contempt of court for failure to comply with the order. He held sentencing in abeyance upon their assurance that the bonds would be issued.

John E. Pavlik, city attorney of the southern Cook county suburb, admitted that he didn't know what the city officials were going to do:

"If Judge Prystalski sentences the mayor and council members . . . If Judge Graber sends them to jail . . . well, this thing needs a lot of thinking out."

SUMMON MOVIE EXECUTIVES FOR GANG'S HEARING

17 Asked to Appear in Extradition Fight.

Judge John P. Barnes in Federal court yesterday issued subpenas for 19 persons, all except two of them motion picture executives, to testify at a hearing for Paul Ricca, Louis Campagna, and four other defendants who are fighting extradition to New York to answer indictments charging extortion and mail fraud.

The six, who are members of the gangsters' syndicate which succeeded the old Capone gang, are accused by a New York grand jury under United States Attorney Mathias Correa of extorting money from four major motion picture companies on promises to prevent labor disturbances in the industry.

Continuance Will Be Sought.

The six are scheduled to be arraigned tomorrow before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Atty. A. Bradley Eben, representing them, said he would ask the commissioner for a continuance so that the 19 for whom the subpenas have been issued can testify.

Judge Barnes said that he was issuing the subpenas on the responsibility of the defense attorney, who told him the testimony of the 19 would be necessary and material to the case.

"It is no more than right that a full and fair hearing for these men be held inasmuch as these are the rights for which we are now waging a war," the judge said.

Eben told Judge Barnes he hoped to disprove the charges of extortion in the indictments thru the testimony of the 19 witnesses. He did not elaborate on just what he hoped the testimony would prove.

No Protest from U. S. Aid.

An assistant United States district attorney was in the courtroom but did not protest the defense motion to call the witnesses, some of whom may have been used to bring out facts on which the government based its indictments.

Correa, in New York City, said no decision has been reached on whether the government will oppose letting the 19 who were subpenaed testify at the Chicago hearing. Correa said the government usually does not oppose the issuance of subpenas in such cases but calling upon those summoned for testimony is another matter.

Eben said that the mail fraud charges would be treated separately. He said, after the hearing, that the defense would have to pay all the expense of bringing the witnesses to Chicago. All of them live either in California or New York.

It was estimated that at 5 cents per mile for traveling fees and $5 a day for witness fees, it would cost the defense $3,000 or $4,000 to bring the 19 persons here for the arraignment.

Names of Those Called.

Those for whom subpenas were issued are: Nicholas Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., New York; Louis B. Mayer, president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Los Angeles; Joseph Schenck, chairman of 20th Century-Fox company, Los Angeles; Harry Warner, head of Warner Brothers, Los Angeles; Marvin Schenck, nephew of Nicholas; Charles C. Moskowitz and David Bernstein, all of Loew's, New York; John W. Smith, film executive, Los Angeles.

Nicholas Nayfack, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Los Angeles; Joseph H. Moskowitz, brother of Charles, 20th Century-Fox; William C. Michel, 20th Century-Fox, New York; Lt. Albert Warner, brother of Harry, Quonset, R. I.; Thomas J. Martin and Samuel Carlisle, both of Warner Brothers, New York; Henry J. Strong, 20th Century-Fox, New York.

Atty. Henry Hurzbrun, Los Angeles; Atty. Arthur Israel Jr., New York; Austin C. Keough, chairman of Paramount Pictures, New York, and Arthur C. Martin of Paramount Pictures, Los Angeles.

Besides Ricca and Campagna, those under indictment are Francis Maritote, alias Frank Diamond; Ralph Pierce, Charles Gioe, and Phil D'Andrea.

FARM BUREAU HEAD ASSAILS SUBSIDY PRICES

Opposition against the office of price administration's program to roll back food prices thru the use of government subsidies to producers and processors was expressed yesterday by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation in Chicago.

"Food subsidies are a subsidy to labor and the consumer and do not increase food output," O'Neal said. "Labor needs no subsidy. Wages have increased much faster than living costs. Such a program will burden taxpayers with billions of unnecessary federal costs."

River Mystery

MRS. ANNA JIPP.

HENRY JIPP (LEFT) AND KENNETH MURDOCH.

Lt. Joseph Polacek of the county highway police yesterday released Emil Meyer, 57 years old, and his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Murdoch, after the three submitted to lie detector tests in the investigation of the death of Mrs. Helen J. Braun, professional accordionist, whose body was found Sunday in the Des Plaines river in North Riverside.

Lt. Polacek said he believed the three were telling the truth and had no knowledge of the woman's death. Meyer said Mrs. Braun attended a party in his home at 307 South 2d avenue, Maywood, Feb. 14, which lasted into the next day and that she ran out of his house after an altercation with Mrs. Murdoch.

Mrs. Anna Jipp of 4438 Magnolia avenue, mother of Mrs. Braun, also told police that her daughter had attended the party at Meyer's home.

Dr. William D. McNally, coroner's physician, is examining Mrs. Braun's vital organs to determine whether she died of drowning or had been slain.

Police Cief A. R. Rose of North Riverside said he believed the body, discovered by two small boys and a man in a canoe, had been in the water since Mrs. Braun disappeared Feb. 15. He said the river was frozen over at that time, tending to discredit the suicide theory.

DROP CONNALLY BILL SUBSTITUTE FOR HOUSE VOTE

Washington, May 10 (AP).—At a quickly called meeting, a house military subcommittee headed by Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] was set up today to rewrite the Connally strike bill and report a new measure to the full committee, probably tomorrow.

Confirming the action, May said he was unable to predict what shape the legislation would take. Other members said they expected the subcommittee to write into the senate bill major provisions of measures previously introduced by Rep. Howard W. Smith [D., Va.].

Smith's legislation would outlaw the unionization of supervisory employés in industry, prevent strikes from being called except by a secret vote of a majority of the workers involved, and put other restrictions about war time activities of labor organizations.

Lawmakers friendly to labor groups were mapping a quiet campaign to sit tight while the amendments are offered under the conviction that the senate will reject the measure if it is returned to that chamber with drastic changes.

Cite 55 Speeders to OPA; Face Loss of Gas Ration

Muncipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman sent the names of 55 motorists to the office of price administration yesterday for possible revocation of their gasoline ration cards. All had appeared in court charged with speeding. One of them, Lucius Fox, Negro, of 4244 Langley avenue, was fined $25 and costs for driving 43 miles an hour in a 25 mile zone.

WOMAN TELLS HOW STANTON WAS MURDERED

Simple Funeral Rites Are Held for Gangster.

Funeral services for Danny Stanton, a charter member of the group designated as public enemies a dozen years ago, were held yesterday after which several witnesses to his murder were questioned. The burial of Stanton was a simple event and the murder inquiry was the same.

Decidedly Stanton's funeral was not of the old time gangster variety, perhaps because of the rain. Only a few hundred persons stood about the corner of 76th street and Kingston avenue while an undertaker was saying a few brief prayers inside the Stanton home. The undertaker faced the coffin of cement and bronze—estimated as costing $700 to $800—in which Stanton's body lay, the face powdered to hide gunshot wounds.

Little Known to Neighbors.

Stanton had lived for a time at 7558 Kingston avenue. Few of the neighbors knew him.

The investigation concerning the gangster's death centered in the state's attorney's office and in the Englewood police station, where Capt. Patrick Collins was in charge.

Those questioned after the funeral were Mrs. Cecelia Ashley, 35 years old, telephone operator and wife of an army sergeant, and James J. Fawcett, who said he was employed in a steel mill as an electrician.

Mrs. Ashley saw Stanton slain. She was having dinner with Louis Dorman, Stanton's pal who was killed by the same shotgun blasts that got Stanton.

"I met Louis Dorman at the race track a few days before the shooting," Mrs. Ashley told Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie. "He was in the uniform of a soldier. Last Wednesday he took me to the races, and then took me to dinner and then we went to the 6500 club.

Woman Runs to Telephone.

"There we met Stanton. I was introduced to him but didn't know who he was. I was sitting next to Dorman when the shooting started. Lucky I wasn't hit. I don't know who did the shooting or where they came from or where they went to.

"I ran to a telephone to call the police, but couldn't get an answer. I then ran out and got into an automobile in which Cy Shapiro, who was wounded, was taken to a hospital by a man named Willie."

Mrs. Ashley was accompanied by Atty. George Bieber when she called at the state's attorney's office. She was released.

"I'm not in the racket any more," Fawcett told McCurrie and Capt. Collins. "Believe it or not, I'm working every day at the steel mills. I hadn't seen Stanton for several months before his death."

Fawcett was Stanton's bodyguard for several years, Capt. Collins said. He, too, was released.

Book Salesman Admits Thefts from Mail Boxes

Clarke V. Harrison, 30 years old, 1052 Sheridan road, an insurance and book salesman, pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge William J. Campbell to charges of stealing from mail boxes and forging government checks. Judge Campbell ordered him referred to the probation office for investigation and scheduled June 1 for sentencing. John J. Kelly Jr., assistant United States attorney, said Harrison looted 200 mail boxes and cashed $8,000 worth of checks which he stole and forged.

SENATOR DENIES HE WARNED OF R STREET SMEAR

Washington, D. C., May 10 [Special].—Sen. Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.] denied today that he had warned John Monroe, host of the big red house on R street, that an attempt was going to be made to "smear" Monroe.

Monroe, central figure in the house military affairs committee investigation of war contracts, testified before the committee Wednesday that "Sen. Brewster" had given him warning that "a job" was to be done against Monroe. Monroe did not identify his informant further at that time. Sen. Brewster sent a letter of denial to Rep. Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], committee chairman.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today denied she had been a visitor at the house on R street. She said that several years ago she had received some letters from Mrs. Eula Smith, who now lives at the R street address.

BODY OF BOY, 3, FOUND IN RIVER; WOMAN QUIZZED

Throat Injured; Drowning Cause of Death.

Mount Clemens, Mich., May 10 [Special].—The body of Danny Lyons, 3 years old, who had been missing 12 days, was found today floating in the Clinton river a mile and a half from his home. Police said wounds on the side of the throat indicated he had been choked severely.

Several hours later Mrs. Violet Nonnemaker, 23, who had been widely sought on a charge of kidnaping the boy, surrendered in a Detroit police station. She denied any connection with his disappearance. She said she knew she was being hunted but had been afraid to come forward.

Accused Over Missing Coat.

The child's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lyons, 27, wife of a taxicab driver, had directed suspicion toward Mrs. Nonnemaker by telling police that the woman had a grudge against her and had vowed to "get even."

Last April 1 she had charged Mrs. Nonnemaker, then a lodger in the Lyons home, with stealing her coat, but the charge was dropped when the coat was returned.

Danny disappeared April 28 while his mother was shopping at a store near her home.

Two Boys Find Body.

About noon today two boys, William Jock, 13, and his brother, Ralph, 10, who were looking for driftwood along the river, found Danny's body near the shore.

Dr. W. A. Sibrans and Dr. Joseph La Riviere, who conducted a postmortem examination, said the bruises on the child's throat indicated he either was choked severely before entering the river or had been under the water until he drowned. They said death was caused by drowning and that bleeding from the neck wounds indicated he was alive when he entered the water.

Police Chief A. I. Rosso expressed the belief that "murder may have been done."

Woman to Be Brought Here.

Meantime Mrs. Nonnemaker, who was to be brought here for further questioning, explained she had been living in a Detroit hotel while police hunted her since May 4 on a kidnaping warrant.

She previously had lived here and in nearby Clinton township and had worked in a Detroit war plant until she recently made efforts to join the WAACs.

ATTORNEYS ASK U. S. TO CHALLENGE STATE ON TRACTION UNITY

A group of attorneys, seeking to breathe life back into the Chicago traction unification plan, killed a week ago by a decision of the Illinois commerce commission, asked Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday for permission to seek a rehearing from the commission.

Meanwhile, Mayor Kelly said he would leave for Washington, D. C., tomorrow to ascertain what effect the commission's action might have on future fund allocations by the government for the Chicago subway.

Attorneys William P. Sidley, heading the federal court group that sponsored the unification plan, and William H. Sexton, city traction attorney, told Judge Igoe that they doubted the commerce commission had jurisdiction over the plan. This was the first time the commission's power had been challenged, tho unification had been argued by the attorney for a year.

Judge Igoe asked them to present in court next Monday for his consideration the petition they intend to file for a rehearing before the commerce commission and any briefs they may have challenging the commission's jurisdiction.

Atty. Sidley said the fact that the unification matter was in federal court, which has jurisdiction over the receiverships of both the Chicago Surface Lines and the Chicago Rapid Transit company, operating the elevated lines, might make the state's commerce commission powerless to rule upon it.

TALK ABOUT A UNITED FRONT... LOOK AT ALL THE DIFFERENT RAILROADS LINED UP IN THAT ONE BURLINGTON TRAIN! HOW DO THEY ALL GET TOGETHER?
WHEN YOU ASK THAT KIND OF A QUESTION, YOU'RE TALKING RIGHT UP MY ALLEY, SOLDIER! HERE'S THE DOPE!
Burlington Route
C&S 13662
COLORADO AND SOUTHERN BALTIMORE & OHIO
CB&Q

Sgt.—See that map at the bottom of this ad? See all those lines which connect with each other to form a network over the whole country? Those lines are railroads. The heavy ones are the Burlington. The light ones are a lot of other railroads, each serving a particular part of the country.

Pvt.—I get it—the heavy lines hook up with the light lines in every direction, don't they?

Sgt.—Right—and that's why you see the cars of so many different railroads in that Burlington train—in every Burlington train. Actually, the Burlington is a link between railroads of the North, East, South and West.

Pvt.—I can see from the map that it covers a lot of important territory, all right.

Sgt.—Yes, the Burlington Lines total 11,000 miles in 13 states—some of them agricultural, some of them industrial, and all of them mighty important in winning this war. But it isn't just size that makes it such an essential link. Another big reason is that the Burlington serves 22 major gateways and has a lot of interchange points within its territory.

Pvt.—What's an interchange point?

Sgt.—A place where freight cars are switched from one railroad to another.

Pvt.—Say, how come you know so much about railroads?

Sgt.—That's easy, my dad's a railroader.

Pvt.—Not a Burlington railroader, by any chance?

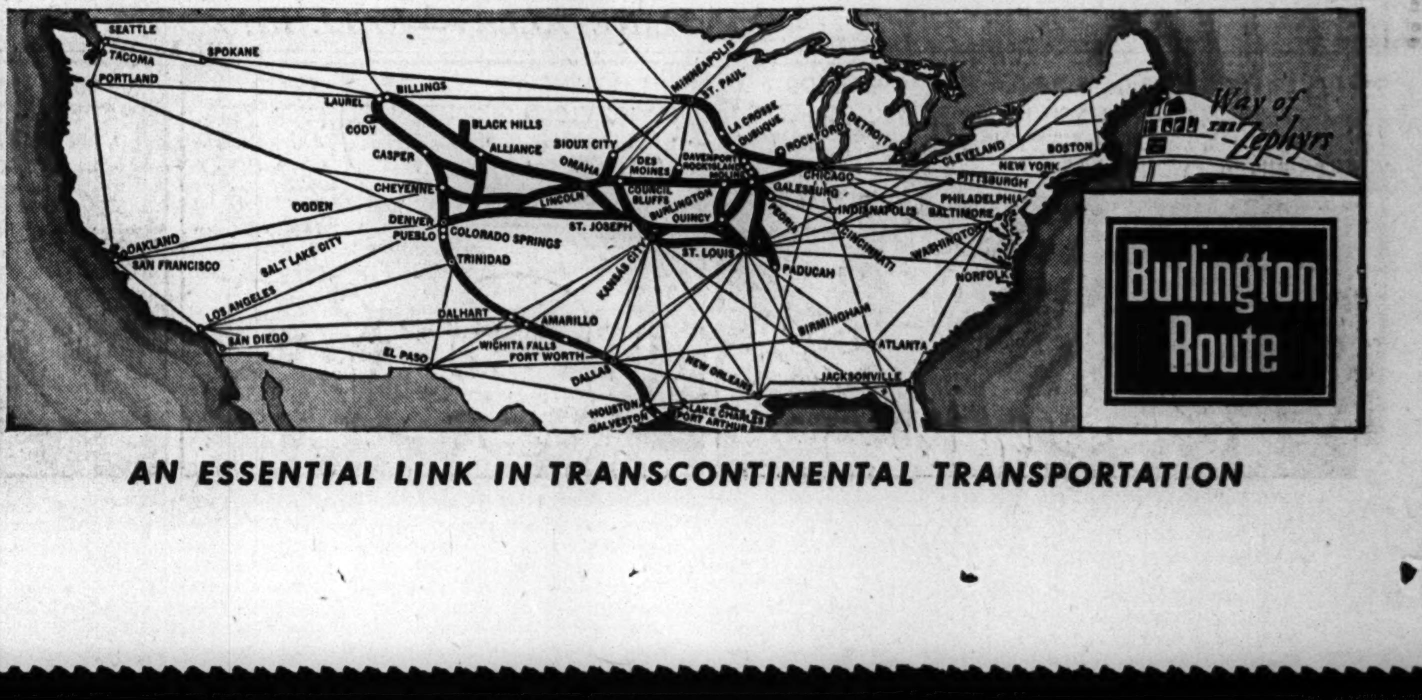
Sgt.—How'd you guess it? Yes, he's been with the Burlington for over twenty years, and he's every bit as proud of his job as I am of mine.

★ ★ ★

That's right, Sergeant. Your dad and more than 35,000 other Burlington workers are proud to be among the armies of railroaders that have teamed up to do the biggest transportation job, both freight and passenger, in history.



AN ESSENTIAL LINK IN TRANSCONTINENTAL TRANSPORTATION

Southwest Art Lends Color to Home Interior

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

There's a new note in home furnishings, a trend that is vitally important because it's completely American. It's as indigenous to our soil as sagebrush and mesquite, and it's as old as the Indians.

Indeed, it derives from them. It comes from the southwest, from Santa Fe and Taos and the pueblos. A newly decorated house, just open for public exhibition, is done in this New Mexican vein.

The floor coverings are Navajo rugs of a new type minus the strong reds and tribal motifs that formerly limited them for our use. Instead of the colors we've always associated with these all-wool rugs they are now being woven in beautiful light hues: beige, off-white, pale gray, pinks, and yellows.

And their designs are simple and artistic, several colors being combined in broad striped effect, or in stripes with an interwoven diamond pattern. They are made in all sizes from small, scatter rugs to large, room size floor coverings.

The furniture in this southwest house combines modern with New Mexican, the modern being of the simple, unfinished type, painted in pinion green, or given a dull, cactus green or gray tone. The New Mexican uses a lot of rawhide, a stunning, long coffee table having this leather for its top, chairs being made of it, and the headboard of a bed being fashioned of broad strips of it interlaced.

Most of the walls are white, except in one bedroom where black acts as an excellent foil to the natural wood of the furniture and lamps, and to the hand-loomed white bedspread designed by Dorothy Liebes.

Ideal for summer days is the living room which opens into a delightful, green-hedged patio. A large, comfortable rustic couch with coral cushions and several chairs near by make this patio an outdoor room, and it is enhanced by a little blue pool, on the bottom of which are Indian paintings.

There are no chairs in the dining room. Benches along two walls are upholstered in a desert sunset gold hue and above them, attached to the wall, are similar upholstered pads which serve as back rests. A huge table from Santa Fe is made of heavy, thick planks of brushed pine, and above it hangs a wrought iron circle holding lighted candles.

All the lamps in the house were designed especially for it. The bases are of Indian jars and carved woods, two being actually old, old hubs from a Conestoga wagon. The large painting in vivid greens, which hangs in the living room, is by an Indian, Pop-chalee, or Blue Flower. And the adobe fireplace in this room is built in the corner, in true southwest fashion, and has a curious black horse hair pad in front of it.

The unusual headboards of the beds in one room are made up of a series of square white titles, each with the colorful figure of an Indian dressed in tribal costume.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

Fun for All.

Four hours on the club car of a train can be exceedingly monotonous or very gay, but rarely is it an opportunity for self-initiated sleuthing. Yet Herbert Markham, a Chicago broker, found it just that the other day.

He was on his way to Springfield, regarding the immediate world from behind his newspaper, when he noticed a rather flashily dressed young woman enter the car, sit down, and order a drink. A few minutes later a luridly attired young man made casual conversation. Pretty soon he looked around the car and called, "Anybody like to play bridge?"

Markham, a bit of a bridge fanatic himself, was tempted, but thought better of it, and as no one else seemed eager for a game, the young man lapsed into silence. About this time an army sergeant stalked in. "Like to play a little bridge?" the young man asked him. "No," the sergeant said amiably enough. "How about a little poker then?" the young man asked. "Yeah," the sergeant said. "That'd be all right."

The lurid young man, the flashy young woman, and the sergeant drew up a table. The sergeant won the first pot. The next deal was that of the young man, and Markham jumped a trifle when he saw him deal from the bottom of the stack—and win. The girl then dealt; she, too, slipped an occasional card from the bottom—and won.

Markham, upset and angered, was about to intervene, but thought he would wait a bit. Finally, as the train was pulling into Springfield, there was $85 on the table, it was the sergeant's deal, and the sergeant won. Unable to believe his eyes, Markham approached the sergeant after the trio had dispersed.

"Say, sergeant," he said hesitantly, "I was about to warn you. I saw those birds dealing from the bottom of the stack."

The sergeant smiled, a nice, slow smile. "Hell," he said mildly, "those two are amateurs. Before the war I used to deal for a gambling joint at French Lick."

Mother's Day in Retrospect.

Maybe you read something about the Chicago boys back from Guadalcanal who with their mothers were guests at the Service Men's center in the Auditorium on Mother's day. They ate hot dogs ["The only hot dogs we knew over there were our feet," grinned one boy], apple pie, and coffee, and were shy, modest, and embarrassed about their achievements. Two little things that missed the news columns impressed us. One was the boy who ate four pieces of pie. "Every bit as good as yours," he told his mother, who raptly watched him devour it. ["A Mrs. Lucas called yesterday," Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, godmother of the center, was telling us. "She said she had read that the Guadalcanal boys were coming in here. Her boy still is on Guadalcanal. She said her boy's favorite dessert was apple pie, so she asked if she could bake apple pies for all of these."] The other was the girl talking to a boy who wore the purple and white ribbon of the Purple Heart. "I just wondered," she was saying, "if you could tell me anything about my brother." "Yes," he said slowly, "they got him all right. They got him down on the beach. But," with a touch of pride, "we buried him. I thought you'd like to know we buried him."

OPA Decrees Home Canning Sugar Limits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The office of price administration today announced that housewives may obtain up to 25 pounds of sugar per person for home canning. Of this total not more than five pounds for each person may be used for jams, jellies, and preserves.

The sugar allotments, like those last year, are based on one pound of sugar for each four quarts of fruits to be canned. This does not apply to jams and jellies, which require more sugar and for which no standard sugar allowance has been set.

Canning sugar will be allotted in addition to the basic sugar ration of one-half pound per person per week.

It was announced local ration boards will start receiving applications Saturday for canning sugar allowances. A housewife may apply in person or by mail. Applicants must provide a copy of ration book No. 1 for each person for whom sugar is sought, must state the number of quarts of fruit to be canned, and the amont of sugar wanted for jams, jellies, and preserves. No special application form is required.

Sugar allotments will be in the form of "sugar allowance coupons" of 1, 3, 5, and 10 pounds, instead of single certificates, as were used last year. The OPA ruled that persons may give away up to 50 quarts of home canned fruits and vegetables but must collect blue ration stamps at the rate of 8 points a quart for gifts in excess of that total.

If a family wants to home-can fruits for sale, a special application—on OPA form R-135—must be made to the local board, and allotments up to 250 pounds a household are permitted. On sales of home canned fruits and vegetables, blue ration stamps must be collected from buyers at the rate of 8 points a quart.

The new regulation also provides that persons raising fruits and vegetables may have neighbors home-can them or may have them put up in nearby commercial canneries without surrendering ration stamps.

Proprietors of boarding houses with 50 or fewer boarders may obtain sugar for canning fruit on the same basis as individual households—up to 25 pounds per person. These boarding houses now obtain rations by pooling ration books of their boarders.

Larger institutions, such as restaurants and hotels, also may obtain extra sugar for canning, on the basis of one pound for each four quarts of fruits. No special provision is made for these institutions to obtain sugar for jams and jellies.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

SIRS.

The initial letters SIRS stand for Sisters' International Radio society—a group of women who have had technical radio training and have banded together with three objects in mind:

1. To interest women in radio because of women's adaptability to radio work which requires not physical strength, but adeptness of hand and attention to details.

2. To prepare the members for emergency communications assistance in times of disaster, such as bombings and floods. [The members have had training in international Morse code and have been taught to send messages with code by lighted torches, flags, or other means when telephone and telegraph lines are out of service.]

3. To help win the war by supplying trained women in the communications field, also by supplying trained workers for the many plants manufacturing radio and electronical materials, as well as trained women for technical jobs in broadcasting stations.

"There are many opportunities for women in this important field, which is constantly growing," says Jane Kettler, executive secretary of the SIRS, "and the opportunities provide a patriotic service coupled with an enjoyable, well paid profession. There are positions in airports, in the communications branch of the women's auxiliaries in the service; there are positions involving instrument repair, technical radio station jobs, radio or signal positions in civil service, positions open as radio instructors, supervisors, and inspectors.

"We'll gladly send any person who writes to the SIRS, Fort Wayne, Ind., further information about the opportunities for women in radio and about a capability test for radio.

"We trust this will fire many with the ambition to enter the radio field and as soon as they can qualify to obtain a charter from SIRS for their vicinity."

White Collar Bond Warden.

"Has any one told you about the white collar girl's part in the second war bond drive?" writes G. Omberg, a white collar girl herself. "As a bond warden in our block [working from the civilian defense office] an apartment building was designated as my territory. About four of every five we called on were business girls purchasing war bonds thru their respective offices on the pay roll deduction plan.

"The reception we received from these young women was heartwarming. Many of them pledged additional bonds more readily than others who, apparently, could more easily afford them. Some of the white collar girls had husbands in the army or navy, and their eagerness to help was a marvelous incentive to the bond wardens."

Seldom Inn.

"On page 68 of "Rivers of Glory" F. Van Wyck Mason speaks of what "Nosey Parkers innkeepers were; worse even than barbers."

"Now I'd like to know," inquires Helen H. "what inn our Nosey Parker is from?"

You have to pay more for brown rice in its bran coating than for polished rice, but the brown rice is worth more because it is much more nutritious.

Rice, the principal food of more than a third of the world's population, is extensively used in our own southern states, but could well be emphasized a little more in these parts, because it is a versatile grain. We northerners are likely to think of rice chiefly as an accompaniment to Chinese dishes. We don't boil or steam it and serve it with gravy as often as our southern cousins do. We don't even make such dishes as Spanish rice, baked rice with cheese, rice and meat loaf, as often as we might. We're inclined to forget, too, how many good desserts may be made with rice.

How to Cook Rice.

Rice must not be overcooked, or it will be soggy instead of fluffy. Wash it in several waters, then drain. Have a kettle of boiling, salted water ready, and drop the rice in slowly. Boil until a rice grain is soft when pressed between thumb and finger. This usually takes 20-25 minutes of boiling. Turn into a colander, run a little hot water thru the rice, and place over hot water, covering the colander of rice with a cloth. The grains will swell and separate.

Remember that rice quadruples its bulk, as a rule, on boiling. Half a cup of raw rice usually produces 2 cups of cooked rice. Cook half a cup of raw rice in 1 quart boiling water with 1½ teaspoons salt.

Brown rice is cooked in the same way, but takes longer. Often it is soaked in lukewarm water for an hour before cooking, to soften the bran coat.

Steaming the rice in milk is the proper way to prepare it for the baby, or for an invalid.

Milk Steamed Rice.

Put ⅓ cup rice and ¾ cup milk in the top of a double boiler. Add only a few grains of salt if the rice is for the baby, as much as ½ teaspoon if it is for adults. Cover and cook over boiling water, without stirring, for about 40 minutes, or until rice is extremely tender and has absorbed the milk. This rice won't be as fluffy as if it had been boiled.

The water drained from rice shouldn't go down the drain. It's an easily digested starch solution which can help thicken sauces and soups. Sometimes it is even recommended as part of a baby's milk formula.

Chicken Giblets on Rice.

[Serves two.]

1 cup cooked rice [¼ cup raw]
Giblets from one chicken
½ cup celery cooked in broth
1½ cups gravy made from stock

Cook the giblets in simmering water [about 2 cups] until tender. Cook the liver only a few minutes, for it becomes tender almost as soon as heated thru. Cook celery [and a little minced onion, if desired] with giblets during last 10 minutes of simmering. Slice giblets and make sauce by blending 3 tablespoons margarine with 3 tablespoons flour, and adding gradually 1½ cups cooking stock. Stir and cook until smooth and thickened. Season to taste with salt and pepper and add sliced giblets. Serve the giblets and gravy over hot boiled rice. This dish will be meatier if you cook the neck and wing tips with the giblets and then use the meat from the bones.

Rice Molds with Frozen Peaches.

[Serves five.]

1 cup cooked rice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
¾ cup cold milk
1 egg, beaten
1 box frozen peaches

Heat rice, salt, milk, butter, and sugar in a double boiler. Mix cornstarch with cold milk and add. Cook and stir over hot water for 20 minutes. Fold in beaten egg. Cook 2 minutes more. Turn into small molds and chill. Unmold and serve defrosted peaches and juice over the rice.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

Orange Cream Pudding.

[Serves eight.]

1 package vanilla flavored pudding mix
1 quart milk
1 package orange flavored gelatin
½ cup boiling water

Add small amount of the cold milk to the pudding mix and blend well. Heat remaining milk to scalding and add to pudding mix. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil. It will be the consistency of a boiled custard. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water and chill until it begins to set. Beat until very fluffy with a rotary beater and add cold pudding gradually, beating while adding. Turn into dessert dishes or mold and chill until firm. Serve garnished with orange sections. If desired, a plain blanc mange may be made with twice the normal amount of milk, as a substitute for the pudding mix.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

Lt. [j. g.] Margaret H. Cecil, who yesterday formally took over her duties as senior WAVES enrollment officer in the middle west, is even more enthusiastic about her war job than she was of the career she pursued in civilian life—that of an outstandingly successful Chicago business woman. She succeeds Lt. Mary Daily, who has been transferred to Washington, D. C.

Asked what part of her training and subsequent assignments had provided the greatest thrill, Lt. Cecil said that being enrolled in the WAVES was one continuous thrill and that she would not exchange her job for any other in the world. Such enthusiasm from a woman who has run her own business, a dress shop, and been an executive in a large department store is a splendid tribute to what the women's naval reserve has to offer American girls and women.

Lt. Cecil has come to her new job with a wealth of experience gained since she left for training at Smith college last August. Upon completion of her training period she was stationed at the college for five months. Then followed two weeks' temporary duty at Cedar Falls, Ia., then 10 weeks in the bureau of supplies and accounts in Washington.

She also took time to visit air fields and Hunter college in New York City, and already has paid a visit to Great Lakes, where she found officers and enlisted personnel just as happy and enthusiastic as they were in all of their specialized fields. She learned that men officers, as well as enlisted men, unfailingly approve of the women's reserve and are asking for more WAVES to take over the technical jobs formerly considered within the male province.

In giving an overall picture of what WAVES are doing in the rapidly widening field of duties, Lt. Cecil mentioned particularly the administrative positions, for which women with a legal background are fitted. They handle contracts and purchases and act as disbursing officers. Others, who've attended the special supply corps school at Radcliffe college, are manning shore stations and working on supply lists for advanced bases, such as Guadalcanal.

Many young women with some background in aviation are working as parachute riggers, Link trainer operators, and control operators.

Since the women's reserve came into being last August, approximately 20,000 women have been enrolled. Of this number, 3,000 are officers. The recruiting offices are in room 1170, Board of Trade building, and Lt. Cecil and her staff are there every day to interview applicants.

An organizing meeting of the Marine Mothers' club will be held at 8 o'clock tonight, in the headquarters of Civil Service post, American Legion, 155 North Clark street. The meeting has been called by Mrs. Charles Rogal, 9211 South Normal avenue. Mrs. Rogal has a son, Charles Jr., in the marines.

For the first time in the 6th service command, women who can qualify for both the WAAC and the signal corps are being accepted for duties with the signal corps. One hundred and twenty young women are needed in this area by June 15, according to Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command.

Those qualified will be enrolled in the WAAC and placed on inactive duty until completion of their six months' training course at a signal corps school. During that period they will be paid by civil service at the rate of $1,020 a year for the first three months and at $1,440 a year for the second three months. Upon completion of the course, they will take WAAC basic training and then be assigned to signal corps duty. The women will serve as radio operators, high speed; radio operators, fixed station; radio telephone operators, radio teletypewriter operators, and radio repairmen.

Application should be made in the office of the signal schools, 209 West Jackson boulevard. Third Officer Gladys Nurnberger is interviewing applicants.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Thru the Looking Glass

There is, in town at the moment, what can only be described as the height of elegance in a sachet for the bride. It's a white chest with five narrow drawers, in each one of which repose superlative pieces of sachet, all in white satin and all exuding, gorgeously, the luscious scent of lily of the valley.

It's exquisite and, except for those who can afford it, expensive. But it would be great fun, we must say, to be able to buy it and present it to a bride.

Perfection of the tinest detail of workmanship is one of its beauties. The scene is its second. That is lavish and lasting and lush.

In one tier, the top one, as we remember, is a white satin covered, sacheted clothes hanger, from which dangle three small, perfect hearts in the matching satin and scent.

In another there is a heart sachet, probably the one in which the lucky bride would tuck her handkerchiefs. Then there two square cases, for gloves and hose, it might be. The main piece, exciting to the woman who loves exquisitely dainty accessories, is a big pillow edged with a pleated ruffle.

The whole case is as de luxe a gift as we've seen in the shops since the war started.

Art Institute's Calendar Has Special Events

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Art institute's stately portals, always a busy thorofare, should be receiving a larger number of visitors than usual during the coming week. The annual spring membership tea is expected to draw a sizable crowd to the institute's tearoom on Friday, and four days later the Antiquarian society of the Art institute will stage a return engagement of the clinic, which proved to be so popular last year.

Invitations are out for the clinic on the 18th, to which members of the Antiquarian society are invited to submit pieces of rare old silver and porcelain which they wish to have discussed and evaluated as to period. These family treasures are to be turned in several days before the meeting in order to give Meyric Rogers, curator of decorative arts, and the committee which he heads a chance to study them. In this way a running commentary may be kept up all afternoon when the society meets at 2:30 o'clock next Tuesday. Mrs. Phillip Miller, president of the society, has asked Mrs. George A. Ranney and Mrs. James C. Hutchins to take charge of the simple tea which follows the clinic.

Chicago Exhibitors to Be Special Guests at Party.

Mrs. William C. Breed and Mrs. Edward Boynton, members of the Chicago Junior league, will pour at the membership tea on Friday. Invited by Dudley Crafts Watson, who is in charge of arrangements for the party, to be special guests are Chicagoans exhibiting in the 2d international exhibition of water colors to be opened tomorrow at the Art institute. Among these artists are Frances Badger, Antimo Beneduce, Francis Chapin, Frances Foy, Clinton King, Kenneth Shopen, Burnett H. Shryock, and Ethel Spears.

Also invited to share the spotlight are Malcolm Hackett and Michael M. Ursulescu, who at present are exhibiting in the institute's room of Chicago art; Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins, and two visitors from the Chicago Service Men's center, Mrs. Laura Sartelle Brooks and Miss Irma Bartling.

Sally Elizabeth Raymond Engagement Announced.

Of interest is the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Anan Raymond of Kenilworth are making today of the engagement of their daughter, Sally Elizabeth, to Ensign N. Peter Rathvon Jr. of the naval air force, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rathvon of Edgewater Point, Mamaroneck, N. Y. Miss Raymond is a sophomore at Vassar college, at which she and Ensign Rathvon's sister, Miss Joan Rathvon, are classmates and close friends.

Ensign Rathvon was graduated from the Choate school and attended Yale university and the University of California at Los Angeles, where he took the naval aviation course in aerology. He was commissioned in August last year. Miss Raymond will attend summer school at Northwestern university this year and will be graduated from Vassar next December under the accelerated program. Her sister, Miss Margaret Raymond, who will be graduated from Vassar next month, is a provisional member of the Evanston Junior league. They have a younger brother, Spencer.

Soule is the son of Lt. Paul R. Soule, U. S. N. R., and Mrs. Soule of Wilmette. Miss Maphis attended Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., and Chevy Chase Junior college. Her fiancé is an alumnus of Cornell university school of architecture, class of 1942, and is on overseas duty in the southwest Pacific.

Miss Suzanne Long's engagement to Lt. Frederick Seaton Kremer of the army, son of Mrs. Jeannette Hughes Kremer of Lebanon, Tenn., and the late Frederick M. Kremer of Chicago, was announced at a tea on Sunday by Miss Long's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thomas Long of Forest Hills Gardens, N. Y. Miss Long attended Edgewood Park Junior college. Lt. Kremer was graduated from the United States Military academy at West Point in January, and is stationed at Camp Forrest in Tennessee.

Announcement has been made of the marriage on April 19 in El Paso, Tex., of Miss Mary Bell of Phoenix, Ariz., and Lt. Gordon G. Saddle and Cycle Has Ranch Party Saturday.

Members of the Saddle and Cycle club will don blue jeans and plaid shirts on Saturday night for the club's western ranch dinner and dance. Included on the evening's program will be a preview of a new motion picture, "My Friend Flicka," adapted from the best seller of that title by Mary O'Hara. The committee is hoping that some of the guests will add "local color" by coming in carriages or on horseback, and the first horseman to arrive at the club will receive a free dinner.

Guests Throng Casino to Meet Halifax at Tea

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

Those who came too early to the tea the English Speaking union and Wilfred H. Gallienne, British consul general, and Mrs. Gallienne gave at the Casino yesterday for British Ambassador Halifax, as well as those who arrived fashionably late, had a complaint in common. They didn't get to meet the tall, distinguished guest of honor.

"We came too soon," was the disappointed cry of two pretty young girls who went thru the line just a moment before the ambassador arrived. But they lacked the courage to do as one of them suggested: "Let's go back and tell him we want to shake hands with the ambassador."

By "him" they meant the white haired butler who called the names of the approaching guests with all of the savoir faire of a Buckingham palace major domo. "The Swedish consul and Mrs. Oldenburg," the butler boomed as Dr. and Mrs. Gosta Oldenburg approached Frank A. Hecht, president of the union, who headed the line. "Capt. and Mrs. Wolleson, Mr. and Mrs. McLeod, Mr. Holloway, Mr. Bradley, Mr. Smith," the announcer continued rapidly, pausing only when a guest stopped to say a word or two to Ambassador Halifax, as many did.

"I had the pleasure of hearing you," one would say, while with another it was a previous meeting that was recalled. Many, like Mrs. E. V. L. Brown, complimented the ambassador on his inspiring talk of Sunday night before the Sunday Evening club. Mrs. Charles W. Dempster went thru the line twice, apparently having forgotten a message for the ambassador, and others, like Mrs. Edward A. Leight, who missed the visitor on their first trip down the line, returned to greet him.

Tea, coffee, and watercress and cheese sandwiches dominated the simple refreshments served, and the weatherman provided the sort of rainy, misty day that should have made the visitor feel perfectly at home. In an informal talk the ambassador brought the good wishes of his wife to the guests, many of whom the Halifaxes had met two years ago yesterday at the same club at a party given by the union. The ambassador's wife did not accompany him on this trip.

Discussing the war, the ambassador mentioned that transportation is a vital weakness in the German machine, while the submarine menace is an anxious point of allied strategy. He declared that the high command is satisfied that the United States' daylight precision bombing raids and the R. A. F.'s night bombing system each is of proved value and that it now is a question of speed to bring the maximum pressure to bear against the axis. He referred to the North African campaign as an example of what can be done with careful planning and cooperation on the part of all forces of the allies.

"What cheers us most in the campaign is not only its success, but that its achievement was with lighter casualties than previously expected," the ambassador said. He declared himself a "sober optimist" about the future of the United States and Great Britain.

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, who acted as hostess for the afternoon; Mr. McCormick; Col. Arthur Evans, who is traveling with the ambassador; the Hechts, and the Galliennes sat together for tea at a long table at one side of the crowded ballroom.

After the party the checkrooms were jammed with guests seeking to retrieve umbrellas, raincoats, and rubbers with which they sought to combat the "London weather." Capt. and Mrs. Benyaurd B. Wygant, Col. Chester L. Fordney of the marines, Col. and Mrs. Ralph James, Miss Frances Whedon, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. Frank Fulton, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. were some of those present. Two threesomes were made up of Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, Mrs. Merrill C. Meigs, and Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett and Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Douglas Buchanan, and Mrs. William McCormick Blair.

Dr. and Mrs. William D. Jack, Mrs. Howard Ellis, Bishop and Mrs. Wallace E. Conkling, Mrs. Arthur Wirtz, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, the Nathaniel Leverones, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Charles F. Glore, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Frederick A. Preston, Mrs. Otho F. Ball, Mrs. Eugene Swigart, back from Washington, D. C., briefly, and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk were still others at the tea, which was attended by many men.

Czech Refugee Wins Essay Contest Held by Defense Council

A 17 year old Czech refugee, Eva Krafft, a senior at Francis Parker school, yesterday was awarded first prize in an essay contest for Illinois high school students sponsored by the Illinois state council of defense. She was presented with a $50 war bond for her entry entitled "I Serve the Present and Win the Future."

Seven hundred students in 84 high schools in 70 communities submitted essays in the contest, Dean Charles M. Thompson of the University of Illinois college of business administration and chairman of the council's war business adjustment committee, reported to Gov. Green. Essays dealt with the part youth can take to relieve wartime man power shortages.

Second prize winners, who received $25 war bonds, were Spencer Smith, 16, Fairfield; Leroy Carlson, 17, East Rockford; Patricia Rosenburg, 17, West Rockford, and Charlotte Athey, 18, Decatur. Ten third prizes, 20 fourth prizes, and 40 fifth prizes in war savings stamps were awarded.

WPB Limits Style and Hue of Cotton Hose

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Restrictions on women's full-fashioned cotton hosiery, cutting out frills and specifying lengths, colors, and quality standards, were imposed today by the war production board.

The order limits each manufacturer to four colors during each six month period, but permits him to choose the colors.

Banned by the ruling are lace bands, lace stripes, and fancy designs or numbers in the welt [top] of the stocking. The length of full-fashioned cotton stockings is limited to 30 inches, with a tolerance of 1 inch permitted, and welts are limited to 3½ inches. These are the standards now being followed by most manufacturers, officials said.

Minimum standards as to quality also are established. The chief change from current practice is the elimination from cotton stockings of very fine cotton yarns which officials said have not proved serviceable.

For example, in the common 45 and 48 gauge stockings, the leg and welt must be a 2 ply yarn of "100 fineness" or heavier and a heavier 2 ply yarn, "60 fineness" is required in the toe and heel.

The order also requires that stockings be reinforced in the toe, that heel splicing measure 4½ inches, and that high quality 2 or 3 ply yarns be used for seams.

The restrictions do not apply to mesh hosiery or so-called nonrun or runproof stockings. WPB officials estimated that the standardization order will apply to approximately 30 million cotton stockings manufactured annually.

The WPB also announced that reinforcement of men's rayon socks with cotton yarns in the sole, which has been prohibited, will be permitted under a revision adopted today.

Use Increases Loveliness of New Footgear

BY REA SEEGER.

Any one who walks a lot [and who doesn't these days] is glad to part with a precious No. 17 sticker for walking brogues or oxfords. These good-looking shoes are made to last with the necessary care for the duration. Daily polishing of fine leather is something new for the girls, but such important footgear improves with this sort of attention even tho worn every day.

These brogues and oxfords are carefully designed and put together by the experts. The leather, selected for day-after-day service, and the details that provide distinction are characteristic of the work of shoemakers of long experience. These are the shoes that complement your finest tweeds and woolens, your snappiest tailored linens and super-gingham costumes, your skirt and jacket ensembles, your travel togs, and the office clothes so carefully selected by exacting women.

Two super-showings of such important walking footgear exhibit brogues and oxfords with handsome heels, with clever details of stitching, with tricky welt seams, with a superb fit plus an interesting range of models and the three good street shades, light golden brown, dark Moroccan brown and dull black. They are comfortable, sturdy, long wearing models with swank and tailored streamlines, shoes especially designed for service, but not the dull, gloomy utilitarian models usually thought of when these qualities are stressed. They are well worth the cash and the farewell to sticker No. 17.

GOVERNMENT ORDERS.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

Brant made a tour of the bars that night and wound up the following morning with a bad hangover. He tried to call Gen. Holland at Dayton, but was informed that the general had left Wright field the previous evening. He was not expected to return for some time. Brant thought, well, that's the end of that.

When the buzzing had ceased in his head he went downtown, to a doctor's office, and took a physical examination. His eyes were 20-20, his heart was normal, his Shneider rating was 14, which was excellent, and he was generally in good condition. But the doctor informed him that he still needed another month or two to fully recover from the effects of his wound.

Brant left the office and wandered aimlessly down the street. There was no pressing reason to hurry to the plant. His few personal effects could be gathered in less than an hour. He had no desire to pick them up until close to quitting time.

He engaged a room in the St. Francis hotel, then called the butler at the apartment to pack his belongings and send them to the hotel. When they arrived, in the middle of the afternoon, he sat on the hotel bed, stared at his trunk and thought, he shouldn't have unpacked it in the first place.

Aunt Hattie telephoned, just as he was about to leave the room. "The butler told me where you were. Why did you move out, Brant? Why didn't you stay?"

Brant asked, "Why should I have stayed? I'm thru. Washed up. You can tell Dian to move back. She can get a divorce, if she wants. I won't contest it. I had intended to, but—Look, she hasn't had a bit of faith in anything I have done. I wouldn't have her now as a gift."

Aunt Hattie gasped. "You don't mean that."

"I mean every word of it."

"Do you still love her?"

"Well—Yes, I suppose so. If you can call it that. But it's no good. I'm no domestic oracle, but I have found out a little about marriage. Men and women are as opposite as the poles. When they get married it's like tying a dog and a cat together. The only thing that can make that tying together a blessing is faith, mutual respect, trust in one another. Dian had it in the beginning, and everything was beautiful. Now she has none of it left and the whole thing is a mess. I couldn't live that way no matter how much I cared for her. So why put up a scrap to hang onto something you don't want? That would be silly."

There was a long pause, and then Aunt Hattie asked. "Are you getting drunk?"

"A little."

"Aren't you going out to the plant?"

"Yes. I was just leaving."

Aunt Hattie sighed, apparently with relief. "That's good. I just called to make sure you were going. We have been trying to locate you all day."

Brant asked, "We?" But Aunt Hattie had hung up. He shrugged, called for the car he was hiring by the week and headed out to the plant.

When he walked into the factory yard he was surprised to find the XB-42 still in the open with the men at work. Moreland was standing by the nose with a mass of papers in his hand, taking notes shouted down by another engineer up in the cabin. The engines were being run thru vibration tests, one at a time, and the last one was turned off with a dying cough as Brant approached.

He nodded toward the bomber and asked Moreland, "What's going on?"

Moreland was surprised. "Why the regular routine, of course."

Brant scratched his head. "I don't get it. Haven't you been ordered to stop work?"

"Yes. There was a note to that effect this morning, but it was evidently a mistake as it was later canceled."

"It was?"

"Sure." Moreland called to the engineer in the cabin and walked away. Brant stared after him and shook his head. Probably, he thought, the cancellation order would be reissued the following morning.

He walked thru the open hangar doors, brushed past the workmen hurrying in and out, and slowly made his way to his office. Gen. Holland was seated at the desk, studying a report. Before him were dozens of telegrams. Brant came to a halt and stared at him, unbelievingly.

Gen. Holland looked up at him and frowned. "Where the devil have you been all day? You sure got a nerve knocking off at a critical point like this."

Brant observed the twinkle in the general's eyes and dropped into a chair to stare at him. "When—when did you get in?"

"Just a little after midnight. What a trip! New twin-engined attack plane we just put thru the mill. More machine guns and cannon than a porcupine has quills. Believe it or not, Regan. I tooled that job out here in less than six hours."

"Coasting?"

"Well, not exactly." The general leaned back in the swivel chair ahd peered at Brant under half closed lids. "You've been having a time, haven't you?"

"Well—They finally tied the can to me. Forced me out yesterday."

"I know."

Brant was surprised. "How did you know."

"I was notified yesterday. That's why I flew out." He leaned forward and tapped Brant's knee with a pencil. "You got a job here, my boy. Take my advice and go on the wagon until it's finished. The way your hands are shaking—"

Brant wryly laughed, "A job. I tell you they gave me the sack."

Gen. Holland smiled, a rather affectionate smile. "The army," he dryly remarked, "still has something to say about what goes on in the nation's aircraft plants. So we are finally going to say something about what goes on in this one."

Brant gulped and a light came back to his eyes. "You mean—"

Gen. Holland nodded. "Right. You're still head man of Experimental, the XB-42 is going to be completed and you're going to put it in the air."

"Well, say—And you let me sit here——"

The general grinned. "Of course, you'll have a man over you." He nodded toward the telegrams. "I am the man. Wires from Washington giving me authority. But, in addition to that, I had all the stockholders gathered together, except you, and they voted me in, I chose you as my assistant. A little pressure turned the trick." He leaned back and dreamily said, "That wife of yours——" then paused and gruffly remarked, "There's work to do. We'd better get going. About that wing root fairing—I would suggest——"

Brant was not listening. He got up and walked to the window to look out at the bomber, squat and deadly before his eyes. Evening was on, reflecting from all of the metal surfaces and casting pools of shadow setting in and the floodlights were on the ground.

Brant was smiling, but that smile faded. A woman was standing in one of the shadows, tall, lithe, her head thrown back—Dian. She moved out of the shadow, looked toward his office, indecisively paused and then walked toward the administrative building. Brant watched her walk, the free stride and the contradictory sway, and received no pleasure from it.

When she disappeared, he turned back to the general, his face as hard as a rock. "Okay," he said. "Let's get this thing over with."

"Greece in Peace, in War, and under Nazi Occupation."

Some of those entertaining at luncheon after the lecture are Mrs. John Orb, Mrs. Edwin W. Sims Jr., Mrs. David A. Hare, Mrs. James N. Rawleigh, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, and Mrs. Fred Herendeen.

A telegram from Miss Virginia Alling's fiancé, Arthur Bethke, containing the news that he is quarantined with a sudden illness at his army camp caused the Carlos Allings to recall invitations for their daughter's wedding, which was to have taken place on Saturday in Bond chapel of the University of Chicago. The ceremony will be held as soon as Mr. Bethke has recovered.

Lt. and Mrs. James Simpson Jr. [Elizabeth Bonbright Morse] became the parents of a son on Saturday in the Harper hospital, Detroit, Mich. The baby, who has three half-sisters living in New York with their mother, Mrs. Snelling Simpson, is Lt. Simpson's first son and Mrs. Simpson's second, for the baby has a half-brother, too, Charles H. Morse III. Lt. Simpson is on duty in the Pacific with the marines.

War Renewing Religious Faith, Says Chaplain

This war is bringing about a remarkable return to faith in God among the allied military forces thruout the globe, the Rev. T. Christie Innes, chaplain of the Toroto Scottish regiment and minister of Knox church, Toronto, Canada, declared last night at the annual spring banquet of the Presbyterian Union of Chicago at 105 West Madison street.

The Rev. Mr. Innes said he has three books of quotations—many gathered first hand from both officers and enlisted men—to prove this thesis but he chose a number of public utterances from some of Great Britain's top generals and admirals as being the most significant. In attributing their own success to devine intercession, he asserted, these leaders were courageous in saying "what was perhaps not the popular thing to say."

* * *

He described Gen. Bernard Montgomery, commander of the triumphant British 8th army in North Africa, as "one of the world's most distinctly Christian generals." Even in the midst of Rommel's retreat the general urged his men to ask the Lord to give them victory and then to thank Him for giving them victory in official orders of the day, he said.

Other leaders who have publicly thanked God for answering their prayers after great individual victories, he pointed out, are Adm. John Tovey, commander in chief of the home fleet, after the sinking of the German battleship Bismarck; H. C. T. Dowding, chief of the R. A. F. flighter command, after winning the "battle of Britain;" and Gen. William Dobbie, formerly in charge of the defenses of Malta.

* * *

He praised the book, "We Thought We Heard the Angels Sing," the story of Capt. Edward Rickenbacker's rescue from the Pacific, first published serially in THE TRIBUNE, as "a remarkable book—a wonderful story."

BY CECIL SMITH.

George Abbott's newest votive offering upon the altar of youth and fluff represents an honorable, consistently amusing, and winning addition to Chicago's scant list of theatrical diversions. From all first night indications, Dearborn street may now confidently settle down into a prosperous summer; for it would be hard to guess whether "Kiss and Tell" or its raucous next door neighbor, "The Doughgirls," will run farther into the autumn. At any rate, there need be no feelings of tension at the Harris theater, for it is plain that "Kiss and Tell" is an unqualified popular hit.

It is an honorable comedy, as I have said, because F. Hugh Herbert, whose previous playwriting experience has been for the movies, has put together a neat, reasonable piece of work, fully well enough constructed to merit the pains of the good production Mr. Abbott has given it. It is amusing because Mr. Herbert has the kind of sense of humor that suffuses his entire feeling for dialog and action, rather than a mere gift for arbitrary gags, and because Mr. Abbott's well groomed actors—young tho many of them are—know when a point has been made, and do not force their shots. It is winning because the feuding families of the play, young and old alike, are the sort of seal small city people you might find everywhere.

The plot of "Kiss and Tell" is a curious but well fused emulsion of "Romeo and Juliet," "Dame Nature," and "Junior Miss." Corliss Archer, the 15 year old whom many radio listeners already know, bears the brunt of its action, for she is plunged into the secret of the secret marriage between her brother and the daughter of the enemy family and, for reasons too devious to reveal here, is forced to horrify her parents by the supposition that she is soon to become a mother.

Set down in cold print, the whole fiction may sound a little callous, but it is not so at all when Mr. Abbott's remarkable cast takes charge of it. I can't begin to tell you how delightfully the comedy is acted, with what ease and simplicity and unerring judgment of accent and pace.

Patricia Kirkland, with a beguiling resemblance to her mother, Nancy Carroll, is thoroly volatile and natural. Equally gifted is Artie Quinn, whose deft control of a bluntly adolescent part marks him as a young actor of important potentialities. Katharine Warren and Clay Clement, as Corliss' parents, have both strength and sympathy. Billy Saunders handles the part of a precocious 9 year old with diverting aplomb and dryness. Peggy Van Vleet and Richard McCracken present the love interest appealingly, and others too numerous to credit here are uniformly excellent. In short, this is for once a Chicago company in no way inferior to its parent group in New York.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., May 10.—Eddie Cantor's agreed to raise $500,000 to take 500 undernourished children from various parts of Europe and send them to Palestine. He's already got $100,000 of it and pushes on to New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Boston to raise the rest. . . . Republic, out of 37 tests to find a new western star, has narrowed it down to four, all over 6 feet—Bill Kellon, Eddie Dew, Dinty Moore, and Bob Sparr, the latter a railroad man. One of them will be chosen for the new star, others get jobs in "The Masked Marvel," which Lew Gray produces. I asked if they were all in 4-F. Reply was, "They'd have to be to be signed on a long term contract."

Eddie Cantor.

Where Next?

When Henry Koster moves from Universal he may take the story of "100 Women and a Man" with him, altho Universal gave him 40 weeks in which to prepare it; also Writer Miles Connolly. Koster's a fine director, but a little on the slow side. He's brought more German refugees into pictures than any single man. They're good, but every time he hires one it puts an American out of work. . . . Dorothy Lamour had a note from a sailor asking for some leg art for pin-up purposes and wrote, "Please include the pins." Lamour and Betty Hutton aren't singing their duets like angels in that angel picture. . . . Director Nick Grinde, in his off moments, built 50 defense houses, sold them all. Has started another unit in Inglewood. His ex-fiancée, Marie Wilson, is his vice president. . . . Veronica Lake goes a fishing with Wally Beery and Carole Ann at Wally's place in Jackson's Hole, Wyo. What a combination!

Got There First.

Sol Lesser, now that his Stage Door Canteen picture is a hit, will do one about Hollywood canteen, which has Metro-Goldwyn upset. They hoped to do one about that popular place. Altho, why they should, I don't know. They've been the least coöperative studio in town when we needed entertainers. . . . Matty Fox, after doing such a swell job for the WPB in Washington, resigned and reports here to his draft board in 10 days, but definitely won't report back to Universal studio until war's ended. . . . Paramount previewed for all employés who worked on "For Whom the Bell Tolls." The entire cast of the picture there except Ingrid Bergman, who was ill, and Akim Tamiroff. David Selznick came to put his okay on Ingrid, which he did in no uncertain terms.

That Man's Here Again.

Kay Kyser and his band too busy playing for the soldiers to take theater and night club engagements. So Kay, in order to give his boys extra dough, gave his services free for a sequence in Metro's musical "Private Miss Jones." . . . Phil Spitalny's All-Girl band will have a second go at movies after they finish at New York's Capitol for $50,000. . . . Morton Downey, raving over "Desert Victory." Said he, "Montgomery did a great job at El Alamein. Sam Goldwyn couldn't have done it better." . . . Twentieth's young hopeful, Nick Conti, finds Bonita Granville's company most acceptable. . . . Mary Nash says you mustn't blame the censor; he's got to draw the line somewhere.

Marion Claire to Sing at Episcopal Gathering

Miss Marion Claire, singing star of the Chicago Theater of the Air on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, will be presented in a song recital at an informal reception and dinner for 200 Episcopal church laymen of the Chicago Episcopal diocese at the Drake hotel at 6:30 o'clock this evening. The reception and dinner are being given by Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago and Mrs. Conkling and Bishop Edwin J. Randall, suffragan bishop of the diocese. By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

That ol' devil vampire plot is off the shelf again! "Dead Men Walk" spins the fearsome story of two brothers, one of whom is very, very good and one very, very bad. . . . Action starts at the funeral of the bad one . . .

You think he's dead? A ghoulish Ha ha! From dawn till dusk Dr. Elwyn Clayton reposes in his casket, therefrom to be released as night falls by his loyal servitor, Zolarr, to sip blood from the sweet white throats of the innocent . . .!

How Dr. Elwyn HATES Dr. Lloyd . . .! On two counts. First—Lloyd has known of Elwyn's necromantic nefariousness for many years and for many years tried to foil him. . . . Secondly — as a last resort Lloyd had pushed Elwyn off that cliff from which he is supposed to have met his death by falling. . . . So, when the supposedly dead doc starts to walk as a vampire—revenge is his sole ambition. And how better to revenge himself than to nip Lloyd's adored niece in the neck and make her a creature like himself?

Because Dr. Lloyd becomes aware that Elwyn is on the loose again and is able to persuade his niece, Gayle's fiancée, that such is the case, the fugitive from a casket finally meets his just deserts—not, however, until he works plenty of havoc. . . . The film ENDS with a funeral.

Cheery little thing? Well—the audience laffs and LAFFS . . .!

See you tomorrow.

Mary Kampo Recital Displays Promise of Great Operatic Future

Debut recital attendance took a sharp turn for the better last night when Mary Kampo sang at Orchestra hall, drawing so large an audience the management had to resort to extra chairs. Wide eyed and fluffy haired, Miss Kampo looks like a candy box cover, but she happens to be one of the more valuable recruits to the mezzo-soprano wing of the Chicago Opera, which so far has used her only in a few small rolés.

Potentially Miss Kampo is exciting operatic material. Her voice is big and beautiful, ample in range and rich in color, and it has indications of a lustrous pliancy unmistakably stellar. She uses it well, despite garbled English enunciation that might as well be Swahili, and in an aria from Massé's almost forgotten "Paul et Virgine" she displayed a promising flash of theater temperament.

Miss Kampo's French is excellent, but her German songs were not so good, even in translation. She was trying to sing beyond her years, a fault as easily cured as forgiven. There was a hint in her faulty singing of Wolf's "Verborgenheit" that some of these days she will sing it magnificently. That will be when her voice has matured, and when she understands the song so well she can project it flawlessly to other people.—C. C.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

The same "breaks" that usually cause loud cries of anguish sometimes can become a declarer's only salvation. For example, take those cases in which declarer "misses" seven cards of a certain suit. Usually he must hope that they are divided four-three and if the division actually turns out to be five-two he is thoroly disgusted. Yet this same five-two break can be highly fortuitous in other circumstances, to wit:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♥ A 7
♦ J 9 6
♣ K J 5 4

WEST
♠ 8 7
♥ K Q 10 6
♦ Q 10 7 5 2
♣ 9 2

EAST
♠ 10 9 3 2
♥ J 9 4 3 2
♦ K 8
♣ 7 6

SOUTH
♠ K 5 4
♥ 8 5
♦ A 4 3
♣ A Q 10 8 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 spades	Pass	*4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass

*Culbertson 4-5 no trump convention.

The bidding was vigorous, and the contract not exactly ideal, but by capitalizing the "break" referred to above, South managed to make his slam.

West opened the heart king. Dummy's ace won and trumps were extracted in two leads. Declarer's next move was to cash the diamond ace, after which he ran off the spade suit, discarding his remaining heart. He then led dummy's last heart and ruffed in his own hand. Now with spades and hearts eliminated from the North and South hands, he led a diamond and, as will be seen, he was lucky enough to find the precise situation for which he had hoped—the only position of cards that could give him a chance. East had to win with his blank honor, and on his forced heart return declarer could discard the remaining diamond loser from either his own hand or dummy while ruffing in the opposite hand.

Incidentally, declarer's early play of the diamond ace had been quite correct [altho not necessary in this case] as a guard against the possibility that West might have held the diamond king or queen with only one guard, in which case he would have been able to discard the honor on the run of spades and thereby permit East, if he held Q-10 or K-10 in diamonds, to win two tricks in the suit.

Policy Makers of P. T. A. Open Conclave Here

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

War time problems affecting the children of America have brought the board of managers of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers to Chicago for three days of workshop discussions. Calling into consultation nationally recognized authorities on education and child welfare, the congress leaders will form policy and program for the organization, which this year canceled its national convention because of transportation restrictions.

The meeting opened yesterday in the Hotel Sherman, with Mrs. William H. Kletzer of Portland, Ore., national president, conducting the sessions, admittance to which is confined to the national officers, 28 committee chairmen, and presidents of each of the state congresses constituting the board, and the invited speakers.

At a conference before the opening of yesterday's meeting Mrs. Kletzer said that juvenile delinquency, child labor, and the shortage of teachers are some of the major problems upon which the board will concentrate its attention.

One of the grave problems noted by the Parent-Teacher organization, Mrs. Kletzer indicated, is that of young mothers in war industry, which in many cases is having an unsalutary effect on their children. The congress will endeavor, Mrs. Kletzer said, to reshape a public opinion which would recognize that a young mother's first patriotic responsibility is toward the proper rearing of her family.

While fully aware of industry's need for thousands of women workers, Mrs. Kletzer said, parent-teacher leaders believe that there are untapped labor pools that should be drawn upon, leaving the young mother to the all-important task of caring for the children, who are the nation's most important resource.

The rising rate of juvenile delinquency in many communities, Mrs. Kletzer said, is directly traceable to failure to maintain proper recreational facilities for children.

The parent-teacher organization is determined, she said, to prevent the explpitation of children as workers because they happen to be an "easy pool" of labor.

The organization also is concerned over the future of education because of the teacher shortage, Mrs. Kletzer declared. An equalization of salaries and recognition of the importance of the teaching profession in the war picture are regarded as the best means toward preserving the educational system in this crucial period, she said.

The workshop session tomorrow will have among consultants Miss Beatrice McConnell, director of the industrial division of the children's bureau; Miss Elsa Castendyck, director of the social service division of that bureau; Miss Helendeen H. Dodderidge of the food distribution administration, Maj. Kenneth E. Oberholtzer of the headquarters staff of the special service division, army service forces, and Dr. Newton Edwards of the University of Chicago.

A total of 865 suppliers and sub-contractors contributed to the building of this tank. 407 were small manufacturers, 300 were medium-sized manufacturers, and only 158 would be considered large manufacturers. Many of Pullman-Standard's sub-contractors have also let sub-contracts. In one instance, a medium-sized sub-contractor in turn drew on 300 suppliers and sub-contractors.

THE TANK THAT CAME OUT OF 865 PLANTS

Here's a deadly example of what well-disciplined teamwork can achieve—a stirring proof that a sub-contracting relationship can be the basis of truly democratic co-operation

Tough, merciless sluggers—these husky, vicious devils! Built to take it—outside. Built to keep everlastingly going—inside. We know, for we build them here at Pullman-Standard—with the able co-operation of 865 suppliers and sub-contractors, large and small, pouring forth steady streams of necessary materials and parts which flow together on precision schedule—to emerge as these 30-ton dealers of destruction.

There is nothing accidental about the smooth effectiveness of that industrial teamwork. It is the result of engineering—of patient planning and preparation. Even though Pullman-Standard's plants could have built practically the entire tank, yet was it clear that many manufacturers working together in a huge co-operative effort, utilizing investments already made, must surely build tanks and other essential war matériel a great deal faster than could any one plant alone.

★ ★ ★

Combing highway and byway, city and hamlet, Pullman-Standard sought capable, experienced teammates for a vast share-the-work program; sought those essentials—plants with management, men and facilities; sought and found them. And this is the clinching evidence that the plan is good—it works!

Brains worked together, pooled experience to develop sound methods, to perfect tool designs, to synchronize production schedules. In many instances Pullman-Standard loaned supervision to get the job going smoothly. And of every dollar received by Pullman-Standard for a great fleet of 30-ton tanks, 80% is passed along to those suppliers and sub-contractors. Pullman-Standard itself—for coordination, painstaking engineering, exhaustive planning, manufacturing, assembly, rigid tests, and for assuming full responsibility for the tanks' unfailing performance—retains the remaining 20%, which in turn is distributed for labor, overhead, services and Federal taxes.

Participating in that great program on tanks alone are 865 suppliers and sub-contractors located in 206 cities in 25 states—from a one-man shop to a great industry employing 150,000 workers—operating under 5432 contracts from Pullman-Standard.

★ ★ ★

Nor is this chapter of extraordinary achievement the full story of Pullman-Standard's share-the-work program for aiding the nation's war effort. Today, in addition to TANKS, Pullman-Standard has produced huge quantities of HOWITZER CARRIAGES, TRENCH MORTARS, BOMBS, SHELLS of various calibers and sizes, parts for ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUN MOUNTS, AIRCRAFT MAJOR SUB-ASSEMBLIES, FREIGHT CARS for the Army, Navy, and Railroads, and NAVAL PATROL CRAFT.

In addition to that great co-operative enterprise, Pullman-Standard is itself a sub-contractor—chosen to provide great quantities of other matériel essential to the war program; chosen because of particular fitness, long experience, ample facilities, and an intimate, ready-made "know-how" concerning the problems to be faced.

Eager to give "all-out" aid to the nation's war effort, Pullman-Standard opened its doors to all who sought to learn from its experience. Many came and still come—with the result that thousands of ordnance items are pouring forth faster in many plants, because alert manufacturers recognized methods for speeding production and adopted them.

★ ★ ★

Core and heart of this teamwork is Pullman-Standard's 84 years of varied and fruitful experience. Here, truly, are the supple minds eager to tackle knotty problems, the endless resourcefulness of American industry, the stirring capacity to "do it better" that is so characteristic of Democracy inspired to its ultimate best.

★ ★ ★

We long for peace—for a return to the kindly relationships of neighbors; to making things for pleasant, happy living—in place of building instruments of death. To those joyous peace-time tasks think what treasures we shall bring! New methods born of battles! Better ways to make the things we need, learned under the driving necessity of war! New short-cuts, new devices, new knowledge, that will produce new comforts and conveniences of which we have not dreamed! If proof were needed, this is it—that Democracy alone can make a world fit to live in.

13,972 Wager $995,056 at Belmont Park

New York, May 10 (AP).—A crowd of 13,972 took a hike out on Long Island today for the opening day of Belmont Park's 24 day meeting, and saw such things as a 40 to 1 shot win one stake and last year's Kentucky Derby winner, Shut Out, finish sixth in another.

Despite transportation restrictions, which kept the automobile parking lots at New York's biggest racing plant closed and which forced the railroad riding customers to walk more than a mile from the nearest station, the turnout was only 5,090 less than for last year's opener.

Wager $995,056 Thru Mutuels.

While there were fewer on hand, they supported the mutuel machines almost as well as at the recent Jamaica meeting. There, at a far smaller racing plant, the average daily handle was a world record $1,238,299. Today, with an earlier unaccustomed first race post time, which saw many missing the opening dash, the folks tossed in $995,056 after contributing less than $60,000 in two of the first three races.

The longshot surprise was Mrs. Ames, from the barn of Henry Lustig, local restaurateur which made her racing debut by winning the 45th running of the Fashion Stakes for 2 year old fillies at the fancy payoff of $81.90 for $2.

In the 50th running of the Toboggan, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Devil Diver came charging thru the last quarter mile of the six furlong sprint down the Widener straightaway to win by a length. Shut Out, stablemate of Devil Diver, and making his first start since coming down with leg trouble last fall, wound up sixth, four and one-half lengths back of the winner.

Devil Diver Wins by Length.

Devil Diver, carrying 116 pounds and given a slashing ride by Georgie Woolf, picked up $5,625 for finishing a length in front of Mrs. Josephine Grimes' With Regards, which took the place spot from Louis Mayer's Thumbs Up. Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Doublrab, co-favorite in the betting, faded and wound up eighth. Devil Diver paid off at $7.10 for $2.

15,000 AT SUFFOLK

Boston, Mass., May 10 (AP).—An enthusiastic crowd of 15,000 patrons ushered in the Eastern Racing association's trolley car meeting of 60 days at Suffolk Downs today ignoring closed parking lots to make the start one of the most successful in the nine years' history of racing in Massachusetts.

Mrs. D. B. Miller's Incoming, well ridden by the veteran Tommy Luther, just got up to win the feature offering, the $1,500 Winthrop handicap of a mile, by a neck from Glen Felkner's Eric Knight.

Mrs. Sally Miller's Gala Fly ran third, three lengths behind, and three in front of Mrs. W. W. Adams' Arthur Murray.

The mutuel handle was $563,677 against $448,778 a year ago.

THERE'S WEATHER, BUT 650 ARE OUT FOR THAT 1ST GOLF LESSON

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The moonlight was NOT fair last night along Lake Michigan, nor anywhere else in these parts. This fact is set down for the benefit of those citizens who may not have been in town during yesterday's atmospheric dim-out, which reached its climax during the hour scheduled for the first class of The Tribune's annual free golf school on the four courses of the Chicago Park district.

'Twas no night for mariners nor golfers, mates, but, in spite of the dark, wet complexion of the elements, more than 650 hardy souls turned up for their first free lesson in the fundamentals of the game which is expected to become the No. 1 war time recreation of them all. An enthusiastic group of 250, the bulk of them women engaged in war work, were on hand for the instruction in the Marquette park fieldhouse. Approximately 200 answered the bell at the Diversey class room in Lincoln park, which was held in the unusual setting of the park workshop. Classes of 100 appeared at the Jackson park and Columbus park lessons.

They Certainly Want to Learn.

This attendance, in the face of the worst tricks that fellow, the weather man, ever has played on the school in its 11 years, was in keeping with the best traditions of the largest system of group instruction ever attempted in any sport. THE TRIBUNE school has encountered sorry going on the weather side before, but always there has been that faithful, eager bloc which appears, come wind, or snow, or rain.

And they have never been found wanting for teachers, as was proved again last night. Monday is the customary golf professional's day off, yet last night, a goodly number of members of the regular faculty—the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America—were on deck to greet their pupils.

Lesson No. 2 on Friday.

Those same teachers, augmented by many of their colleagues in the section, will be present for Friday night's lesson, to be held at the same four courses, at the same hour —7:15 o'clock.

For the benefit of those prospective pupils who did not make the trip to the classrooms last night, the members of the Illinois P. G. A. faculty will include in Friday night's second lesson all of the principles that would have been highlighted in last night's instruction. Thus, the Friday night class will emphasize the grip and stance, as well as the address and the introduction to the swing. The swing will have its place in the third lesson, scheduled for next Monday night, and the fourth and last lesson, to be held Friday night, May 21.

Bring Just One Club.

The only requirements for joining the school are one golf club, a desire to learn the A B C's of the game, and prompt attendance at the course nearest your home or work. There are no barriers as to sex, age, or ability.

Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois section, was one of the first on hand at the Diversey course. He was aided by his assistant, Wally Ruesch; George Smith, Onwentsia's veteran professional, and Lew Waldron, one of the school's old timers. All four were amazed by the enthusiasm of their pupils, who came in raincoats, umbrellas, and windbreakers. The foursome of teachers spent an hour with their classes, who thus profited by individual instruction.

One of the best teaching turnouts in Jackson park history was on hand at the old south side course. The faculty included Matt Matteson of Ridge; Bruce Herd of Flossmoor, Chuck Tanis of Olympia Fields, George Knox of Calumet, Charles [Red] Dennison of Midlothian, and Bud Matteson of Ridge.

Walsh Still at It.

Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, past national president of the P. G. A. and one of the founding fathers of the school in 1933, and his brother, Packey, pro at Marquette park, took over the teaching job in the fieldhouse of the southwest side park. Bill Gordon of Tam O' Shanter, Harry Adams of Medinah, and Eddie Bush of Oak Park were at Columbus park to extend their regrets for the weather, and to ask west siders to bring their friends out to Friday's lesson.

NORTHWESTERN GOLFERS DEFEAT WEST MICHIGAN

Northwestern's golfing Wildcats, who will be among the chief contenders for the Big 10 championships next Monday and Tuesday at the Tam O' Shanter Country club, yesterday concluded their dual meet season for 1943 by defeating Michigan State college, 13½ to 4½, at Tam O' Shanter. Capt. John Stoltz of the Wildcats, a quarter-finalist in both the national intercollegiate and All-American amateur last year, turned in the low card, a 76. The result gave Northwestern a season record of eight victories, including two over the strong Michigan and Minnesota squads, and two defeats, yielded to Illinois and Notre Dame.

Shirley G. Goes Over at Sportsman's

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Shirley G., a 6 year old mare which had been beaten by the margin of a neck in her two previous starts at Sportsman's Park, figured in another close finish yesterday, but this time the camera showed her the winner by a nose in the Monee purse, main event of the afternoon. She held that narrow margin over the fast finishing Three Bangs. Then came Aljack and Darby Dallas with no more than a head separating any of these first four horses.

Shirley G. got to the post at 7 to 2 odds in this seven furlong dash thru mud. The heaviest betting support went to Knight's Quest II., but this horse finished sixth after tiring.

Estrellita Scores Again.

Shirley G. took command immediately after the break. The pace was forced at first by Knight's Quest II., and later by Yankee Notions, but Shirley G. disposed of these. In the stretch, however, she was a mighty tired horse and Three Bangs moved up swiftly. He just missed catching the leader in the last stride.

Estrellita, a 6 year old mare which has raced very little in recent seasons, continued her comeback by taking the opening event on the program after the favorite, Hasty Star, had bolted out in the back stretch.

Jockey Willie Gillespie brought this 4 to 1 shot home, beating Helen Agnes by a head. Canfield was third. An attack of illness following the race forced Gillespie to cancel all of his other engagements for the afternoon.

Winner Closes Fast.

Hasty Star, which had been established as the even money favorite, took command swiftly just after the start of this five furlong sprint. As they went down the backstretch, however, Hasty Star began swerving far out beyond the center of the track, allowing half a dozen others to dash past him along the rail.

The race then developed into a duel between Canfield and Helen Agnes. The latter forged ahead in the stretch and seemed likely to take it all when Estrellita, closing fast, came on in the short straightaway to win by a head.

Another tight finish developed in the second race when Due Sport completed a daily double worth $27.80. This 5 to 2 shot caught Gayle F., in the last few strides to win by a nose. The 2 to 1 favorite, Mistletoe, was third.

Head Arrives for Meeting.

The first contingent of the Woolford Farm horses arrived at Hawthorne yesterday for the Lincoln Fields meeting which opens Monday. This stable, owned by Herbert M. Woolf of Kansas City, shows considerable strength each spring in the Lincoln Fields stake events. Pig Tails, Technician, and Joe Schenck will be back. If Contradiction's ailing foot responds to rest and treatment, he too, may come around in time for some of the later Lincoln Fields races.

C. Bruce Head, director of racing, has arrived from Louisville to prepare for the Lincoln Fields opening. Track Superintendent Tom Young and James T. Clarke are attending to registrations and allotment of stable space.

HARDER SUFFERS BROKEN ANKLE; OUT 2 MONTHS

Cleveland, O., May 10 (AP).—Mel Harder, dean of the Cleveland Indians' pitching staff, suffered a fractured right ankle bone in last Saturday's game in St. Louis, the team's physician said today.

Dr. E. B. Castle declared the injury probably would keep the veteran right hander out of the lineup for two months.

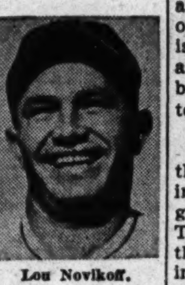
GIANTS AND THREE OTHER TEAMS ANXIOUS TO OBTAIN CUB HOLDOUT

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—Manager Jim Wilson of the Cubs announced on his arrival here early this evening that four National league teams, including the New York Giants, have indicated a desire to pay or swap for Outfielder Lou Novikoff, Chicago holdout. The Cub skipper indicated he is eager to make a deal for the Mad Russian if he can get an outfielder who bats right handed.



Lou Novikoff.

"Novikoff is doing the Cubs no good in Long Beach, Cal., but he could help any team in the National league if he joined up," Wilson said. "Lou is up for trade and the Giants, Cincinnati Reds, and the Philadelphia Phillies recently have made offers. Branch Rickey, while with the Cardinals, frequently expressed a deep interest in Novikoff, and now that he is the big boss of the Brooklyn club, we have not heard he has lost sight of Lou's potentialities."

Want Right Hander in Exchange.

Wilson said the Giants had indicated the club would buy Novikoff in a straight cash deal, but that the New York officials had been advised of the Cub quest for a right handed hitter for the outfield. The Cubs, with Novikoff absent, have only one right handed hitter among the outfielders. Peanuts Lowrey, Dom Dallessandro, Phil Cavarretta, Bill Nicholson, and Ival Goodman, who will join up here Wednesday, all are left handed swingers.

It has been indicated the Cubs will grant permission to the dickering clubs to confer with Novikoff as to his terms for signing with another club in the event his contract is transferred. After all, Lou is still asking 10 grand and the season will be a month gone before Lou can get to work.

Play Giants Tomorrow.

The Cubs and Giants will open their crucial series for last place in a single game Wednesday. Single games also are scheduled for Thursday and Friday, after which the Cubs will move to tougher going in Brooklyn.

Manager Wilson, of course, will continue to use his newly revised lineup, the one which whipped the Reds, 13 to 2 and 4 to 3 in Sunday's double header. Pitching for this Stan Hack-Stu Martin-Eddie Stanky-Nicholson-Dallessandro-Cavarretta-Lowrey-Chico Hernandez crew will be Claude Passeau, who distinguished himself his last time out by beating the Cardinals, 2 to 1, in 14 innings.

Cub Pitchers Ready.

By Thursday, Manager Wilson will have his entire pitching staff available, but probably will pick Hi Bithorn for the second game of the Giants series. Friday's selection will be made with an eye focused on the following three game series the Cubs will play with he league leading Dodgers. The Cubs will play Lippy Durocher's lads a single game Saturday and a double header Sunday.

A week from today the Cubs are slated to open a four game series with the revitalized Phillies. This set of four single games will include the Cubs' first night engagement on May 18. The eastern trip will conclude with a four game series in Boston.

Ted Collins Seeks to Buy Rams Eleven

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The National Football league, at least to date, is just a bystander in Ted Collins' negotiations for the Cleveland Rams, who last month were immobilized for a year, leaving the circuit with nine teams for the 1943 race.

Elmer Layden, president of the league, said yesterday afternoon all he knows of Collins' efforts to purchase the franchise from Lt. Daniel F. Reeves and Maj. Fred Levy Jr. is what he has read in the newspapers. Layden, as president, has the final authority to pass on transfer of franchises and if Collins' offer is accepted by the co-owners the deal will have to be approved by the league members and Layden.

Operated Long Island Indians.

Collins, manager of Kate Smith, operated the Long Island Indians of the American association two years ago and it is believed he would be acceptable to the National league family. His coach was Vern Lewellen, the former Nebraska and Green Bay Packer star.

The Cleveland franchise was frozen for a year at the recent league meeting in Chicago, altho the co-owners had requested such action to cover the war's duration. It has been reported that Lt. Reeves, who controls two-thirds of the stock in the Cleveland club, would welcome an offer. In private life he is a New York chain store grocer. Maj. Levy's home is in Louisville and his main business interests are in Cincinnati. Lt. Reeves is stationed at the Rome Air depot, Rome, N. Y.

Expects an Answer Soon.

On Sunday night, in Los Angeles, Collins said he expected to get an answer on his proposition in 48 hours. He said he would move the franchise to an eastern city if successful in obtaining it.

ILLINOIS RANKS AS BIG 10 TRACK QUESTION MARK

It's Already Scored Over Michigan This Year.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Illinois is the outstanding challenger to prevent Michigan from returning to rule the track and field competition in the 43d annual Western conference meet Friday and Saturday in Dyche stadium. Whatever the Illini accomplish probably will be based on the all around ability of Herb Matter who 10 days ago scored 19 points as Illinois whipped Michigan, 62 to 60, in dual competition.

Michigan is the favorite, of course, because of its victory in the indoor conference meet when the Wolverines won 5 of the 12 events. Michigan has won 18 outdoor championships and had a string of four consecutive triumphs before being displaced in 1941 and 1942 by Indiana and Ohio State, respectively.

Matter Faces Strong Competition.

Matter has no one mark which insures his dominating an event but from this year's competition he seems certain to score in three or four events even if he does not win an individual championship. In the indoor games in March Matter won the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 9⅛ inches, tied with two other men for the pole vault title at 13 feet 3 inches, and also finished in a triple tie for the high jump championship at 6 feet 2 inches.

Bob Hodgell of Wisconsin, who also tied for the indoor high jump, is the defending outdoor champion at 6 feet 4 inches. The other returning champion for Saturday's finals is Dal DuPre of Ohio State, who won the 1942 title in the broad jump at 24 feet ⅛ inch. DuPre did not compete in the indoor meet in the University of Chicago.

Hlad Bolsters Maroons.

To score 19 points in the dual meet against Michigan Matter won the 220 yard low hurdles, 220 yard dash, and broad jump. He tied for first place in the high jump and tied for second place in the pole vault. Matter's most creditable mark was a broad jump of 23¼ inches which, however, is almost a foot less than DuPre's winning jump last spring in the conference meet.

Wisconsin, Indiana, and Minnesota are selected with Michigan and Illinois to complete the first division in Saturday's meet. Chicago, which did not place in the indoor meet, is certain to rate high in the second division because of Charles [Whitey] Hlad, former Michigan Normal hurdler, who now is enrolled in the army meteorology school at Chicago. Hlad probably will win both hurdle races and can place in the short dash.

Hlad proved his superiority in these three races in the recent meet in Dyche stadium in which all the conference universities competed except Michigan, Illinois, Ohio State, and Iowa.

The indoor conference meet results cannot be used entirely to estimate the team standings Saturday since freshmen now are eligible. One of the best of the freshmen newcomers is Don Quellor of Indiana who won the mile and half mile runs in the same meet in which Hlad took three titles. Quellor was inducted into the army last Saturday in Evansville, Ind., and did not compete for Indiana in the quadrangular meet that day but Bob Cook, Indiana sports publicist, writes that Quellor expects to compete Saturday in Dyche stadium by virtue of the usual furlough given drafted men.

Ufer vs. Kelley.

Quellor ran the mile in his Dyche stadium appearance in 4 minutes 22.5 seconds and then covered the half mile in 1 minute 56.5 seconds. Both marks were slower, however, than the times in these events in the Illinois-Michigan meet on the same afternoon. In this meet Ross Hume of Michigan won the mile in 4:19.4. He is the indoor champion. The half mile at Champaign was won by Bill Beile in 1:55.5. Warren Goodell of Illinois was second and John Roxborough, Michigan's indoor half mile champion, was third.

Bob Ufer, Michigan's indoor quarter mile champion, also was whipped in the dual meet with Illinois when Bob Kelley of the Illini ran 440 yards in 48.9 seconds. The battle between these runners Saturday afternoon will be one of the features of the conference games.

Open Meetings Friday.

The annual golf party at Old Elm for the directors of athletics and coaches will be held Thursday. The directors and members of the faculty committee of the Western conference will meet Friday evening at the Orrington hotel and the faculty committee will meet in executive session Saturday.

15 Points May Capture State Track Crown

Champaign, Ill., May 10 [Special].—Fifteen points may win the 49th state high school track and field championship here Friday and Saturday, in the opinion of leading coaches.

Oak Park, which rolled up the staggering total of 83 points at the Maywood district, is expected to have trouble defending its state title. The Villagers have perhaps the greatest mass of track material they ever have had but they miss the top ranking stars they had last year. And it takes individual stars, not team balance, to win the state event.

Geyer's Loss Hurts.

Last year Oak Park won the championship with four firsts, a second, a fourth, and a factional division which added up to 26⅔ points, one of the highest totals in recent years. The champions' loss of George Geyer, 1942 champion at 100 and 220 yards who is not eligible, cut heavily into their 1943 chances. Roy Westgate, pole vaulter, and Ed Foss, shot putter, are contenders for firsts but every other member of the team, on the basis of district comparisons, will have to hustle to place.

Much interest will be centered in the attempt of Wendell Phillips High school of Chicago to carry off the title with a two man team, Ranis Thomas and Claude Young. Young had the fastest qualifying time for the low hurdles, 23 seconds flat, in all the 16 districts. He was third among broad jumpers. Thomas ranked second in the 100 yard dash with a time of 10.2 seconds and ran the 220 in :23.

May Score 16 Points.

If Young and Thomas held their present positions they would score 16 points. Young is expected to have more competition in the broad jump this week, as Frank Brown of La Grange, who leaped 23 feet a year ago for second place, was 2 feet off form while qualifying.

Another two man threat is Hinsdale's combination of Bill Kimball and John Van Eynde. Kimball placed fifth in the 220 yard dash a year ago, and none of the boys who beat him is back. Kimball is also as good a high hurdler as sprinter. Van Eynde ranked fifth in the shot and fourth in the discus in the comparison of all the 16 district trials—15 downstate and one in Chicago.

New Trier has state title possibles, blended in a relay team that ranked second on all district teams; a half miler, Enright, who was second; Ely, shot putter, third; Murphy, quarter-miler, third, and Ludford, broad jumper, fourth.

Then There's York.

York High of Elmhurst might get three firsts and 15 points, if Ralph Johnston came thru in the high jump and Martin Haufe in the shot and discus.

Schurz of Chicago has possibilities with Glenn Whittle, whose height in the pole vault ranked No. 1; Walter Klink and Ralph Dowling, first and seventh, respectively, in the half mile; Alvin Birns, one of the first six in the high jump, and Art Keller, one of the first 10 sprinters.

Five places count in the scoring, on the basis of 5, 4, 3, 2, and 1. The state meet qualifiers include all who were first or second in the districts and all members of the district championship teams who scored points, plus any others who met certain standards. These standards are:

High jump, 5 feet 10 inches; broad jump, 21 feet; pole vault, 11 feet 8 inches; shot put, 47 feet; discus throw, 133 feet; 440 yard run, 53.4 second; 880 yard run, 2:06; mile run, 4:45, and 880 yard relay, 1:34.

Because of the heavy tracks at all centers, few additional performers met the preliminary standards.

PHILADELPHIA'S NEW STORY: A'S AND THE PHILLIES

They're Quite Terrific in Early Games.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10 (AP).—Back at the beginning of this war time baseball season a wise old seer proclaimed that anything could happen in the major leagues this year—but the sage himself probably didn't know how right he was.

For here it is with the season less than a month old and both the Phillies and the Athletics out of the cellar.

And fans, players, and even experts are saying, tho with due caution, that perhaps the end has come to the great Philadelphia victory drought.

Castoffs Help Athletics.

Both Connie Mack's A's and Bill Cox's Phillies are in sixth place in their respective leagues and behind each rating lies a tale. It took the war to do it. Opposition weakened and Connie, his team also hit by the draft:

1. Brought up Jo-Jo White, ex-Detroit Tiger, from Seattle. White now leads the league with 25 hits and is tied for second in runs scored.
2. Hired Jesse Flores of Los Angeles—after the Chicago Cubs had passed him by—and Flores now is being hailed as one of the top craftsmen in his line.

Furthermore, Dick Siebert, finally having shed his knee brace, is fielding with the best, and Pitchers Russ Christopher, Roger Wolff, and Lum Harris look good again too.

"We have first rate fielding tho we're weak in hitting," says Connie. "However, I'm hoping our hitters will find themselves on the western trip."

Maybe Cox Is Right.

Then there's the amazing rennaissance of the Phillies. Last year they got so far behind that a Philadelphia newspaper put them in a league of their own in the standings—the Bush league. Now the same paper hails them under the heading "Phillies ticking—and how!"

The club's Jimmy Wasdell, Danny Litwhiler, Pinky May, Earl Naylor, Danny Murtaugh, and Ron Northey are drawing praise of Bucky Harris, the new manager, and Cox, the Phils' new owner, is sticking to his pre-season prediction that the team will finish sixth or higher.

PIRATES, CARDS TIE GAME WILL BE REPLAYED

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10 (AP).—It took a ruling by League President Ford Frick to satisfy fans and players, but now it's official that the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals will replay their 3 to 3 tie game of yesterday, which was halted after nine innings by the Pennsylvania Sabbath curfew law.

President Frick said the game, because it had gone a full nine innings, would be replayed from the beginning and would not be finished from the point where the teams left off, as is the case in games stopped by the curfew law at less than nine innings.

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh club, set Monday, July 19, an open date, for the play-off.

Yankees Next for Sox—but Who's Afraid?

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who haven't done so much thus far in the pennant race but are hopeful of developing enough strength to catch up with the first division nabobs, are going to see the Yankees tomorrow and they're not even trembling. The champions are in first place all right and James Dykes' lads are acquainted with this fact, but they also know that Joe McCarthy's boys aren't what they used to be.

The Sox are even cocky enough to suspect that maybe the Yanks are having fun at the moment because of having been able to pick on weakened eastern opposition, such as the Athletics and Senators. And even the Boston Red Sox, having no Ted Williams to assist their cause with homers, would seem to have gone the way of the old gray mare. This doesn't mean that the Yanks are a cinch to have trouble. It does mean the Sox might prove they aren't the worst team in the western half of the American league.

Pitchers Are Plentiful.

Altho Bill Dietrich is incapacitated temporarily as the result of being bruised on the right forearm in Sunday's first game and Thornton Lee is the same problem he was last season, Dykes has no reason to be fretful about his pitchers. He has plenty and most of them are of choice grade. However, he is merely an outcast when it comes to hitters, a condition that might force some experimental effort on the manager in the near future.

There isn't much, if anything, the boss can do about getting more power into his infield, but there are guinea pigs available for research among the outfielders. Julius Solters was removed on a nonhitting charge and Guy Curtright now is under observation as a regular. If the latter doesn't produce, Dykes can try Ralph Hodgin, who played a .320 batting tune for the San Francisco Seals last season, or Frank Kalin, who hit .304 for Hollywood.

Lee May Need Operation.

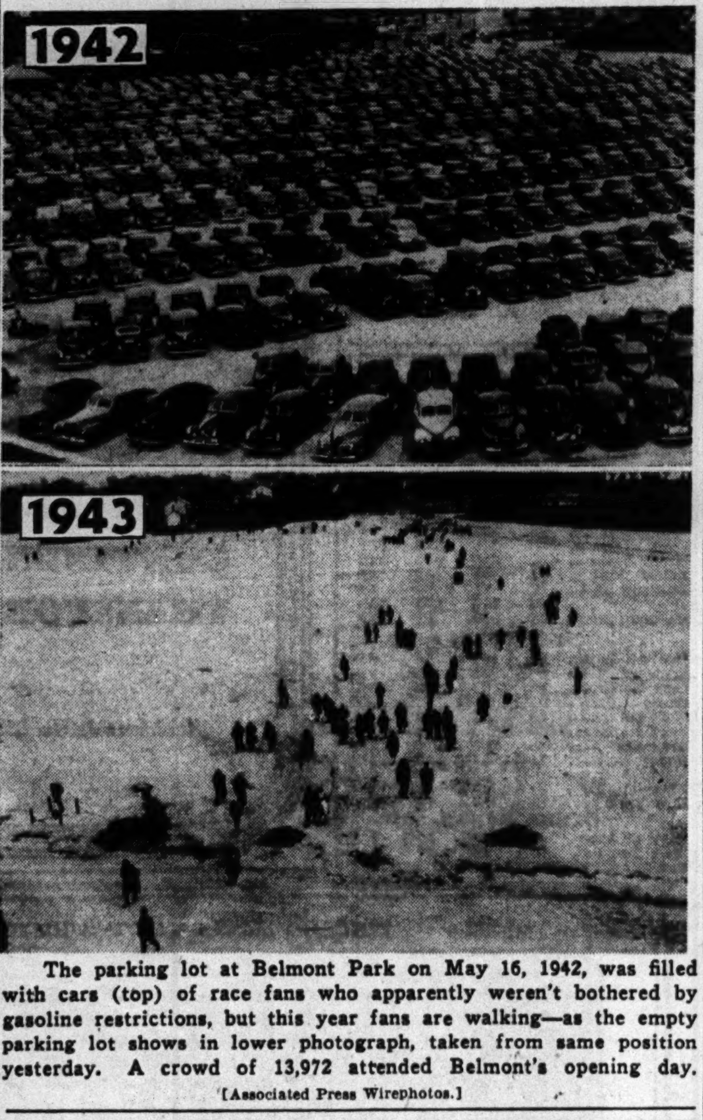
Lee apparently isn't ticketed for mound appearance in the near future. During spring training he was sure he had escaped the ailment that dogged him thruout last season, but in two 1943 starts the arm tightened up after a few innings. X-ray negatives show a bone chip and growth in his left elbow. If more pictures show the same defects an operation might be necessary and that would mean Lee's absence until late in the season.

The Sox will have to contend with the Yankees for three days and next Saturday night the Comiskey park electric plant will go into operation for the first time this year. The opposition will be furnished by Boston. After this engagement the athletes will be able to pack in a few hours' sleep before reporting the next day for a double header. The Athletics will be the third eastern club to show up, followed by the Senators. The latter are booked for a night game May 21.

Amateur League Pilots to Have Meeting Tonight

Managers of teams which plan to join the Metropolitan Amateur Baseball league this season will hold their final pre-season meeting tonight at 127 North Dearborn street, room 401. League officials are looking forward to a successful season, several teams which have played in other leagues in the past having asked for admission to the Metropolitan as a result of other amateur circuits suspending operations. A final schedule will be drawn up tonight.

Times Have Changed!



The parking lot at Belmont Park on May 16, 1942, was filled with cars (top) of race fans who apparently weren't bothered by gasoline restrictions, but this year fans are walking—as the empty parking lot shows in lower photograph, taken from same position yesterday. A crowd of 13,972 attended Belmont's opening day.

Brewers Face Yanks Today in Milwaukee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 10.—The New York Yankees come to Milwaukee tomorrow for an afternoon exhibition game with the Milwaukee Brewers. It will be an off day for the Yankees who open a three day stand against the White Sox at Comiskey park in Chicago Wednesday.

Milwaukee fans will get an opportunity to see such Yankee stars as Charlie Keller, Bill Dickey, Joe Gordon and others, as Manager Joe McCarthy has promised to use his regulars even tho only for a limited time.

Brewers Have Hitters, Too.

The Brewers themselves have a few long range hitters capable of clearing Borchert field's short fences. They include three 1942 home run champions, Bill Norman of the American Association, Ted Norbert of the Pacific Coast league, and Merv Connors of the Texas league.

The Yankee pitchers tomorrow afternoon are expected to be drawn from Bill Zuber, Jim Turner, and Marv Breuer, all former Association players. Grimm may start Prince Oana and follow with Paul Erickson.

The Brewers are scheduled for an exhibition game with the Chicago Cubs in Wrigley field June 8.

SAILORS-BREWERS OFF.

The game between the Great Lakes Bluejackets and the Milwaukee Brewers, scheduled yesterday at the station's Constitution field, was called off because of weather. Manager Charley Grimm of the Brewers said arrangements will be made to play the Sailors later in the season.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL LEAGUE MEET TO OPEN THURSDAY

The Rock-Ola Music Maids and the Gold Crowns are co-favorites in the annual Spring tournament of the Metropolitan Chicago Major Girls Softball league, which starts Thursday and continues for four nights on Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. Profits from the tourney, a double elimination affair involving six teams, will go to the Servicemen's Centers.

Match Brown and Walker in Outdoor Ring

Buddy Walker, Columbus, O., heavyweight, and Clarence Brown of Chicago have been matched to meet in a 10 round bout which will top the opening show of the season in Marigold outdoor arena next Monday.

It will be the 18th card offered by Co-Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun in the combination indoor and outdoor arena this year.

Including last night's offering in the north side club, 17 shows there attracted crowds totaling 21,286. Despite the fact gross receipts were $31,125, the club's books show a $1,800 deficit for 1943 thus far.

The promoters attribute the deficit to extra transportation costs for boxers from out of town and increased purses because of a shortage of talent.

Since Schoenwald and Begun started operations nearly 10 years ago, the club has been absorbing federal and state taxes, but starting with the next show fans will be asked to help reduce the overhead by having part of the tax costs added to the admission prices.

Henry Armstrong was not signed to head the last indoor program of the campaign in Chicago Stadium May 24 because he wanted to pick his own opponent.

BADGERS SCORE 3 IN NINTH; BEAT SPARTANS, 7 TO 6

Madison, Wis., May 10 [Special].—Wisconsin tonight defeated Michigan State, 7 to 6, by scoring six runs in the last two innings after the Spartans had counted six times in the opening inning. The big blow in the three run ninth for the Badgers was Joe Wierschen's homer with Bob Sullivan on base. Ed Butcher hit a home run for Wisconsin in the second.

Michigan State knocked out Bill Wendt in the big first inning, the important hit being Bill Realely's double with the bases loaded. Bob Eisenach held the Spartans the remainder of the way. Score:

Michigan State ....600 000 000—6 9 1
Wisconsin ....010 00 033—7 11 2

Telling the Judge.

"Tell that to the judge!" A little phrase said
In fun or in truth every once in a while.
Come not the sad day, when all justice dead,
The accused are condemned without trial.

Hold fast to the things that mean liberty,
From a freeman's right to the law never budge,
For your freedom and mine are in jeopardy
When you cannot "tell that to the judge."

PETER STIRBIS' 1,594 TAKES PIN CLASSIC LEAD

Peter Stirbis, whose average of 185 was just low enough to permit him to enter the second annual junior individual bowling classic at Archer-35th Recreation center, took the lead in that event by shooting a 1,594 total for eight games across 16 alleys last night. Stirbis wound up with a sparkling 257, which helped give him a margin of ten pins over Howard Maness, young St. Louisan who on Saturday posted a 1,584 total.

Stirbis's total, rolled on the 35th of the 70 squads making up the tournament program, included three games that were far above his average. His games were 179, 234, 150, 225, 192, 165, 192, and 257.

Chicago election campaigns in 1865 were spirited contests. Lovers of fine bourbon were equally partisan . . . even in '65 the firm of Chapin & Gore was establishing an enviable reputation for the high quality of its whiskey.

PACKARD PROFIT CLIMB RETARDED BY TAX INCREASE

Two Chicago Companies Report Less Earnings.

Packard Motor Car company yesterday reported first quarter production was nearly 2½ times the volume of the corresponding 1942 period, but increased taxes limited the improvement in net earnings to less than 7 per cent. Two Chicago companies—United States Gypsum and Beatrice Creamery — announced smaller profits.

George T. Christopher, Packard president, said the company turned out 86 million dollars of aircraft and marine engines during the quarter, compared with a 35 million dollar volume a year earlier. Orders on the company's books exceed a billion dollars, twice the volume of a year ago, and completed government contracts have reached 300 million dollars, he said.

Taxes Are Quintupled.

Packard net earnings for the three months were $1,193,870, against $1,120,322 a year ago. The company set aside $5,540,154 for federal taxes, more than five times the $937,418 for the 1942 period.

UNITED STATES GYPSUM—This building supply manufacturer had first quarter net profit of $1,048,342, equal to 76 cents a common share, a decline of 8.2 per cent from the profit of $1,141,894, or 84 cents a share, a year earlier. Net profit for the 12 months ended March 31 dropped 19.5 per cent to $5,558,764, or $4.19 a common share, from $6,908,750, or $5.32 a share, in the preceding 12 months.

BEATRICE CREAMERY — President C. H. Haskell said that the 5 million dollar volume of sales to government agencies during the fiscal year ended Feb. 28 probably would rise to 20 million dollars in the current fiscal year.

Volume Gain Is Small.

Net profits last year were $1,664,994, equal after preferred dividends to $3.16 per common share, compared with the preceding fiscal year's $1,869,787, or $3.70 a share. Haskell said that dollar sales increased 19.3 per cent to $101,627,726, altho the volume upturn was only 2.6 per cent. Federal taxes were more than trebled, amounting to $3,045,603, against $901,650.

The company announced that stockholders at their annual meeting June 1 would be asked to approve the creation of a new $4.25 dividend cumulative preferred stock issue to replace the 91,317 outstanding shares of $5 stock. A share for share exchange will be offered, and all old shares not exchanged will be called for redemption on Oct. 1, at $102.50.

Cash Position of the

REORGANIZATION RAILROADS

At the present time the dominant consideration in the defaulted railroad bond group should be the rapid accumulation of cash and the indications that treasury positions will continue to swell over the visible future at least. Irrespective of the course of the reorganization proceedings, bondholders should re-appraise their holdings because of this fact. We have prepared an analysis of the net liquid resources compared to the market value of the debts of a number of roads, a copy of which will be furnished on request.

BAD MAN MAKES GOOD

Quietly, patiently, expertly he whittles away on company funds . . . never taking too much at a time . . . always covering up with trick bookkeeping. Pretty soon he'll be ready to quit his job and buy a fine home in Florida.

Is this happening in your firm? You can't be sure, but you can protect yourself from loss with a Continental fidelity bond. Remember—only trusted employees steal; others never have an opportunity.

Employees' dishonesty coverage is but one of the complete range of low-cost insurance and bonding services offered by this strong Chicago institution. Your own agent or broker can give you full information.

CHICAGO MAKES WARTIME HISTORY . . . NUMBER EIGHT OF A SERIES

FIGHTIN' CHOW FROM CHICAGO

. . . a half-billion cans a month

"Irish stew like mother used to make! Green beans . . . biscuits . . . apple pie . . . coffee! Gosh, Joe, fancy getting chow like this a million miles from nowhere! And see what it says on this can? Most of this grub was packed in Chicago. Guess they're doing a job back there, too!"

That's right, Bill—Chicago is doing a job! The food industries of this area, collaborating with the Army's Quartermaster Corps, are daily shipping some 72 carloads to American fighters.

There are thousands of items—from lemonade tablets to sirloin steaks. And each entails a vast system of experiment, production, inspection and transportation.

Beef and pork by the millions of pounds must be boned, wrapped and packaged by types of cuts. Fruits, vegetables and dairy products must be packed in various ways to withstand tropic heat and Arctic cold.

In addition, experts are constantly at work perfecting such miracles as ham and eggs in cans, butter that won't melt at 140 degrees, new dehydrated foods which save up to 90% in shipping space.

Yes, Bill, Chicago is rightfully proud of its part in producing this "fightin' chow". And wherever you are—Alaska, North Africa or Guadalcanal—you can count on Chicago to come through with the "groceries" on schedule.

Commercial credit for firms and corporations, large or small, engaged in production for war or civilian use, is available here. For many years this institution has served the banking, trust and investment needs of individuals and firms throughout the Middle West. Inquiries are cordially invited.

KNUTSON LEADS G.O.P. IN TRADE TREATY BATTLE

HouseStartsDebate on Extension.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The administration's reciprocal trade treaty program had its innings in house debate on extension of the program today but it met a barrage of criticism from Rep. Harold Knutson [R., Minn.], who presented changes the Republicans would make in the program, and others on the minority side.

Knutson's attack, in answer to an appeal for an extension of the measure presented by Rep. Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, covered one-man rule, post-war planning, the WPA, Harry Hopkins and Vice President Henry A. Wallace among other things.

Doughton Heads Defense.

"If we continue to follow the road of economic coöperation," Chairman Doughton said, "our friends and allies will be strengthened in our common fight for liberty and peace, and their confidence in us will be reassured. But if we turn away toward trade barriers and isolation, there will be jubilation in the chancelleries of Hitler, Hirohito, and Mussolini."

Taking his cue from this espousal of the program, Knutson, in the course of his remarks, lashed out at various phases of the program.

"I understand Harry Hopkins will be made secretary of state and he will set up a glorified WPA," Knutson said. "But we are going to change the service. We used to make them come and get it, but now we are going to make them sit down and bring it to them."

Rubber Plans Periled.

Regarding the program's effect on synthetic rubber production, Knutson continued:

"Vice President Wallace, the heir apparent, says it wouldn't be neighborly to produce our own rubber after the war. The synthetic rubber industry will be throttled immediately after the war unless we insure proper safeguards."

Warns of Fire Danger to War Supplies in U. S. Built Plants

David J. Price.

Warnings that industrial plant fires are on the increase and that certain government agencies, despite precautionary devices, are following policies that fire prevention authorities assert will cause vast losses of war supplies in future months, were given yesterday by speakers at the annual meeting of the National Fire Protection association. The organization opened a four day session at the Palmer House.

David J. Price, association president and chief engineer of the bureau of agricultural chemistry and engineering in the federal department of agriculture, reported the trend toward more large losses by fire in industrial plants.

Fire Losses Increase.

In 1942 there were more big loss fires in plants of the United States and Canada than in any other year on record, and in the first three months of 1943 the number of large industrial fires was as large as in all 1942, Price said.

Percy Bugbee of Boston, general manager of the association, told the fire officials, insurance men, army and navy officers, and others attending the meeting that the government is following dangerous policies in some instances.

"I do not like to be a gloomy prophet, but I am willing to predict that in the months ahead we will have a staggering fire loss in war supplies," he said.

Calls Protection Inadequate.

"Because of certain misguided policies in the Defense Plant corporation, the war department, and other agencies, we have been building steadily toward a series of disastrous industrial fires of great magnitude. Many of the plants built for war production are much too large, are of inferior construction, and have inadequate protection."

Leonard Lund, deputy Minnesota fire marshal, reported a statewide tightening of night club and dance hall inspection since the Cocoanut Grove fire killed nearly 500 persons in Boston. However, many places ordered to make structural changes have reported they cannot get extinguishers or materials for safe installations, he said.

U. S. APPEALS OHIO REFUSAL TO EXEMPT HOME PROJECT OF TAX

Columbus, O., May 10 [Special].—Federal attorneys today filed notice in the Ohio Supreme court of an appeal from the state board of tax appeal decision denying tax exemptions to the Laurel Homes housing project in Cincinnati. The project is owned by the federal public housing authority and leased to the Cincinnati metropolitan authority.

Norman M. Littell, assistant attorney general, and Thomas L. McKevitt, attorney for the department of justice filed the appeal, asserting that the tax board ruling was "unreasonable, unlawful, and repugnant to the constitution."

In a 2 to 1 decision on April 12, the tax board held that the exemption could not be granted in accordance with any laws providing such exemptions for properties operated without private profit or for public charity. The Laurel Homes case is the first involving a title vested in the United States, altho there have been several instances in which the Ohio courts have denied tax exemptions to local housing projects.

TWO BIG UTILITY BOND AND STOCK ISSUES AWARDED

New York, May 10 (AP).—A banking group headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Harriman, Ipley & Co., today were successful bidders for a new 38 million dollar issue of first mortgage 3¼ per cent bonds of Public Service Company of Indiana. The bid was 101.0969. Reoffering was planned at 102⅜, subject to approval of the sale and terms by the securities and exchange commission.

The National Power and Light company awarded 242,664 shares of Houston Lighting and Power company common stock to a group headed by Smith, Barney & Co., Lazard Freres & Co., and Blyth & Co. on a bid—the only one received—of $51.85 a share. Subject to SEC approval, the stocks probably will be reoffered Wednesday at $54 a share, less $1 a share concession to selling group members.

Edminister Renominated for Tariff Commission

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt today nominated Lynn R. Edminister of Illinois for another term on the tariff commission, and Sumner Pike of Maine for reappointment to the securities commission.

WIDE CONFUSION LAID TO FREEZE OF PAY AND JOB

Personnel managers of Chicago companies reported yesterday that the large number of inquiries from employés indicated widespread confusion in the minds of workers over provisions of the government wage and salary stabilization program.

The staffs of Chicago federal agencies administering the program have been inundated with inquiries from employers who required clarification of War Man Power Commissioner Paul V. McNutt's "job freeze" order of April 17.

Altho many official explanations have been made since, some of the ambiguous points of the program still have the personnel managers stymied.

Subject to Instant Change.

The program is subject to change without notice and what is true today may be radically altered tomorrow, but here its broad outline as it existed yesterday:

The program is designed to encourage the shift of workers from nonessential work to jobs which the WMC considers essential. Wage scales in effect at the new place of employment will be paid the new employé, regardless of whether this means an increase over his old rate.

A shift from essential to nonessential employment is not permitted if it involves higher pay, but changes from one nonessential job to another are not restricted, regardless of the wage or salary level offered for the new work. A man or woman employed in an essential industry for the preceding 30 days may not take a new job in another essential industry at higher pay.

Several Areas Excepted.

The foregoing provisions apply thruout the country except in areas where labor-management committees have adopted WMC approved wage and salary stabilization plans of their own. These area plans permit shifts from one essential job to another at higher pay. The obvious advantage held by workers in such areas is being corrected by the extension of such individual agreements to an increasing number of industrial communities.

To make a shift from one essential job to another at higher pay in these areas, a worker must obtain a "statement of availability," either from his old boss or from the local office of the United States employment service. The WMC has decreed that the statement shall be issued if the employé is discharged, is laid off for seven or more days, or is not employed full time at his full skill.

Personnel managers expressed a desire for complete clarity on the provisions because of the steep penalties for violation of the order.

WINTER WHEAT CROP ESTIMATE AT 8 YEAR LOW

Prospects for Rye Lightest Since '36.

A winter wheat crop of 515,159,000 bushels, smallest since 1935, was forecast yesterday by the department of agriculture on the basis of May 1 conditions. The department also estimated the 1943 rye crop will be 36,854,000 bushels, smallest since 1936.

The estimated winter wheat crop compares with 703,253,000 bushels produced in 1942 and the 10 year [1932-'41] average of 550,181,000 bushels. A forecast of 558,551,000 bushels was made a month ago.

A yield of 15.5 bushels an acre is indicated, against 19.7 bushels produced last year and 14.3 bushels for the 10 year average. The government report said winter wheat was sown last fall on 37,482,000 acres, compared with 38,339,000 the preceding fall and 48,015,000 acres for the 10 year average.

Rye Far Below Year Ago.

Indicated production of rye this year compares with the 1942 crop of 57,341,000 bushels and the 10 year average of 38,509,000 bushels. The area sown to rye last fall for all purposes was 5,933,000 acres, against 6,465,000 the previous fall, and 6,101,000 for the 10 year average. The area remaining for harvest is 3,137,000 acres, compared with 3,837,000 acres harvested last year, and the 10 year average of 3,293,000.

Acre yield of rye was indicated at 11.7 bushels, compared with 14.9 last year and 11.4 for the average.

The condition of tame hay on May 1 was placed at 81 per cent of normal, compared with 83 per cent a year ago and 78 per cent for the 10 year average. Pasture condition was indicated as 78 per cent of normal, against 83 per cent last year and the average of 74 per cent.

Hay Stocks Are Larger.

The department reported stocks of hay on farms the first of this month totaled 13,398,000 tons, or 12.7 per cent of last year's crop, compared with 11,260,000, or 11.9 per cent, a year ago and 10,531,000, or 12.7 per cent, for the 10 year average.

Acre yield and total production in bushels, indicated by May 1 conditions, among some of the principal producing states were reported as follows:

WINTER WHEAT: Illinois, 16.5 and 17,242,000; Indiana, 15.5 and 15,376,000; Iowa, 18 and 2,952,000; Ohio, 16.5 and 24,668,000; Michigan, 22 and 13,209,000; Minnesota, 18 and 2,358,000; Missouri, 14 and 15,610,000; Nebraska, 17 and 46,648,000; Kansas, 16 and 158,832,000.

RYE: Illinois, 11 and 572,000; Indiana, 12 and 1,333,000; Michigan, 13 and 832,000; Minnesota, 15 and 2,445,000; Wisconsin, 12 and 1,476,000; Nebraska, 11.5 and 5,175,000; Ohio, 14 and 1,134,000; Kansas, 10.5 and 1,281,000; South Dakota, 11.5 and 6,693,000, and North Dakota, 12.5 and 7,188,000.

Major Truck Crops Yielding Less than Last Year's Totals

Production of commercial truck crops to date indicate they will be 13 per cent below 1942, but 2 per cent above 1941 and 5 per cent above the 10 year [1931-'40] average, the department of agriculture reported yesterday.

Production of potatoes, not included in the truck produce report, in the first early states was placed at 2,700,000 bushels, a gain of 438,000 bushels above the April 1 indication and 2 per cent above the average, but 6 per cent smaller than last year.

Predict Small Peach Output.

Peach production in the 10 early southern states was forecast at 9,141,000 bushels, third lowest on record. The department of agriculture also estimated a reduction in the California, Washington and Oregon cherry crop compared with last year.

The truck crop estimate indicated heavier supplies of snap beans, carrots and kale compared with a year ago, but lighter output of other produce. May supplies of snap beans, carrots, green peas, green peppers and spinach are expected to exceed those of a year ago.

Lima beans should be in about the same volume as last year, and reductions are indicated for other crops, especially cucumbers, early onions and watermelons, the department said.

Supplies Should Increase.

Indicated potato production in the second group of early states is 24,984,000 bushels, compared with 19,484,000 in 1942 and the 10 year average of 13,829,000. The department said digging had started and supplies from now on should be large.

The early southern peach crop estimate compared with 1942 production of 19,591,000 bushels and the 10 year [1932-'41] average of 15,108,000. Freeze damage was held responsible for the expected small crop. Unfavorable weather also was given as the cause for the predicted reduction in the cherry crop.

STEEL INDUSTRY TO HAVE LEEWAY IN 48 HOUR WEEK

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—War Man Power Commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt indicated today that provision would be made for exemptions from his 10 day old order putting the nation's steel industry on a 48 hour work week after July 1.

The original order did not mention exemptions, but McNutt told a press conference that regulations being prepared to govern its application would "control exemptions."

The order at first aroused protest from steel industry spokesmen, but last week-end the industry's advisory committee to the war production board indorsed its application "where practicable and where it would serve to increase production."

LANG TO REVIVE OLD FIRM NAME IN SILVER TRADE

Gordon Lang.

One of the oldest names in the jewelry business is being revived in connection with the change in ownership of the business operated for the last 10 years in the Drake hotel by Spaulding-Gorham, Inc. Gordon Lang, who purchased the company of which he was president, said yesterday that its operation as Spaulding & Co. will revive a name first established in 1888. The business dates from 1855 when it was established as S. Hord & Co.

Spaulding-Gorham, Inc., has been a subsidiary of Gorham, Inc., affiliated with the Gorham Manufacturing company. The Gorham interests are withdrawing in the reorganization of the Chicago company.

Pullman Bank to Observe 60th Anniversary Today

The Pullman Trust and Savings bank, sixth oldest among Chicago banks, will observe its 60th anniversary today. The bank was founded in 1883 by George M. Pullman, its first president, and a group of other prominent Chicagoans, including Marshall Field and John Crerar.

FEED SUPPLIES BECOME BIG 'IF' IN FOOD OUTPUT

Live Stock, Poultry Demand Rises.

BY ROBERT YOUNG.

The national supply of feed grains and protein supplements has overshadowed shortages of farm labor and machinery in recent weeks as a major "if" in the outlook for 1943 food production. Food Administrator Chester C. Davis reported last week that labor and fertilizer are adequate and that equipment will be increased, but agricultural sources in Chicago said yesterday that the feed situation is a serious threat to meat, milk, poultry, and egg output goals.

War expanded food demands and the high prices being paid producers have pushed live stock and poultry production far ahead of protein supplement supplies and manufacturing capacity. The record meat animal and chicken population is causing feed grains to disappear at a rate that is considered alarming even in view of huge 1942 crops.

Shortage Put at 20 Per Cent.

Protein feed supplies are estimated to be 20 per cent short of requirements. In addition to increased demand, the causes of this lag include smaller imports of meat scraps, curtailed fish meal production, and diversion of dried skim milk to human consumption. Mills crushing soy beans, flax seed, cotton seed, peanuts, and alfalfa for feed meal are working at capacity, but are not meeting present needs.

The department of agriculture has predicted that 1943-'44 output of oil cake and meal, based on prospective acreages of oil seeds for 1943, is expected to be larger than this season, but with a larger quantity of soy bean meal used for human food, the "prospects are for a slightly smaller supply available for live stock feeeding."

Drains Feed Grain Supply.

The shortage of protein supplements in turn has placed an extra drain on feed grain supplies because larger amounts of grain are needed to raise and fatten animals and poultry as the amount of protein concentrate is reduced. It is estimated that about 60 per cent more corn is needed to add weight

How can I refuse money to my own brother?

When George was alive, he could be firm

George should have named a Trust Company to protect me from myself!

Will the money that you leave your wife go largely to her brother . . . or cousins . . . or dependent friends? As many a widow has learned with regret, when there is an inheritance there are relatives whose "needs" she cannot deny without causing a family quarrel. Yet if she yields, the provisions left for her welfare may be drained away . . . and a quarrel may result as well, because family dissension follows benefits received as well as those denied.

Perhaps no kindness you can do will be greater than protecting your wife from these emotional assaults. By establishing a trust for her now, you may save her not only from financial loss, but from heartaches which money alone could never soften.

UTILITIES LEAD STOCK ADVANCE IN HEAVY TRADE

Some of Recently Strong Issues Decline.

New York, May 10 (AP).—Stocks advanced today in heavy turnover as utilities and scattered industrials that stand to benefit by a shortened war responded to the axis Tunisian disaster with a brisk runup. Rails, aircrafts, and many other recently strong issues declined, however, in late selling.

Power and light company issues dominated the ticker tape at the start on blocks of 1,000 to 20,000 shares, and the first hour turnover of 803,000 shares was the largest since May, 1940. Gains ranged from fractions to a point or more for favorites, many of which touched three year peaks. Volume dwindled later, and a sell-off in the carriers and aviations also trimmed prices elsewhere at the close.

Revise Estimates of Values.

Aside from their peace time rating, low priced utility stocks benefited from revised estimates of their "breakup" value under integration proceedings to be carried out in compliance with the "death sentence" provision of the holding company law. Toward the close there was much cashing of profits on last week's upswing.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.2 at 50.9, equal to the highest mark since April 9, 1940, established last Thursday. The 15 rail composite was off 0.1 at 26.2.

Breadth of the market was exemplified by the fact that 947 individual issues were traded. Of these, 478 were up, 258 down, and 211 unchanged. Transfers were 2,515,490 shares, compared with 2,149,611 Friday, for the 15th 2 million share day of the year to date, last week accounting for five.

Exceptional activity of power stocks on the Curb brought the heaviest activity in the junior market since Oct. 19, 1937, the turnover amounting to 1,258,770 shares.

UTILITIES LEAD BONDS.

New York, May 10 (AP).—Utilities, industrial specialties, and foreign loans rose today in the bond market. Rails were hesitant after posting successive new highs for recent years during last week.

Revival of demand for power and light bonds pushed up the Associated Press average for utilities to a new peak for two years at 102.7, a rise of 0.3. The 10 foreign loans were at a new 1943 high of 61.1. Sales of $17,727,000 compared with $25,880,150 last Friday.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE.

Prices rose on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in a turnover of 60,000 shares. Of 125 issues traded, 59 advanced, 31 declined, and 35 remained unchanged. New highs were reached by 22 issues, including Central and South West Utilities, up ⅛ to 1⅛; Nash-Kelvinator, up ½ to 10½, and Cities Service, up 1⅝ to 14⅝. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation and Radio corporation, down ⅛; Middle West corporation and Commonwealth Edison, unchanged, and Utah Radio, up ⅛.

PARTNERS' VICTORY TAX.

As partners in a business we draw a weekly salary and declare a dividend periodically as conditions afford. Kindly advise if we must pay a victory tax on the salary and also on any dividend we may take.—G. G.

Answer: A partner in a business enterprise must pay victory tax as well as income tax on his weekly or other periodic salary withdrawals and on his share of the partnership net income, whether distributed or not. A salary paid to a partner is not recognized as a salary for income tax purposes but is considered a part of the partnership profits.

Since a partner is not an employé he is not subject to the withholding of the victory tax at the source. Instead, he must pay his victory tax instalment along with the first instalment of his 1943 income tax by March 15, 1944.

JOINT TENANT.

Is it possible to have certificates of stock or registered bonds issued to "Mary Doe or Margaret Doe, or the survivor"? If a certificate is so issued and one of the parties dies, can the stock be sold and transferred by the survivor without taking any further steps?

Answer: The correct way to register a security held in joint tenancy would be "Mary and Margaret Doe as joint tenants with right of survivorship and not as tenants in common." Upon the death of either joint tenant the survivor could have the stock transferred to his name alone by presenting to the stock transfer agent a certificate of death for the deceased tenant and a tax waiver from the secretary of state of the state in which the deceased was a resident.

KNUTSON RAPS ADMINISTRATION TRADE TREATIES

House Opens Debate on Extension of Law.

that trade treaties be subject to court review, Knutson said:

"We used to have the power to go to court and test the constitutionality, but the New Deal told us that wasn't desirable."

Regarding post-war planning:

"We don't know what Stalin will want. We don't know what Churchill has got planned for us."

Rep. Knutson outlined the changes supported by the Republicans. Principal ones are:

1. Congress shall have the right to approve or disapprove the trade treaties.

2. No reduction shall be made on duties which will permit foreign products to enter American markets at prices less than the cost of production of identical or similar products.

Urges Right to Litigate.

3. No reduction shall be made in the duty on a competitive foreign agricultural product when the domestic price of comparable products is below parity.

4. Concessions accorded foreign countries which sign treaties shall no longer be extended to nontreaty countries which discriminate against American products.

5. The right of American producers to litigate complaints arising from trade treaties shall be restored.

Knutson said that all branches of agriculture have been injured by the administration's program. But its extension, he asserted, has been urged by manufacturers of automobiles, automobile parts, machinery, and office equipment.

Rep. Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.] told the house he questioned the "intellectual honesty" of the administration in suggesting to foreign governments that the action of congress on some of the proposed amendments would express congress' position on post-war reconstruction.

Rep. Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.] said the question is one of whether tariffs shall be reduced without congressional approval.

"I hope," he said, "congress will diligently strive to restore government by law in place of government by men."

MARCH EXPORTS RISE 37% OVER FEBRUARY TO REACH NEW PEAK

Washington, D. C., May 10 (AP).—March exports of 931 million dollars were the largest on record, the department of commerce reported today. The previous peak was in June, 1919, when the value of exports amounted to 928 millions.

The March export total was 33 per cent higher than in January and 37 per cent higher than in February. Export totals exclude shipments to American fighting forces abroad but include lend-lease goods shipped.

The value of imports in March amounted to 248 millions, bringing the total for the first quarter to 711 millions, compared with 779 millions in the first quarter of 1942.

SUPPLY OF FEED BECOMES BIG 'IF' OF FOOD OUTPUT

Live Stock and Poultry Demands Increase.

to hogs when corn alone is fed than when the diet is fortified with protein. In addition, the fattening process is slower on grain alone.

Chicago agricultural statisticians estimate that seven bushels of corn, the major feed grain, are being used for every five produced. They predicted an Oct. 1 carryover of less than 400 million bushels, the equivalent of about a five week supply at the present rate of consumption.

Disappearance to Continue.

In its latest review of the feed situation the department of agriculture said that the heavy disappearance of corn is expected to continue, and that the carryover on Oct. 1 may be less than the 492 million bushels last year.

The record disappearance of corn in the United States during the first three months of this year cut total stocks on April 1 to 1 billion 458 million bushels, or only 50 million more than in April, 1942, the department said.

"The prospective 1943-'44 supply of four feed grains [corn, oats, barley, and grain sorghums] is about 10 per cent smaller than the 1942-'43 supply," the government report said. "The number of grain consuming live stock on farms next Jan. 1 is expected to be 5 to 10 per cent larger than on Jan. 1, 1943. In this event, the supply of feed grains per grain consuming animal unit, including wheat and rye available for feed in 1943-'44, may be 10 to 15 per cent below the 1942-'43 supply."

Predicts Strong Demand.

The department predicted a strong demand for feed despite the fact that feeding ratios might be less favorable to live stock producers. It also forecast that increased demands for feed in the corn belt may leave smaller than normal supplies for shipment to other areas.

Earlier, the deparment of agriculture estimated that the combined production of the four major feed grains on indicated 1943 acreage would be 11 per cent below 1942. It said that if 1943-'44 utilization of feed grains is to be maintained at the present level, it will be necessary to reduce reserve stocks, increase wheat and rye feedings, and step up imports of wheat, oats and barley from Canada.

Pastures to Help.

The heavy drain on grain and protein feeds is expected to be eased this summer when live stock are turned out to pasture. It is hoped that with crushing mills operating at capacity a stock pile of vegetable protein can be built for fall and winter needs. Increased imports of grain from Canada and shipments of animal protein from Australia, New Zealand, and Argentina depend upon the availability of transportation.

Similarly, expansion of crushing capacity and the salvage of valuable protein feed from alcohol distillery waste hinge on the amount of materials available.

HOG PRICE AVERAGE IS BELOW PROPOSED GOVERNMENT CEILING

Hog prices in the Chicago stockyards yesterday fell to a level about in line with the $14.50 a hundred pounds proposed ceiling. Prices declined mostly 20 to 25 cents as farmers unloaded stock in the largest volume in four months because of new government threats of lower prices. Buyers paid an average of $14.45, the lowest since Jan. 5.

Most steers, yearlings, and heifers were bought at steady to slightly lower prices.

OUTPUT OF MEAT IN APRIL IS LESS THAN IN MARCH

Meat production in packing plants under federal inspection declined heavily last month, the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday. With the exception of hogs, these plants butchered fewer animals than a year earlier. Receipts of all types were smaller than during March.

The most pronounced shrinkage occurred in cattle and calves.

Altho the hog total for the month, at 4,462,705, was 4 per cent below March, it established a new record high for April.

NORTH WESTERN TRAFFIC IN ORE AT 13 YEAR HIGH

Iron ore shipments over the Chicago and North Western railway last year were the largest since 1929, amounting to 11,957,717 tons, 20.2 per cent more than in 1941, the road's annual report disclosed yesterday. The volume of freight of all types rose 19.3 per cent to 57,635,414 tons.

The line carried 16,872,891 passengers in commutation service, an increase of 16.3 per cent above 1941, and 7,400,467 passengers in all other types of service, an increase of 49.3 per cent.

The Northern Pacific railroad reported March net income of $1,383,905 against $604,723 in March, 1942. Net income during the three months ended March 31 amounted to $3,258,481, compared with $898,874 a year ago. March net income of the Alton railroad was $466,366, against $101,955 in the corresponding month last year.

CANADIAN GRAIN SHIPPED BY LAKE DISTURBS TRADE

Heavy lake shipments of Canadian grain to American ports are disturbing domestic markets, traders said yesterday.

Scattered liquidation developed in oats futures as the result of the large receipts of Canadian oats and the close was ⅜ to ⅝ cent a bushel lower. Wheat was off ½ cent early, but rallied later and finished ⅛ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower. Rye was unchanged to ¼ cent lower after a decline of ⅞ cent at one time.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

May 10, 1943.

THERE is more to the month of May than wildflowers, tree blossoms, and spring housecleaning. In farm fields, early May is one of the busiest times of the year, with spring plowing and harrowing filling every available minute of the men's time.

When we were on the Yorkville farm the other day we watched the powerful tractors pulling three-share plows endlessly back and forth thru the giant fields, each round trip adding a few more yards to the total area of soil being turned from winter's brown to spring black. More than 400 of the farm's 1,332 acres will be planted to corn this season, and about 300 of these acres already have been turned.

Delayed by Weather.

Still the farm manager isn't satisfied with the spring schedule. Last year the men finished plowing on May 6; this year the cool and wet April kept them out of the fields until late in the month. Now they have all the available tractors, plows, discs, and harrows in the battle to catch up with the season. A few acres of the prepared fields have been planted, and the men hope to finish all 400 acres by May 25.

Two small fields originally meant to be used for pasturage this season have been plowed under. A seven acre patch of broom grass near the river bank looked thin this spring, so the men have plowed it and will plant it to corn. A 15 acre field just east of the cattle yard which was seeded to clover last spring, didn't survive the severe winter very well, so the men also have plowed it under. It will be one of the first to be seeded.

Tire trouble is inconvenient to any traveler at almost any time, but when the tire is on a tractor and the tractor is sorely needed for important field work, the inconvenience is tripled or quadrupled.

Use Substitute Tire.

The men on the Yorkville place had an example of this fact the other day when one of the tractor's small front tires blew out. Luckily the men had a rubber tired wagon which utilizes the same size tire as the tractor, so as a makeshift arrangement they shifted a tire from the wagon to the tractor to keep the machine in operation.

The important loss, however, was in labor. One of the men had to be taken off a harrowing job and sent into a nearby town to apply to the rationing board for a tire order. The order was quickly granted. Then the worker had to go to another town to buy the tire. When we were on the farm the manager was preparing to drive to Yorkville, five miles away, to see about getting the necessary tire. He hoped he could find one in stock, because the tire taken from the wagon was not in good shape and would not stand up long under the abuse which a tractor tire must take. About half a day's labor was lost because of the blowout.

★ The GARDEN ★

TWO HUNDRED pounds of seed potatoes were planted in six rows adjacent to the large farm garden the end of last week. The rows of this plot, used exclusively for potatoes and sweet corn, are 225 feet long.

One row was planted to Warba variety, an extra early red type; two rows were planted to Triumph, a midseason white variety; and three rows were planted with Rural New Yorkers, a late type used as a main crop because of its excellent flavor and keeping qualities.

The rows in this plot are three feet apart, and the seed potatoes were spaced from 14 to 16 inches apart in the row. Inasmuch as good drainage is one of the important points in potato culture, the gardener selected the six rows in the center of the plot for his potato location. These rows are the highest in the plot, which slopes to each side.

To increase drainage the plants will be hilled when they reach a height of six inches. As the season progresses the culture of these potatoes will be reported in this space.

The Prudential Insurance Company of America, a corporation created as a stock life insurance corporation by Chapter 521 of the Private Laws of the year 1873 of the State of New Jersey, the charter of which thereby granted was amended by Chapter 40 of the Private Laws of the year 1875 and from time to time further amended by action of directors and stockholders as authorized by the general laws of the State of New Jersey, which has become a mutual life insurance corporation by virtue of the provisions of Article Eight of Chapter Thirty-four of Title 17 of the Revised Statutes, does hereby adopt, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 14 of the Laws of New Jersey of the year 1943, this amended charter setting forth fully and completely all of the terms and conditions of the charter under which the corporation shall hereafter transact business.

1. The name of the corporation shall continue to be "The Prudential Insurance Company of America".

Groel.

3. The business of the corporation shall be that of a mutual life insurance corporation, with all of the rights, privileges and powers conferred upon such corporations by the general laws of this State, and such as may from time to time be conferred by law upon such corporations. The kinds of insurance to be transacted by the corporation are the making of insurance upon the lives or health of persons and every insurance appertaining thereto, the granting, purchasing and disposing of annuities, and the making of insurance against bodily injury or death by accident, as authorized by paragraphs "c" and "d" of Section 17:17-1 of the Revised Statutes of New Jersey.

4. The corporation shall continue to be a mutual life insurance corporation.

5. The duration of the life of the corporation shall be unlimited.

6. The Board of Directors shall exercise all of the corporate powers of the corporation except as otherwise provided by law and shall manage all of the property, business and affairs of the corporation.

7. The Board of Directors shall consist of sixteen (16) persons holding office or chosen as hereinafter provided, and such additional persons as may be appointed pursuant to law. Each director heretofore elected and holding office as such at the time of the adoption of this amended charter by the policyholders of the corporation shall continue to hold office until his successor has been elected and has qualified. After the adoption of this amended charter by the policyholders of the corporation, the first election of directors shall be held on the first Tuesday of the ninth calendar month following the calendar month in which this amended charter shall have become effective pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (c) of Section 1 of Chapter 14 of the Laws of New Jersey of 1943. At such first election four (4) directors shall be elected for the term of four (4) years each to succeed those directors whose terms of office under the provisions of the corporation's charter in effect prior to the adoption of this amended charter would have expired in January 1944. Thereafter four (4) directors shall be elected annually for the term of four (4) years each at an election to be held on the first Tuesday of the same calendar month as that in which the first mentioned election shall be held. At the second such annual election four (4) directors shall be elected for the term of four (4) years each to succeed those directors whose terms of office under the provisions of the corporation's charter in effect prior to the adoption of this amended charter would have expired in January 1945. At the third such annual election four (4) directors shall be elected for the term of four (4) years each to succeed those directors whose terms of office under the provisions of the corporation's charter in effect prior to the adoption of this amended charter would have expired in January 1946. At the fourth such annual election four (4) directors shall be elected for the term of four (4) years each to succeed those directors whose terms of office under the provisions of the corporation's charter in effect prior to the adoption of this amended charter would have expired in January 1947.

8. The method of electing directors shall be as follows:

(a) At least seven months before the day fixed for any election of directors, the Board of Directors shall by a vote of a majority of its number nominate a candidate for each office of director to be filled at such next ensuing election and shall file with the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance a certificate of such nominations giving the name, occupation and address of each nominee. Qualified voters of the corporation as hereinafter defined to a number of not less than one-tenth of one per centum (1/10%) of the number of policies of the corporation in force as set forth in the next preceding annual statement of the corporation filed with the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance may nominate a candidate for each office of director to be filled at such next ensuing election by filing with the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance at least five months before the day fixed for such election a certificate, which may be in any number of counterpart originals, signed and acknowledged by each of them, giving his address and the number of his policy and giving the name, occupation and address of each candidate so nominated, together with a statement signed by each such candidate to the effect that he will accept if elected, and by serving upon the secretary of the corporation at least five months before the day fixed for such election a duplicate original of such certificate and of such statement.

(b) In case of the death, withdrawal or incapacity of any candidate nominated by the Board of Directors prior to election, the Board of Directors shall by a vote of a majority of its number nominate a candidate in his place by filing prior to the day fixed for the election a certificate similar to that required for an original nomination by the Board of Directors, and in case of the death, withdrawal or incapacity of any candidate nominated by others prior to election, such other persons or a majority of them may nominate a candidate in his place by filing and serving prior to the day fixed for the election duplicate certificates and statements similar to those required for an original nomination by such persons.

(c) The qualified voters of the corporation shall consist of every policyholder who is twenty-one years of age or more and whose policy has been in force for at least one year. For the purposes of this section the term "policyholder" shall mean (1) the person insured under an individual policy of life insurance issued upon the application of such person, (2) the person who effectuates any such policy upon the life of another, (3) the person to whom any annuity or pure endowment is presently or prospectively payable by the terms of an individual annuity or pure endowment contract except where the policy or contract declares some other person to be the owner thereof, in which case such owner shall be deemed to be the policyholder, (4) the employer under a policy of group life or other form of group insurance issued to such employer covering his employees and (5) the employer under a group annuity contract issued to such employer and covering his employees. No other person shall be deemed to be a "policyholder" for the purposes of this section.

(d) Each qualified voter of the corporation at such election shall be entitled to cast one vote in person or by proxy. The president, or, in his absence, a vice-president of the corporation, shall preside at the election and the secretary, or, in his absence, an assistant secretary of the corporation, shall make and keep a record of the proceedings. Voting shall be by ballot and tellers to receive and count the votes and to determine the validity thereof shall be elected by a head vote of policyholders and their proxies present at the meeting. Ballots shall be prepared and furnished by the corporation to all voters at the election. No ballot shall be counted unless it shall set forth the number of the voter's policy and be signed by him or by his proxy, and no ballot shall be counted if cast for any person other than one nominated as herein provided. The polls shall remain open in no case for less than four hours.

(e) In case any nomination shall have been made by others than by the Board of Directors, the corporation shall cause notice of the time and place of the election and of the several nominations of candidates to be published at least four times at intervals of not less than one week, the first publication to be not more than sixty days and the last publication not less than fifteen days prior to such election in at least three newspapers published in each state of the United States and in each province of the Dominion of Canada in which the corporation is authorized to do business, one of such publications in each state or province to be, whenever possible, in a newspaper published in the capital city of each such state or province. Such notice shall contain the names of the persons nominated by the Board of Directors and by others at the time of commencement of publication and the death, withdrawal or incapacity of any such nominee or the nomination of any person in his stead before or after the completion of publication shall not invalidate such notice, nor shall the omission of any publication herein prescribed invalidate such notice or the election to which it relates; provided, the corporation shall have made diligent effort to cause such publication to be made.

(f) All ballots voted shall be received by the tellers subject to verification and ascertainment of the validity thereof and of the qualification of the voters, and, in the case of ballots voted by proxy, the respective proxy instruments shall be filed with the tellers. Immediately upon the closing of the polls the tellers shall proceed to canvass the votes. The canvass shall proceed from day to day until completed. All ballots and proxy instruments received by the tellers shall immediately upon the completion of the canvass be placed in sealed packages and preserved by them for at least one year from the date of the election. The person receiving the highest number of votes for each office of director to be filled shall be elected for a full term. In case two or more persons shall receive the same number of votes for the same office, the tellers shall decide the election by lot.

(g) At the conclusion of the canvass the tellers shall report in writing to the secretary of the corporation the result thereof and he shall thereupon make a certificate, duly sworn to, setting forth the result of the election as shown by such report and shall file the same with the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance.

9. Any vacancy in the Board of Directors may be filled by a majority vote of the Board for the unexpired term to which such vacancy relates.

10. The Board of Directors shall have full power from time to time to make, alter, amend and rescind by-laws, rules and regulations for the conduct of the business and affairs of the corporation in conformity with the provisions of this amended charter, and to employ such officers and agents as the Board of Directors in its discretion may determine for the conduct of such business and affairs.

STOCK EXCHANGE EMPLOYES HOLD 8 MINUTE STRIKE

New York, May 10 [Special].—Three hundred employés of the New York Stock exchange whose job it is to man the trading machinery on the floor conducted an 8 minute strike at the opening of business today in protest over the failure of the WLB to approve an 11 per cent pay rise agreement reached with their employer.

When trading started at 10 a. m., enough members were on hand to handle the business, however.
